U. B. Church Here To Be Re-opened

Sunday, September 8, at 9:30 a. m., reopening services will be conducted in the United Brethren church, Bellefonte. The church, which has been closed for two weeks undergoing repairs and alterations, including the removal of carpeting, indirect lighting and new chairs for the choir; new music cabinet for choir room, and other minor items. The work will be completed this week. Sunday's service marks the fifty anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the present structure. The Rev. G. W. Emigh, pastor, who was the efficient pastor of the congregation at that time, conducted that service. The church structure has undergone a number of changes and has been enlarged since that time. Membership has grown from less than 100 to its present membership of 369. The membership and friends of the church will meet for this reopening service with grateful hearts, thanking God for His goodness over the past years, and praying that His blessings may continue. The public is invited to attend the services.

Millinder To Take Stand in Own Defense

24 witnesses in his effort to prove that the defendant is the man who hounded the match factory worker to death as she was on her way home from an evening in Bellefonte. The prosecution is expected to contend that Millinder struck Gates repeatedly over the head with a pistol. She refused his advances. Evidence will be presented to show that Miss Gates probably saw Millinder walking along the rain swept road near the Nancy Leathers home, and invited him to ride home with her in her car. The defense is expected to contend that Millinder, after leaving the Leathers home shortly before the crime is believed to have occurred, continued home on foot, and that he knew nothing of the crime which shattered the normal peace and quiet of Centre County. It is expected that there will be a considerable number of defense witnesses, but no estimates could be obtained. In the trial list prepared for next week, the District Attorney has listed the Millinder case first, and has reserved three days, Monday through Wednesday, for the trial. The trial will be taken if needed, it was reported. It is probable that the greater part of Monday's session will be taken up with the selection of a jury, since both sides have an opportunity to question jurors and challenge them if desired. Court will convene at 10 a. m. and unless night sessions are held, will close at 5 p. m. The court has issued instructions that the public is to be admitted into the Court Room until all seats are taken, after which the doors will be closed. No standing in the aisles will be permitted. Court attendants and State Police will be on hand to carry out the Court's instructions. After the Millinder case has been disposed of, the Court will turn to the trial of five other cases on the criminal list, which are as follows: Harold Walters, Lewistown, F. & B. John Ballenger, State College, V. Code DD, William Howard Leach, Pleasantville, N. J., robbery; Leslie King, Cozella Mills, enticing minor child; John Arthur Mitchell, of State College, sodomy.

Advised to Obtain Record of Birth

one dollar. But those born before 1893 are the ones who are in difficulty. The notations in the family Bible are not accepted by industry. In many cases older persons have no birth or baptismal certificates; all relatives or friends who knew first-hand of their birth are deceased or cannot be located, and they are oftentimes unable to ascertain proof of their birth. Since definite records are mandating for old age and other claims of assistance, and in the industrial check-up, those who can't produce records face a problem that may wreck their entire lives. A Bellefonte attorney in commenting upon the matter, expressed the belief that it would be sound policy for everyone, young and old, to obtain proof of birth. To those born since 1893, he recommended obtaining certified copies of birth facts from the county Register or from Harrisburg, as the case may be. In the case of those born before 1893 the matter is doubly important, he said. It may be that relatives, friends, physicians or midwives, who have first-hand knowledge of births are still living and can give the information vital to proper certification. By obtaining a certificate now, such persons may prevent serious trouble in the future, he said. He recommended that each family provide itself with birth certificates which should be kept with the family's other valuable papers. The county and state records often are inaccurate, the attorney continued. Frequently names are misspelled, dates are in error, and names are given wrong. By obtaining a certified copy of your records now, you have an opportunity to seek advice for any corrections that may be necessary before the time comes that you must produce, for some reason or other, the facts surrounding your advent into the world. Substantial proof that birth records are becoming increasingly important is available at the Centre County Register's office where an average of six persons a day request birth records. Time was when months passed without a single application for such information. There are people who marry for security, i. e., a real ticket; they get their reward.

Prisoner Gets Legal Release

Judge Walker further directed the keeper of Rockview penitentiary to discharge Keocky from custody. The Superior Court case cited by Judge Walker contends that the signing of an indictment by a defendant is a safeguard designed to avoid misunderstanding as to what the defendant is charged with and to what charge he pleaded guilty. So far as is known Keocky is the only person ever to be released from Rockview because the indictment on a plea of guilty was not signed by the defendant.

Limestone Plant On Wheels Prepares Stone

a crew of air drillers is engaged in preparing dynamite holes by which the stone is broken up for the shovels. Specially built dump trucks haul the stone from the quarry to the crusher. At the other end of the plant standard dump trucks are hauling the finished stone to a nearby field where it is being spread in huge piles until it is needed for use at the base of the new highway. All the units of the limestone plant are brand new and this is their first job. The plant was set up last week and was given a test run on Friday. Production began Friday and the first day's output covered a considerable area of the field for a depth of about four feet. The stone is to be piled in layers, and as soon as the entire field is covered with the present layer, a second layer will be placed on top, and so on until the required amount is on hand. Preparation of the stone at this time will assure a constant supply when the road is ready for base stone. From that point application of the black top surface will begin.
