

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

Two horses belonging to Peter S. Smith, of near Centre Hall, were killed by lightning while in a field. The one was killed on the spot and the other was so badly injured that it was found necessary to kill it.

The scaffolding has been torn out of the Garman Opera House and the fresco work on the ceiling and walls shows off to a great advantage. The artistic work on the interior will surpass anything of its kind ever done in this section. It is worth a trip to see it.

Mail carrying is not a very pleasant job this warm weather. On Monday Clem Bamford had to take Johnny Bair's place, as Johnny was the subject of a non stroke that morning. It by no means prostrated him—his wife did it by presenting him with a 10-pound bouncing boy.

The little grove in front of our Court House has become a nuisance. Every evening large flocks of birds from the surrounding country assemble there for their roosting place. We are safe in saying that they number several thousand and necessarily have become a nuisance.

Mr. John Slack died suddenly at his home near Tusseyville on last Saturday morning of typhoid fever. He had been ill but a short time. Her age was about 45 years. Their family consists of five children. The interment took place in the Evangelical cemetery at Tusseyville on Tuesday afternoon.

Another death from typhoid fever occurred near Tusseyville on last Saturday morning. Last week we announced the death of Mr. John Wagner, and one week later followed the death of his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Wagner. She was a most estimable young lady of twenty-two years, who was admitted by all.

Next Wednesday morning a party consisting of about twenty young ladies and gentlemen of town expect to take the early train over the L. & T. road, for Cherry Run station, several miles east of Coburn, where they expect to camp out for eight or ten days. Messrs. F. Lukenbach and Ed. Shaffer are booming the trip and will make it a success. They are getting a number of large tents and with plenty of grub will have a nice summer outing.

About ten days ago something like diphtheria got into the family of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Evey, of near State College, prostrating the father and mother and three children, Jennie, May, and Emma. The result was that on Wednesday Jennie, in her ninth year, died; and was followed on Sunday by May, who died aged ten, and a few hours later by Emma, aged 6. This was a most terribly affliction, and Mr. and Mrs. Evey, who are hardly well yet themselves, have the deepest sympathy of the community.

A crowd of at least six hundred people had gathered at Coburn station on last Friday afternoon says the Millheim Journal, to receive or help receive the fresh air children. One hundred and eighty-four conveyances passed the Coburn toll gate and some thirty came from above. It reminded one of a camp meeting. The Millheim band entertained the crowd with some music until the arrival of the eastern train, which was an hour late. Three children were taken into the depot for distribution and it was 6 o'clock before all was done. The boys and girls as a rule are clean, bright and intelligent, and are enjoying their week's vacation to the fullest extent, and many of the girls will go home with a well replenished wardrobe.

Twenty Years Ago

The skating rink on the island above the falls in Bellefonte was opened and the first few days saw hundreds of Bellefonte citizens patronizing the establishment.

The required number of signers for electric current had been secured in Aaronsburg and the line was to be extended from Millheim by the State Centre Electric Co. in the near future.

Robert Brungart, Rebersburg mailman, was kicked on the arm by one of his father's horses, causing severe bruises, which made it impossible for him to operate his car for several days. G. A. Corman was employed as chauffeur during his disability.

A. M. Klinger, of Bellefonte, purchased the Red Mill property in Penn's Valley, at Potters Banks, and he expects to install his sewing machine here to occupy the property. Mr. Klinger had been a miller in his youth and expected to operate the mill.

The following teachers had been elected to teach in the schools of Harris township: high school, T. A. Williams; 8th grade, Miss Ruth Smith; intermediate, Mrs. J. Harry Ferree; Rock Hill, Samuel Rost; Kuhn; primary, Miss Margaret Walnut Grove, Miss Laura Ishler and Shingletown, John H. Jacobs.

At a special meeting of the Millheim school board the tax rate was raised from 10 to 12 mills, and the per capita tax was increased from $1 to $2. Increased cost of operating the schools was assigned as the reason for the increases. Miss Minerva Cowher, of Sandy Ridge, was elected to teach the grammar school.

