

Local Bank To Be Remodeled

From $40,000 in 1922, to $750,000 in 1939, officials of the bank declared that additional facilities have become a vital necessity. With more than 3000 available bank officers expect to be able to maintain a more suitable division between the trust and commercial branches of the bank with the new quarters housed in the new quarters.

The firm of Tilghman Moyer Company, Allentown architects and engineers, which has specialized in the design of office and bank buildings for more than a quarter of a century, has been retained as architect and general contractor. Local labor, local supply concerns and local sub-contractors will be given preference on the work wherever possible.

The enlarged and remodeled building will include the latest developments in banking facilities; among which will be fluorescent lighting, new low type banking counters, an increased number of windows, a large public lobby, a Trust Department, a machine room and the reconstruction of one-half of the front portion of the building to conform with the exterior of the present banking quarters.

The new rooms are being planned in keeping with modern standards of bank and trust company operation and layout and will include a number of labor-saving devices and appointments which will make for added convenience and greater security for the public.

The present entrance will remain unchanged and it will continue to be the sole public entrance to the institution. The stairway between the present banking rooms and the Hunter store, leading to second and third floor offices, will be moved to the opposite side of the Hunter room where an attractive entrance will be provided.

The changing of the staircase, as well as the rebuilding of the front of the store building will entail some minor changes in the offices of Dr. Richard P. Noll, located on the second floor, above the book store.

The present book store and the space taken up by the present staircase will be available for the new trust department. Private offices for M. K. Robb, trust officer and assistant to the president; and Mrs. Helen R. Williams, assistant trust officer and assistant-treasurer, are included in the plans. There are private booths for the use of patrons; ample counter space for the transaction of business; a machine room for special operations; toilet facilities and a large vault, which will be two-stories in height.

The new vault will have two rooms, one in the basement and the other at the ground floor level. Each room will be 10 by 10 feet inside, and the vault will be equipped with fireproof doors. Provisions will be made for the installation of regular vault doors at some future date if such equipment is needed.

Additional office space will be made through two spacious corridors on the right side of the present lobby. The interior of the new portion will be patterned after the present building, with marble floors and composition sidewalls and ceilings being specified. The contract calls for completion of the work within four or five months of the starting date, April 1.

The present offices of the president, to the left of the main entrance of the building, are to be entirely enclosed and another office at the main corner of the building will be used for general commercial banking conferences and interviews.

Second Barn Fire Bolsters Arson Belief

siding in the valley, in commenting upon Tuesday's fire, recalled that about three weeks before the Haines fire a stranger visited a small home across the road from the Haines property.

According to this account, the stranger represented himself as an inspector for an insurance company, and after examining the flues and buildings he asked a member of the household where water would be secured if the Haines barn across the road would catch fire.

Before leaving the man is said to have told the family whose house he had inspected that he would report to the agent carrying insurance on the premises that a new flue crook was needed. Investigation revealed that the agent was never informed about the faulty flue, it is claimed. In the light of these facts, the stranger's somewhat odd question about the Haines barn is considered somewhat significant.

The Lucas blaze was discovered about 10:35 o'clock Tuesday night, and apparently originated in the hay mow. As was the case in the Haines fire, the barn was not wired for electricity, and the proprietor lost a loss to account for the cause of the blaze with the exception of the possible cause that has been in the minds of residents of that area for some time—incendiarism.

Neighbors and members of the Undine Fire Company of Bellefonte responded to an alarm, but they were hampered because of a serious shortage of water. Practically the only water available to the firemen was the comparatively small amount carried in the booster tank of the pumper.

State Police at Rockview barracks conducted an investigation into the Haines fire, but so far no report has been released regarding that investigation.

3 Defendants In Court Here Found Guilty

and since it was his first offense he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $50, and undergo probation for a year. In addition he was directed to dispose of the goods at public sale and give the proceeds to the creditors. The jury found Simons not guilty of a second count charging him with secreting the goods.

Charles L. Robinson, of Bellefonte, R. D. 3, charged with resisting arrest, was found guilty by a jury and was sentenced to pay the costs and a fine of $100 or the costs and serve 15 days in jail.

A jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Robert N. Tate, of Lock Haven, charged with responsibility in a paternity case. He was given the usual sentence providing for the support and maintenance of the child.

W. Lee Center, of Howard, entering a plea of guilty to a charge of drunken driving, was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and serve 30 days in the County jail.

