

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

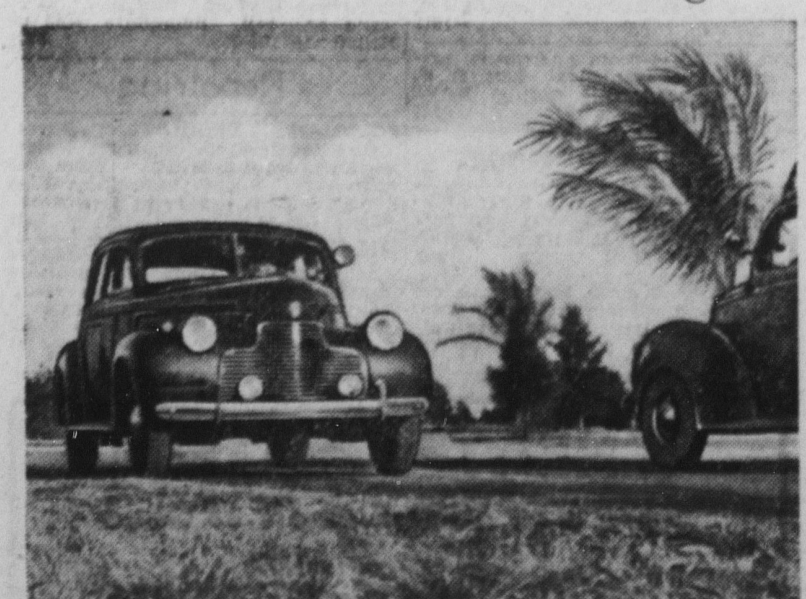

The widow of Alfred Andrews gave birth to a baby girl last week. The Fourth of July did not pass without a shower. Martin Herr, of Salona, an ex-treasurer of Clinton County, fell from a cherry tree last week and sustained injuries from which his recovery is considered doubtful. The Phillipsburg electric light station was paralyzed last week by a flash of lightning. This is the third accident of the kind that has occurred, each time doing over $500 damage. Mrs. Mary Quigley, wife of Capt. J. A. Quigley, of Eagleville, and mother of H. C. Quigley of this place, died Saturday, June 29th, of consumption. She had been suffering for a number of years from the dread disease. The Bellefonte Nail Works is shut down at present to make necessary repairs. The demand for nails is not so large at present, and a rest during the warm weather is not objectionable to the man who must work by the fires. James McClain and brother, of this place have purchased a large tract of land situated on the south side of Nittany mountain, near Centre Hall. The tract is a portion of the Gordon estate and contains some fine timber. It is their intention to erect a sawmill and begin operations at once. Mr. Will Brew, who was a member of the graduating class at Penn State College this year, left on Saturday evening for Pittsburgh where he has obtained a good position. Preparations are being made for remodeling the Brockerhoff House. A mansard roof is to be added which will give the building an imposing appearance. The Bellefonte Orchestra furnished the music for the P. S. A. hop at Tyrone on the 4th. Their playing was generally admired. The Reformed congregation of Bellefonte expects to hold the annual Sunday School picnic July 6 in Hess Grove, near Linden Hall. Attorney Wilbur P. Reeder, who had been on the invalid list a short time recently, is about again, but is still a little pale. A fourteen-inch trout caught by John Wagner, is an attraction in the aquarium at Greens Drug Store. The Brockerhoff and Reeder families are being overhauled and re-