Persons in the vicinity of the aviation field, Sunday, were badly frightened when a plane piloted by aviator Hopsen went into a tail-spin about 300 feet above the ground. Hopsen had just taken off for a flight to New York and was climbing when the plane turned over and fell. He righted the machine about 15 feet above ground and continued on his way. Spectators who thought the act might have been a stunt, learned later that it was an accident which might have cost the pilot his life.

Bellefonte, were guests at a surprise party held in honor of the birthday of Homer P. Barnes.

The girls of Cohen & Co's department store enjoyed a ham and egg supper on Fishing Creek, making the trip to and from the picnic spot in Clayton Royer's car.

A handsome seven-passenger Nash sedan, with all the luxurious furnishings of a Pullman car, was brought to Bellefonte from Buffalo, N. Y., by Willis Wion of the Wion garage. The machine had been sold to Joseph Diehl, of Howard.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Harry W. Raymond and Mary F. Dunlap both of Bellefonte; Ellsworth R. Hosterman and Susan Mabel Benner, both of Woodward; Charles R. Thompson and Catherine W. Holt, both of Howard; Luther C. Kline of Phillipsburg, and Jennie Miller of Houtzdale.

The barn on the farm of Cyrus Tice, west of Howard, was destroyed by fire during an electrical storm. The barn on the Theodore Royer farm on the outskirts of Rebersburg, was destroyed in the same manner as were a barn on the Geo. Waite property in Rebersburg and a scale house owned by S. A. Bierly in the same community.

Seven dwellings in Coleville owned by Miss Florence Ulrich, of Buffalo, N. Y., to John A. Twohey, of the same city, on Saturday, the twentieth of July. Miss Ulrich is the daughter of Charles Ulrich, of Detroit, Mich., and a niece of F. S. and T. E. Ulrich, of Millheim. She is well known in Millheim, having been a frequent visitor there.

Tom Ziegler, of State College, shot a hole-in-one on the 148-yard 8th hole of the Nittany Country Club golf course during the Centre Hills-Birch Hill playing match for the Division A title last Saturday afternoon. Ziegler, playing for Centre Hills, used a five-iron off the tee and hooked the shot slightly. The ball landed on the green, bounced once, struck the pin and dropped into the cup. Nevertheless, Centre Hills lost the title match.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania filed suit this week in the Centre county court to collect $260.90 for damage to a truck belonging to the Pennsylvania department of fisheries from L. M. Hutchinsin, contractor, in charge of building the road from Centre Hall to Potters Mills. On the night of August 10, 1937, the truck owned by the state and driven by Millard Truck-emiller, ran into an open ditch along the road and was damaged.

Earl "Pete" Reider, one of Spring Hill's ace pitchers, got in the way of a fast pitch thrown by Paul Martz, of the Centre Hall team, in the sixth inning of a game last Tuesday evening at Spring Mills, and had his pitching arm broken several inches above the wrist. Pete, a Coburn boy who has done some effective work for the Gregg township crew this season, attempted to throw himself around and away from the plate. But the ball, apparently an inshot, struck him on the arm, fracturing it. He was treated by a Spring Mills physician and taken to the Centre County Hospital.

Over The County News

Last Friday evening a Bald Eagle family motored to Bellefonte, bought five gallons of gasoline and parked their car on a side street. When they were ready to start home they found that someone had siphoned all the gas out of their car.

Mrs. Jean Emel Klinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Emel, of East Beaver street, Bellefonte, suffered a serious injury to her back last Friday while swimming in Spring Creek. Mrs. Klinger is said to have fallen backward on some stones. She is confined to her home under a doctor's care.

Neille Ann O'Connor, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Connor who live just north of Bellefonte along the Mileburg Pike, received a deep laceration of the head last Friday afternoon when she was struck by a playmate. She was treated by a local physician.

Miss Florence Ulrich, of Buffalo, N. Y., to John A. Twohey, of the same city, on Saturday, the twentieth of July. Miss Ulrich is the daughter of Charles Ulrich, of Detroit, Mich., and a niece of F. The finance committee for the State College American Legion and Auxiliary Junior Drum and Bugle Corps announced Friday that the approximate gross receipts from Wednesday night's festival at Boalsburg totaled $650. Members of the championship corps, in particular, and the parents' organization expressed their thanks to the public for the splendid patronage tendered the event. Attention was again called to the fact that all funds gained from the festival will be used solely for the benefit of the corps and its future activities.

