THE SCISSORS GRINDER

Ting-a-ling, a-ling, ting-a-ling, a-ling

Way down the street hear the bell ring.

Scissors to grind, scissors to grind.

Any scissors to grind, today.

He'll tighten a bolt or fix a nut. Then grind your scissors so they will cut.

He'll grind your scissors and your knives too.

Then ask for a quarter and say "Toodle-oo."

Then down the street he will go on his way.

Ringing his bell which just seems to say,

"Scissors to grind, scissors to grind."

Any scissors to grind today.

This poor old man walks many a mile.

But he always greets you with a sunny smile.

When you open the door you will hear him say,

Got any scissors to grind today. L. S.