Three new lookout towers for detecting forest fires in Centre County were to be built during the summer, by the Central Forest Fire Protective Association. Secretary R. A. Smith and Forester W. H. Horning of Snow Shoe, were seeking suitable sites for the three towers. Stanley R. Valentine, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Valentine, of Bellefonte, and Miss Deborah Silbee, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Silbee, of Syracuse, N. Y., were united in marriage in an Episcopal church at Syracuse. Mr. Valentine held a responsible position with the Semet-Solvay company in Syracuse. Mrs. C. D. Tanner, of Bellefonte, who was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Boyle, in Hazleton, had the unique experience of receiving a letter from her son, Forrest, in Bellefonte, sent by airplane and more than 1000 miles in an Episcopal church at Syracuse. The message was picked up on the street by a boy who saw it fall and was delivered to Mrs. Tanner. In one of the most daring robberies ever committed in Bellefonte, yeggmen cracked the safe in G. M. Gamble's flouring mill and secured $600 in cash and more than $1000 in checks. After entering the building by forcing a door, the robbers drilled a hole through the combination of the safe, poured nitroglycerine in the hole and touched off the charge after stacking bags and rugs around the safe to muffle the sound of the explosion. The blast blew the safe door entirely off its hinges. The robbery was discovered by Charles Smith, the first to reach the mill that morning. Police were conducting an intensive investigation. Mrs. Rachael Miller, mother of Mrs. Langer Wan, of Bellefonte, suffered painful injuries at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Noll, near Pleasant Gap, when a heavy barn door fell on her keeping her imprisoned in a painful position for nearly an hour. Mrs. Miller, who was 78 years old, had taken the Noll family dog to the barn and tied it to a door leaning against the barn. In his efforts to get away the dog pulled the door over and Mrs. Miller was caught beneath it. A passerby eventually saw her and secured assistance. The aged wo-

Preview of Summer Driving

Between January and May, this year, The Atlantic Refining Company used Florida's summer-like climate to test the warm-weather performance of new Atlantic White Flash PLUS. After 100,000 miles each—equal to 10 years of driving—low-priced stock cars still gave practically new-car mileage, pick-up, anti-knock and top speed performance! (Adv.)

of naming a health officer was delayed until the next meeting, when further information will be available. Councilman John Weber declared that since new traffic signs have been placed along borough streets, the police department should be provided with stop watches and other equipment and instructed to arrest speeders. Mr. Brockerhoff opposed anything suggestive of a "speed trap," claiming that when the new white police car is in service, it will act as a deterrent to over the speed laws. Burgess Hardman P. Harris appeared at Council and reported that a number of overtime parking tickets issued to out of town residents had been returned by them with messages indicating they regretted having violated a borough law. Several persons from Bellefonte to whom tickets have been issued have not returned their tickets or made any arrangements to pay their fines, the Burgess reported. This led to a discussion as to who should be fined; some Councilmen contending that all persons residing outside of the borough should be granted consideration, while other Councilmen held that residents of surrounding townships are familiar with Bellefonte traffic laws and should be required to obey them the same as local residents. Fred Fisher, manager of the local theatres, appeared at Council to ask that medicine men, herb doctors, and specialty salesmen who obtain licenses to sell their wares on the borough streets, be prevented from setting up their stands on East High street, near the Bellefonte Trust Company building. He contended that last Saturday night the crowd gathered in front of one such stand was so large it blocked the sidewalk and street, and forced persons wishing to go to the State theatre to detour through the Court House yard. He claimed that the receipts at the theatre that night were $108.47 less than for the previous Saturday, and that they were lower than the average for four previous Saturdays. Several Councilmen expressed the belief that such shows were a nuisance and that the $5 license fee obtained from them did not offset the traffic congestion they cause, and the business they take away from legitimate business men in town. No action in the matter was taken. Guy Bonafato appeared at the meeting to complain that a neighbor had built a chicken house within 18 inches of the wall of his home, and asked that Council take some steps to remedy the condition. The matter was referred to the health officer for investigation. An offer by a local paving establishment to rent the borough roller for a month was rejected on the grounds that the roller may be needed in town and that it should be operated only by the regular borough operator. The ordinance controlling the erection and maintenance of signs along Bellefonte streets was given its final reading, but was not approved until several of its provisions have been made clear. The finance committee and the borough solicitor were instructed to study the ordinance and make any recommendations necessary. Councilman John Weber was named by President Thomas B. Beaser to serve a five-year term as a member of the Bellefonte Borough Authority taking the seat formerly held by Harry Badger, whose term has expired. The Borough Authority was created to construct, operate, and maintain the borough's sewage disposal plant. Officer Donald Johnson was present to submit the police report for the past two weeks. The report showed that a total of 66 tickets were issued for traffic violations; there were two arrests for drunkenness, and 1 for disorderly conduct. Twelve persons were given temporary lodging in the lock-up and a number of complaints were investigated. Dog catcher James Marshall reported the collection of $4 in fines and said that 7 pairs of ears had been sent to the state for the collection of bounties. Councilman Brockerhoff declared that he feels the office of dog catcher could be abolished and that police, with the new car at their disposal, could maintain a regular check on dogs. The finance committee reported as follows: Borough department, balance, $1,412.88, and bills, $1,248.59; Water department, balance, $1,026.09, and bills, $283.83. Council approved the erection of stop signs at the corner of Howard and Spring streets, and approved the installation of reflectors on the stop sign at the corner of Water and Linn streets. The Water committee reported collection of $262.14, noting that total collections to date are $11,051.23. Outstanding taxes now due total $5,505.88, it was reported. The Market committee noted the collection of $7.30 in market fees.