An item of complaint is being registered by Penn's Valley farmers against alleged shooting practices by some individuals who say they are after groundhogs. Farmers are noting that after each foray the number of ringnecked hens and roosters has decreased to a considerable extent. If sportsmen are to have their efforts crowned with success, they must use every means at their command to bring about that end. A few weeks ago, Deputy Sam Reed, of State College, collected ten dollars from a Milfill county visitor who had been hunting groundhog.

Sunday School Lesson

THE WORKS AND WORD OF GOD International Sunday School Lesson for August 11, 1940.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Jehovah, my rock and my redeemer."—Psalm 19:14.

Lesson Text: Psalm 19. Few people fail to appreciate the beauty of nature or refuse to believe in God, the supreme creator of the universe. While, as the Psalmist declares, the forces of nature—the heavens, the stars, the sun or the moon—do not speak their influence and effect are felt to the end of the world. They all witness to the wisdom and power of God.

From the revelation of God in nature, the Psalmist turns to his revelation of himself in his written word. As J. S. B. Perowne says, "He turns from that which was the common property of all to that which was the special privilege of the Jew." The transition to this subject is in doubt somewhat abrupt, but this only renders the contrast the more forcibly striking. There is a quick rebound of the heart, as it were, from the world of nature, beautiful and glorious as it is, to that which is far more beautiful and more glorious, the word of revelation. But despite the seeming abruptness there is a point of connection between the two portions of the Psalm. What the sun is in the natural world, the law is in the spiritual; the one quickens and cherishes the animal life—nothing being hid from his heat; the other quickens and cherishes the life of the soul.

The Psalmist, in verse 7, 8 and 9 proceeds to describe the word of God in six titles, which present shades of meaning of one grand idea. The Law tells of the divine instruction relative to character and conduct. Testimony tells of the divine witness to what God is and what we should be. Statute tells of divine directions designed to secure obedience or check disobedience. Commandment tells of the divine decrees, authoritative and glorious. Fear tells of the settled habit of the soul which is informed by the law. Judgments tell of the judicial decisions and sentences of Jehovah. Dr. Graham Scroggie says of these six titles we learn that they are, respectively perfect, pure, true, clear, enduring and true, each having the effect of leading the conscientious believer to a deeper appreciation and a fuller appropriation of the treasure of the Word of God.

It might also be well to point out that in each of the six parallel clauses mentioned above, the phrase "of the Lord" occurs. One well knows that not all laws are perfect but the laws of the Lord, it is observed, do restore the soul. Not all testimony is true, but the testimony of the Lord, if absorbed into the heart, will make us wise even the simple and unlearned. Space does not permit taking up each point, but we believe the truth is obvious to all.

Much of the fevered struggle for material possessions, for fame for contentment in this world, would vanish if only people would realize and accept the truths outlined in this Psalm. The words of the Psalmist mentioned above, make wise things and make the light for the transitory things of life seem foolish.

Through the first eleven verses of this Psalm, God is revealed as speaking to the Psalmist. It is perfectly natural, then, that after God had thus graciously spoken to man that man should in turn address God. The Scriptures will make use of words to us; prayer is our word to God. The full Christian life is that in which God speaks on the one hand, and we in turn speak to God.

"The contemplation of the law cannot but lead to self-examination and that to petition," declared Alexander Maclaren. "So the Psalmist passes in prayer. His short-comings appall for 'by the law is the knowledge of sin,' and he feels that beyond the sin which he knows there is a dark region in him where foul things nestle and breed fast. Secret faults are those hidden, not from men, but from himself. He discovers that he has hitherto undiscovered sins.

"When the words of the mouth coincide with the meditation of the heart, we may hope that prayer for cleansing from, and defense against, sin, offered to him whom our faith recognizes as our strength and our redeemer, will be as a sacrifice of a sweet smell, well-pleasing to God. He best loves the law of Jehovah who lets it teach him his sin, and

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million tiny filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give a happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney filters flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.
