

16 Are Granted U. S. Citizenship

A few well chosen words. Mrs. John G. Love, the State Chairman of the Correct use of the flag, then led in giving the pledge to the flag. Mrs. Krader, supervising principal of music in the Bellefonte schools, conducted the singing of a verse of "The Star Spangled Banner," one of "America," and of "God Bless America," after which each new citizen was presented with a copy of the D. A. R. Manual for Citizenship and an American flag, and urged to read the manual. The exercise was closed with prayer by Rev. Clarence E. Arnold, pastor of the Lutheran church.

Those who passed the requirements for citizenship were: Blazey Macraia, Clarence James Brun Heime, State College; Giuseppe Favuzza, also known as Joseph Favuzza, Bellefonte; Wilhelmine Kaldorf, Munsing; Augusta Barbara Schwab, Phillipsburg; Pietro Passuelia, Clarence; Ernest George Stern, State College; Victor Hugo Thies, Phillipsburg; Elma W. Wenzel, Bellefonte; Carmela Stoster, Snow Shoe; Fedor Cruchan, also known as Frank Shurman, Phillipsburg; Henrietta Askey Forbes, Phillipsburg; Olive Poulos, Hannah Furnace, and Andy Svabik, Snow Shoe.

Following is the text of Judge Walker's address as he conferred full citizenship rights upon the class: "The hectic events on the Western Front in France are shaking the world with the impact of an earth quake, rocking the foundations of twentieth-century civilization. Instinctively men everywhere begin to realize that the struggle now being fought out on the plains of France is no longer one of the countless European wars for strips of territory or national aggrandizement, but a life-and-death struggle between two cultures, two ways of living and dying, two moral concepts and two systems of social, political and economic organization. The outcome must not only demolish the present balance of power in the world but determine the future shape of the world."

That this struggle has assumed such a world-wide ramifications is boldly proclaimed by Adolf Hitler himself and reaffirmed by every word that comes from National Socialist Germany. This new Germany is now breaking beyond German frontiers with the elemental force of an exploding volcano, the fires of which are testing the fitness of the existing world order to survive. It threatens to engulf France and Great Britain, as it did Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, the Netherlands and Belgium. That they came first is owing merely to the accident of geography which places these countries as the first obstacles in the path of the National Socialist world revolution.

The philosophy advanced by this movement is entirely different from our own philosophy. All that we hold dear in this country is immediately suppressed. Their domination creates the threat of slavery. Ours is the hope of freedom. This change is so rapid in the world today that the allegiance of the citizens of a country may be to a certain government and then tomorrow to another.

A signal honor has been conferred upon you in admitting you to the citizenship of this country. This privilege is sought by many but the number accepted each year is growing less due to restrictions on admission to this country. What motives may have prompted you in seeking this honor, I am not aware. I trust that they are worthy ones, such as urged the founders of our country to settle in what was then a new world. Mere monetary gain or selfish reasons could not have been their incentive, for this land was only a wilderness. Religious persecution and other obstructions of freedom were some of the prime movers in the settlers of our land. At the time of the adoption of the Constitution, sought-after and fought-for rights were especially set forth in the first amendments to this instrument. In enumerating some of them, as, freedom to worship God according to the dictates of one's conscience, freedom of speech and of the press, to assemble and petition the government for redress of grievances, the right to keep and bear arms, the right of persons to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, trial by jury of peers and a speedy and public trial, prohibitions against excessive bail and fines and the imposition of cruel and unusual punishments, and the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, strike one with an importance when viewed in the light of present-day conditions throughout the world.

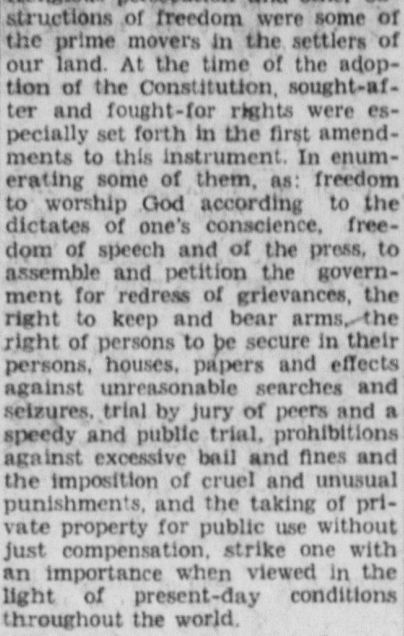

These rights still prevail in this country because it is still a democracy, but in those countries where dictators hold sway, they were immediately suppressed.

There are individuals at work here in this land now, who are attempting to destroy these inalienable rights. We want nothing of Nazism, Fascism, Communism. We are only interested in Americanism and the preservation of that government, so well defined in those immortal words of our beloved President, Abraham Lincoln, when he said that this was a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." In swearing allegiance to this country that is what is meant, and the duty of maintaining that form of government becomes yours now, as well as ours.

The conferring of citizenship is not only a privilege but carries with it an obligation and that obligation is just as important in these trying days as the many benefits which accrue from being a citizen of this country. You may have to fight for this country to preserve our institutions. You should not become a citizen unless this is clear in your mind when taking the oath of allegiance.

What this country means and what citizenship in this country means is well expressed in the words "I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." This is still one of the few countries in the world where this idea continues and we should be thankful to live in a country where liberty and the right to worship God still prevail.

EASY, COOL COMPANY MEALS WITH AN ELECTRIC ROASTER

A roaster dinner that will delight your guests and yet be mighty easy on the cook—Fricassee of Chicken, Baked Potatoes, and Lima beans and Corn—all cooked to perfection and topped off with a yummy Cherry Pie!