PENN STATE MEN TALK ON POULTRY PROGRAM

Five members of the agricultural faculty at the Pennsylvania State College, appeared on the program of the Poultry Science Association in Ithaca, New York, last week. The Penn State men participating were John Vandervort, C. O. Dossin, and F. H. Leuschner, of the poultry extension staff; G. F. Johnson, extension specialist in visual education, and P. H. Margolf, instructor in poultry husbandry.

Harold L. Crabb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester M. Crabb, of Millheim has enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps for a training period of three years. At this time he is stationed at Langley Field, Virginia.

Work on the two bridges in Penns Valley is progressing favorably. With two abutments of each structure practically finished, one more remaining for each, after which steel work and approaches will be given attention. Rainy weather has delayed the work considerably.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Felding became the parents of a daughter born last Friday at their home in Flemington, where they recently moved. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rice of Zion, are celebrating the birth of a daughter Wednesday at their home. Mrs. Felding and Mrs. Rice are sisters, and before their marriage were the Misses Beulah and Mary Detrich.

William McMullin, Jr., of Millheim, was taken to the Lewistown Hospital last Thursday morning for observation and treatment. In their examination it was found that several surgical operations were necessary and he accordingly underwent an appendectomy and further surgical treatment for the removal of a double hernia. He is getting along very well.

Arthur Bennett, 36, of Runville, was injured slightly about the chest about 8 a. m. last Wednesday, when he was thrown from a state highway trailer in an accident at the Milesburg bridge. Bennett was acting as a teamster on a trailer which was hauling a stone loader from the highway garage here to the Rattlesnake mountain road job. The trailer struck the top of the bridge and the job three Bennett to the road. X-ray examination was made at the Centre County Hospital Wednesday morning and he was discharged from the hospital that afternoon.

H. H. Bricker, Clover Farm Store proprietor, has purchased a building lot for K. A. Miller, along East Main street, Millheim, upon which site he proposes to erect a store building. Plans are going forward now for the excavation of the cellar, which will be dug near the center between the two large trees now standing in the Miller lawn. Mr. Bricker has stated that he has not definitely decided on the size of the structure, but that it will be made of concrete blocks with steel ceiling girders. The work of building is expected to be done this summer, the intention being to occupy the store some time this fall.

YOUR HEALTH

Velly clevah, the Chinese. They have been using ma huang as a medicine for centuries. They have also treated goitre with the ash of burnt potatoes. Modern medicine uses ma huang under the name of ephedrine, in the treatment of syphilis, rheumatism and disease of the bladder. Sponges contain iodine, and we know now that iodine deficiency is one of the causes of goitre. Many of the ancient remedies have come down to us as important in the treatment of diseases. Fox glove was used in England centuries ago in the modern physician uses it as a digitalis. Jesuit's Bark from Peru somebore cured malaria centuries ago, and still does although now called quinine. Many persons do not understand why grandmothers of 100 or three hundred years ago fed infants on apple scrapings. But it is noted that babies so treated did not suffer from summer diarrhea or other gastro-intestinal upset. Apple therapy is now coming into its own, and thousands of infants treated with apple scrapings or apple powder, are free from diarrhe-

A very good illustration of the difference between certified and ordinary seed potatoes can be seen in the garden and lot at the Mabe Ziegler home on Penn street, Millheim. Loads of argument could be used, but the illustration is best of all and eliminates any and all argument.

