Millinder, who State Police claim slew the Gates girl after he had accepted her invitation to ride to his home, had a brief respite from confinement in one of the steel cells at the county jail last Tuesday when he was taken to the offices of Justice of the Peace Harold D. Cowher, on East Bishop street, for a re-hearing.

The new hearing was given the defendant because of a technical complaint lodged by Millinder's attorney in regard to the original preliminary hearing. At that time, the attorney alleged, an error in procedure resulted because the Justice of the Peace did not ask the defendant for names and addresses of the witnesses he expected to call when the case comes to trial.

Although the omission was not regarded by Commonwealth officials as being a major one, the new hearing was decided upon to remove any possible future objections to the manner in which the case was conducted in its early stages.

At the original hearing on June 17, When Justice Cowher asked Millinder to name his witnesses he named William A. Miller, the prosecuting detective, Pvt. Hannah and Sheriff

At last Tuesday's hearing the testimony of Sheriff Miller, Detectives William A. Miller and Charles J. Hannah, and Richard Wallace was heard and recorded, as was the case
