--Where SCIENCE Fears

to Tread...

The old saying that "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread" might well apply to the casual manner with which people ac-cept medicine containing thyroid, and the claims made by makers of such remedies. Thyroid in any form should not be taken except under the direction of, and CONTINUED OBSERVATION of your doctor.

Your doctor will tell you that every person who needs thyroid gland treatment, is an INDIVIDUAL problem and requires careful study before the proper dosage can be determined, and that careful supervision is necessary to be sure of results. Science treads lightly and slowly.

The fact is, your physician has too much respect for the potency of various gland substances to use them indiscrim ately. They have their scientific uses, and are achieving ex-cellent, useful results where indicated, but they certainly are not something with which the layman can tamper.

To take thyroid substance without scientific supervision is foolhardy and may result in chronic trouble. Thyroid is not a universal "reducing medicine." It is a potent, powerful, necessary substance, which may be a boon to health, if ad-ministered properly—WHEN NEEDED. But only your doctor can determine whether or not you NEED it.