Mrs. R. Y. Sigworth and daughter, Jeanne, 17, of State College, are confined to the McKeesport hospital as the result of an automobile accident which occurred during a rain-storm last Tuesday night. Four other persons, including a relative of Mrs. Sigworth and his daughter, also became patients at the hospital following the two-car collision.

The grandmothers of Europe, a few centuries ago, did not bother to ascertain that apple scrapings contain methyl-arabino-galacto-octogalactaric acid. But they did know babies were cured of diarrhea by it. The short term for that chemical explanation is pectin, found in many vegetables and fruits. Pectin is used in the production of the so-called vegetable jellies. Apple therapy is more and more being used, not only for babies, but for gastro-intestinal disturbances of adults. Many of the ancients didn't know why, but they knew how. DO YOU KNOW The newly created Committee on Medical Preparedness of the American Medical Association is ready to cooperate with all governmental agencies concerned with the prevention of disease and the care of the sick, in both civil and military aspects. It is also ready to make available, at the earliest possible moment, every facility of the American Medical Association to aid in the health and safety of the American people.

vided between the local boards and the parent company. Mr. Hickox followed his remarks by showing colored views recently taken of Bermuda and Death Valley. Included in the Death Valley pictures were the famous Scotty's Castle and "Old Timer" of Death Valley Days. Grant Nolph, president of Punxsutawney Thrift was a surprise guest. Mr. Nolph is a well-known lecturer, world traveler, radio speaker and writer of note. After graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he spent 11 years traveling through the Orient and China. He was photographer for Underwood and Underwood and the Geographical Magazine, besides a writer for many magazines. Mr. Nolph explained many of the strange habits of the Chinese. He stated the reason that China could not be satisfactorily united was due to the fact that the language in the different parts of the country are absolutely different. Many of the white race in interviewing the Chinese upper classes immediately feel the Chinese consider themselves vastly superior which gives the white man a feeling of inferiority. While missionaries go through to teach the Chinese their philosophy, many missionaries confess the Chinese teach them more than they teach the Chinese. Mr. Nolph was so well received that he was asked to give a second talk the same evening, which he willingly did, his second topic dealing with Asia.

Wade Pearson, sales manager of the Thrift Investment Corporation and R. H. Thompson, director of sales to merchants, were also in attendance. Mr. Pearson added to the entertainment with a brief but witty address. Mr. Thompson gave many illuminating experiences of the liquidation of past due accounts.

W. H. Adams, manager of the Centre County Thrift, and his wife and little daughter were in attendance. Mr. Adams gave some remarks relative to the success of the Centre County Thrift.

So well was the program received that Mr. Hickox announced that due to the limited capacity of the dining-room of the Penn Belle Hotel that two more such meetings will be held in the near future so that all the stockholders who are interested in hearing more about the Thrift Plan will have a like opportunity to become better acquainted with the working of it and also to hear Mr. Nolph give a talk on other parts of the world.

Mr. Hickox announced that Miss Farrar had proven to be the most capable sales person in their whole organization. The testimonial dinner came as a complete surprise to the guest of honor.

There were 53 present at the Methodist Sunday school. Mr. Alfred Berger underwent a tonsil operation last Saturday at the Phillipsburg State Hospital and returned home Sunday. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lucas and Mary Ann Lucas, R. N., motored to Lock Haven and visited friends and relatives on Friday.

The Children's Day service at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening was very good. The church was nicely decorated with roses and laurel.

Miss Geraldine Cartwright, who is attending a Free Methodist school at North Hill, N. Y., spent the week with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Turbidity and Lucene Schmoke, of Rochester, N. Y., motored here Thursday and returned to Rochester on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Lewis and daughter Hope, and Jack Ross of Karthaus, visited friends in Lock Haven and Jersey Shore Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Elwood Remanynder and family, of Williamsport, visited her mother at Windy Hill last week, and also took an active part in Children's Day services at the Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Winnie Kerin is visiting her son, Daniel and family in Amsterdam, N. Y., at this writing.

