REV. KEENER IS SPEAKER AT BACCALAUREATE SERVICE

"Meeting the Challenge" was the theme of the baccalaureate sermon delivered in the Lutheran church Sunday night by the Rev. D. R. Keener to twenty-five graduating students, their friends and relatives.

In this sermon which grew out of the class motto "We are ready," the Rev. Mr. Keener called attention to these problems awaiting solution today, fear must be supplanted by confidence, chaos by order, ugliness by beauty, waste by conservation, and hate by love.

To accomplish these ends the world needs more people with "spiritual insight, intellectual preparation, and moral passion."

The graduating class, garbed in gray academic caps and gowns, the faculty in gowns appropriate to their degrees, and the underclassmen entered the church during the professional hymn, marshalled by Alice Slack and Mark Jordan, junior students elected to the seniors for this occasion.

The Lutheran church choir, directed by Donald Shope, sang an anthem appropriate to the season and the Rev. C. C. Otto host pastor, conducted the devotions.

Neuritics Find Relief

GREAT RELIEF REPORTED WITH USE OF RUX COMPOUND—Prominent People Tell of Amazing Experiences.

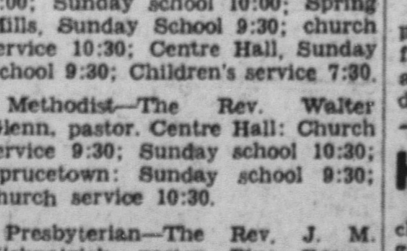

Sale of RUX Continues At White Brothers Drug Store

Now relief from distressing Rheumatic, Neuralgic and Neuritic Pains may be had quickly and pleasantly. Thousands of sufferers are reporting amazing relief with the use of RUX Compound, a remarkable internal medicine.

An Amazing Experience

The actual experience of these people can tell you more than anything else, the high esteem in which RUX Compound is held by users. Mr. H. Beckett, 317 Park Ave., Williamsport, Pennsylvania, relates his relief from Neuritic Pains by using RUX.

"For quite some time my one aim has been to find relief from the pain in my right fore-arm, but the many different medicines I tried did not give me much encouragement. At times, the pain was so great I felt as though I had had to hold my arm in a parallel position. I decided to give RUX Compound a trial, although from my past experience I didn't dare raise my hopes too much. I was pleasantly surprised when I realized that this medicine was really worthwhile. And as the days went by, I continued to feel more pain relief. RUX Compound certainly "passed the test" with me, and I intend to continue taking it."

Mr. H. Beckett