Company coming for dinner - that used to mean mother would spend most of the day in the kitchen fussing and stewing over the stove, and worrying for fear things would turn out just so. But since mother brought an electric roaster, the whole problem has become simplified. She plans her meal so that most of it cooks at one time in the roaster—perhaps all of it. At serving time, everything is ready to dish up at once—done to a turn. The automatic temperature control has made it unnecessary for mother to peek and poke at the food—she serenely entertains her guests, perfectly confident that the roaster can take care of the cooking. It's easy to stay cool and calm when the kitchen doesn't become overheated. The heavy insulation of the roaster holds all the heat where it belongs—inside the roaster.

Here's the sort of company meal mother is serving these days. And, incidentally, she's winning new laurels as a cook and hostess.

Black Moshannon May Be Defense Center

Black Moshannon port is one which authorities believe, will help the government reach the place where it can be prepared for "any eventuality."

The Black Moshannon airport is large enough to accommodate the largest of airliners and the biggest of military bombers. It is one of the comparatively few ports which can be used for this purpose. It is known as an intermediate airfield conveniently placed for safety landings by any planes encountering bad weather over the central part of the Keystone state.

"Perhaps it was chance, and perhaps far-sightedness, but the fields (including the Martinsburg airport, 60 miles to the south) today regarded by many military experts as the most ideal existing ports for development as gigantic air bases," it has been stated.

The establishment of the Black Moshannon base is regarded as far-sightedness and not chance. The idea was planned and location was selected back in 1932. Now, the field is sharply in focus in connection with defense plans.

The committee investigating the state's aerial defenses was created on the last night of the recent special session of the legislature. It was May 15, and Hillier's move against France was just 6 days off. So apparent, however was the effectiveness of the Nazi war machine that the committee was hastily appointed. The committee is meeting today, under the chairmanship of Rep. E. Kent Kane, (R. McKean) to get down to serious work. Some linking of the finding in store for the committee was given during the special session when another joint committee which has been investigating the State Bureau of Aeronautics, pointed out that no single airport in the state had any semblance of defense.

Following a 30-day investigation the committee will report to the governor and the committee will then turn its findings over to the federal government for consideration in mapping defense plans. In the old days of infancy in air arms, the surrounding area of central Alleghenies was known as the "aviator's graveyard." It has now been years since a plane has crashed near here and a pilot lost his life. With the construction of the Black Moshannon airport, known as the largest in the state, with its lighted haven of safety, the old treacherous unmarked air trails are done away with and it is hoped that never again will a pilot crash in the central Alleghenies.

Three boys cleaned the front of J. W. Laine's garage at Coalport gratis—but they had plenty of incentive. The "superheroes" was Chief of Police George Reacock who accused them of smearing the door with butter.

Although three months have elapsed since that crime, and although police have been working steadily since that time, the case is still as deeply veiled in mystery as ever. Mrs. Taylor is believed to have been the victim of a sex pervert, since her body showed evidences of mutilation.

County Growers Sell Wool Crop

George Wilson, Zion; Malcolm Muser, Bellefonte, and William Campbell, Centre Hall.

Mr. Dale states that arrangements are being made to load at Shope's warehouse at Bellefonte next Wednesday, June 26. The warehouse will be open from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.

For a number of years growers from Millin county have brought their wool into the Bellefonte pool. Assuming about the same amount of wool is consigned by the growers as last year, this sale of wool will amount to approximately $6,000.

All wool growers of this county as well as Millin and Clinton counties are urged to take advantage of this cooperative method of selling wool.

Additional information can be received from any officers of the association and from the Agricultural Extension Office at Bellefonte.

Detectives Turn To Taylor Murder

and to close relatives and others Saturday and Monday after he had an opportunity to contemplate the possible consequences of such statements.

They expressed some disappointment in the attitude of some Mt. Eagle residents, pointing out that while the public has been clamoring for a solution of the crime, many persons refuse to believe the self-confessed suspect had any connection with the slaying. They asked such persons to keep an "open mind" in the matter and to reserve final decision until all the facts have been made known.

Millinder's father and two brothers from Wallacetown, Clearfield county, visited the youth in jail Saturday morning. After they had talked over the case with the youth, they seemed forced to believe it. Sheriff Edward R. Miller quoted them as saying: "When he tells it with his own mouth, what can you do but believe it?"

If Millinder, under the guidance of his attorney, continues in his plea of "not guilty" the case will be tried before a jury at the regular September term of court. If he should decide to enter a plea of guilty in court, the Commonwealth testimony would be heard by the judge, without a jury, to determine the degree of guilt. District Attorney Muser W. Gettig said yesterday. In such event the judge would decide whether he was guilty of first degree murder, second degree murder, or voluntary manslaughter.

A first degree murder charge is indicated in this case, Gettig said, because the laws provide that murder committed during the perpetration of or attempted perpetration of arson, robbery, rape, burglary or kidnaping, is defined as murder in the first degree.

Millinder has repeatedly denied that he had any relations with the Gates girl, although he allegedly admitted that the struggle in her car began when he attempted improper advances.

Detectives related that after he had made his confession to the crime, Friday morning, he appeared happy and ate with apparent enjoyment a meal served at the State Police sub-station. The youth, who complained that he had not been sleeping well of late, has been sleeping soundly since his incarceration in jail. He spends his days reading Western magazines, and on one occasion is heard to sing, Sheriff Miller stated.

With the Gates case considered solved by police, detectives expect to devote their entire time to the solution of the slaying of Rachel Taylor, Penn State co-ed, on March 28. The freshman student, a resident of Wildwood, N. J., was found dead on the driveway of the Lemont school the morning after she left her home in New Jersey to return to State College.

Although three months have elapsed since that crime, and although police have been working steadily since that time, the case is still as deeply veiled in mystery as ever. Mrs. Taylor is believed to have been the victim of a sex pervert, since her body showed evidences of mutilation.