Sunday School Lesson

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR JULY 7, 1940.

GOLDEN TEXT: "In all this this Job sineth not, nor chideeth God foolishly."—Job 1:22. (Lesson Text: Job 1 and 2).

For the next three Sundays our lessons will be a study of Job and, therefore, it might be a good idea in preparation for these studies for us to take our Bibles and read through the Book of Job. This will give us a broader basis for an understanding of the message of the book.

We have no information as to the author of this book of the Old Testament. The book itself gives us no clue as to the writer or the date. Some Bible experts believe that the first two chapters were originally written and the others added later by another writer. However that may be, the book may be divided into four main divisions: (1) the prologue and epilogue, (2) Job's speeches and those of his three friends, (3) Elihu's speech and, finally, (4) the speech of Jehovah.

The problems which this book discusses are age-old ones and are as important today as they were in Old Testament times. People are still asking the questions which are uppermost in this old book. "Is all suffering the result of sin? Why do the righteous suffer and often the wicked escape merited punishment? Why does God allow sin and evil to exist in the world his has created?"

In the passages given for our consideration this week, we are told of the council in heaven at which God and the angels are present. With the angels is Satan, who once an angel, but because of his pride and ambition, had been cast out of heaven. When God taunts Satan with the uprightness of Job, who is described as a "perfect" man, Satan replied that Job was only righteous because "it said him to be so." He declared that if God were to take away all of Job's temporal blessings Job would be as bad as the rest.

Accepting Satan's challenge, God is pictured as agreeing with Satan to put Job to the test, to see if he is as true. The only limit placed upon Satan's power was that he was not to harm Job's body. Therefore, with swift suddenness all of Job's earthly possessions were swept away. First, his cattle were taken and his servants killed; then his sheep were consumed by lightning and following that his camels were captured and taken away by the Chaldeans. Finally and most serious of all, seven of his sons, and his three daughters were killed when a hurricane destroyed the home of his eldest son where they were all gathered, eating and drinking. Only his wife was left to him.

While Job was terribly grieved at the catastrophe which had befallen him, he did not become bitter. In the midst of his sorrow, Job gave us an expression of his absolute faith in God which has been repeated hundreds and hundreds of times throughout all the ages by believers of every nation. "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

Again there was a council in heaven, and again we have the record of Satan's conversation with God. Satan, compelled to admit his defeat, suggested another method of attack, stating that if Job's body was affected, then, for sure he would renounce God. God permitted Satan to go forth and do what he would to Job's body, with the only limit that he spare his life. As a result, Job was afflicted with sore boils from the sole of his feet to the crown of his head.

It was a terrible affliction, so terrible that Job said: "I wish I were dead, I wish I were buried." It was a terrible affliction, so terrible that Job said: "I wish I were dead, I wish I were buried."

pulsive to those around him that Job sought refuge outside the village upon the heap of ashes. Keen as this trial was, however, Job held fast his integrity, even though his wife advised him to renounce God and die. "As before, Job recognized God's right to take away as well as to give and admits it to be a man's duty to accept evil from God as well as good.

Our lesson closes with the arrival of three of Job's friends from distant places, who, hearing of the terrible misfortune which had befallen him, came to comfort him. So astonished were they at his appearance, they lifted up their voices and wept, sprinkling ashes upon their heads to show their grief and then sat down with him upon the ground for seven days and seven nights without speaking a word unto him.

ALTOONA BAKER STRANGLED BETWEEN CAR AND DOOR Albert D. Humm, 30, an Altoona baker, was found dead Saturday in front of a Harrisburg garage, a victim of accidental strangulation. The victim apparently was strangled when his head became wedged between an automobile and a garage door after falling from a sitting position on the running board of the car.

The victim's identity was learned from a baker's license and social security card. The body was removed to Altoona for burial. Humm was unmarried.