According to S. E. Motor Police officer R. J. Crozier, of the Pleasant Gap sub-station, formerly of the Phillipsburg detail, Center's coal truck was seen to zig-zag in an erratic manner along a road near Phillipsburg, January 10, while the man was en route to a mine for a load of coal. Center, examined by a physician, was pronounced intoxicated. Crozier stated.

The defendant's attorney declared that his client admitted having stopped in Port Matilda for several beers, but added that some of the truck's zig-zagging might have been caused by ice on the highway.

Samuel Mollica, of Clearfield, entering a plea of guilty to a charge of illicit relations with a Phillipsburg girl, was sentenced to pay the costs and a fine of $50.

Mollica originally had also been charged with statutory rape, since the girl was under 16 years of age at the time. Although no testimony was given in Court, Judge Walker before passing sentence on Mollica declared that the girl was seriously injured in the matter, in which several other unidentified men were said to have been involved. The defendant's attorney pointed out that the man was deserving of clemency since he was the only one who made a full confession when arraigned before a Phillipsburg Justice of the Peace, and therefore definitely incriminated himself.

Local reaction to the Property Owners' Association stand has been quite strong. Most anglers realize that the property owners have had much to contend with through the actions of the minority of careless, thoughtless, and deliberately destructive fishermen. Most anglers also realize that the patrolling of local streams is entirely inadequate, particularly in view of the vast popularity that has come to this section as a result of the wide publicity given to the Fishermen's Paradise. Many believe that a 24-hour patrol should be maintained along the entire length of Spring Creek, because of the fact that scores of anglers establish camps along the creek during fishing season, and remain for weeks at a time.

Florida investigators who sought to determine the needs of Negroes suffering from effects of the January cold wave still are talking about this one: A woman living at Pampano, when asked the ages of her four children, declared she couldn't remember. Present, she finally said: "Well, I got one lap child, one creper, one porch child and one yard young 'un."

Another speaker heard during the program was Aaron D. Litzell, who spoke on behalf of Jackson-Frischman-Taylor Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Samuel D. Rhinesmith past commander of Brooks-Doll Post of the American Legion. Chairman of the meeting was former Judge M. Ward Fleming.

A prize of $10 offered to the Bellefonte high school student submitting the best essay on Brotherhood Week, was awarded to Richard Walker. The winner was called upon to read his essay at the meeting.

The Junior American Legion and Auxiliary Band, under the direction of Olin Butt, was on hand to play during the program, and Bellefonte Girl Scouts assisted with ushering and passing programs. The meeting closed with an expression of appreciation to the Undine Fire Company for sponsoring the program.

Rev. M. W. Long 47 Years a Pastor

He took a commercial course at Valparaiso and was also employed as a bookkeeper at Joliet, Ill., and at Tyrone before coming to Flemington.

In 1893 he decided to enter the ministry of the Church of Christ and on May 1 of that year accepted the pastorate of the church at Alba, near Troy. Two years later he entered Bethany College at Bethany, W. Va., continuing his ministry as supply pastor. He received his A. B. degree in 1900 and his A. M. degree two years later.

Subsequent pastorate took him to New Martinsville, Fairmont and Clarksville, W. Va., to Pittsburgh's Hazelwood church, to Charleroi, and then to the Mill Hall charge.

His longest pastorate was at Clarkburg where he remained for ten years. At Charleroi, he served for seven years, and at the Mill Hall charge he has been pastor for nine years.

Under Mr. Long's ministry, both at Mill Hall and Flemington, the churches have prospered. A church debt of $17,000 at Mill Hall has been reduced to approximately $2,000 since he went there.

Mr. Long and family expect to move from the Mill Hall parsonage to the Long home at Howard following his retirement.

plasterboard; the walls have been cleaned and painted; a row of built-in cupboards has been erected for storage purposes, and a wash room has been installed.

Settees, need furniture, chairs, tables, desks, a phonograph, and many other articles of furniture have been placed in the room, while a small stove supplies ample heat. The room is in use nearly every night as a meeting place for the various Girl Scout troops and organizations. A flood light installed at the entrance to the building gives ample light to persons traversing the alley to and from the headquarters.

Part of the wall space at the headquarters is taken up with photographs, insignias, trophies and other items pertaining to Scouting, and what was formerly a dreary storage space for cars is rapidly being converted into a cheerful, cozy, well furnished meeting place for Bellefonte's Girl Scouts.
