The indiscriminate bombing of London does not worry some Americans.

During the winter one might naturally expect another Hitler peace offensive.

There are worse things that can happen to a

The question of the war at this time is, "Can the English take it?" Later on, we hope, it will be, 'Can the Germans take it?"

Chase S. Osborn, former Republican Governor of Michigan and a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1936, has announced his support of President Roosevelt in this campaign in a letter which praises the achievements of the Roosevelt administration and attacks Wendell Willkie in severe terms, Mr. Osborn said that President Roosevelt had "done more for the real, material, social, intellectual and moral interests of the masses than any man who was ever President, not excepting Washington or Lincoln."

Sunday, September 29, has been designated by the President as "Gold Star Mothers' Day" and the people of the nation have been requested to give suitable expression "to the love, sorrow and reverence of the people of the United States for the Gold Star Mothers." This is an occasion that should not be overlooked. The men who gave their lives for this country, during the first World War, should never be forgotten and, just as important, the people of this country should not hesitate to accord full honors to the mothers of the heroic dead.

Radio listeners might as well know it now as later because when March 29, 1941, comes around there will be a wholesale shift of operating frequencies of 777 out of 862 broadcasting stations in the United States. Many favorite programs will be located at different places on the dial and pushbutton sets, in many cases, will have to be readjusted to the situation. While there will be much inconvenience in connection with the changes that are necessary, as a result of an international agreement, the arrangement will eliminate interference due to clashing of adjacent waves and overcrowding of channels. Frequencies to be "moved" lie in the troadcast spectrum above the 720-kilocycle mark. The job will not only affect listeners but the broadcasting stations will also have their own troubles in adjusting their transmitters.

It is very interesting, from time to time, to read about the news that is being presented to the people of totalitarian nations. Along this line, Virginio Gayda, often a mouthpiece for Italian fascism, tells his readers that "the entire responsibility for the present bombings of London lies solely with Engand." Along the same line, he quotes the New York Times as declaring, "Germany will not hesitate to use gas," and declares that this means that "Engiand is preparing to use gas," and, as is customary, puts out an attempted alibi. Of course, any intelligent American knows that Great Britain has nothing to do with the news articles which appear in New York's great newspaper, but the Italian Govent, in complete control of all information permitted to reach the Italian people, uses any technique that it thinks will tend to create hatred of the

The aerial assaults that have been launched against the British islands in the past few weeks have aroused apprehension in the hearts of many Americans. It was good news to us, in this peaceful and, to hear that the valiant men who serve the Royal Air Force are inflicting such heavy losses on the German planes. This is good news, not because brave German pilots lose their lives, but because we are convinced that the cause of human liberty depends, just now, upon the valor and determination of the R. A. F. It is putting up a fight that earns the admiration of the civilized world and verifies Winston Churchill's splendid tribute, "Never have so many owed so much to so few!" The German effort to "wipe out" the British aerial defense has not yet succeeded. Reports from overseas indicate that the British retain strong aerial forces and that they are ready for heavier attacks than they have yet witnessed. This is a happy augury for a better day in the future when the civilization of the world may be guaranteed by force in the hands of nations ruled by men who believe in democracy and in justice to all people.

THE DRAFT IN PEACE

Now that the President has signed the selective service draft act, the United States, for the first time in a year of peace, has resorted to compulsory military service in connection with national defense

That public opinion approves this legislation is almost self-evident. The developments of modern warfare have convinced American mothers that it would be criminal to send untrained soldiers against seasoned veterans.. They do not want war, but if war comes, they insist that their sons have, at least, an even chance.

The demand in some quarters for a trial of the volunteer system merely indicates, in our opinion that these fellows haven't caught up with world events, or else that they wanted to postpone the draft until after the election. There is no use in trying the volunteer system; it is the amateur way of preparing for war and if this country becomes involved in war in the next few years, it will be no amateur affair. The silly charge that operation of the draft law will be a disgrace to the youth of the land and a reflection on their patriotism has nothing in it that we can fathom. The draft law operates equally upon every citizen of the republic, within the age limits whether rich or poor. It is a democratic procedure, It permits the government, which is best qualified, to pass judgment upon the type of service required

YELP OF COWARDLY CURS

Hitler and his murderous cohorts evidently believe that any adversary they attack should submit without striking back. Germany, it seems, can resort to any form of warfare, but when they receive the same kind of blows in return, they yelp like cowardly curs.

Just recently news from Berlin said that all Germany was crying for revenge against England because bombs had fallen upon some German villages including unfortunately a hospital. And since these were not military objectives, yelp the Nazis, Britain would be subjected to merciless bombing in the future.

Were the war not such a solemn, shocking thing, here would be the time to laugh. For more than eleven consecutive days, London's hospitals, schools, stores, parks and still more structures without the slightest military importance, have been shattered into dust by German bombs. Official reports admit that more than 12,000 residents, many of them women and children, virtually none of them soldiers, have been killed or wounded by German bombs. These frightful missiles were dropped through clouds and at night indiscriminately. It was Nazi frightfulness and terror at its worst. And now that the Germans are beginning to feel the sting of their own medicine, they whine and talk of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. Germany started this scourge of the sky. They are at last beginning to realize what it means to the victims. And for those responsible for it, no sympathy is available on this side of the world. In view of huch howls from Germany, there is reason to hope that the contest is becoming less onesided and that England is building up its strength to the point where barbarism is meeting its match and that ultimately it will be exterminated and the whole world sigh with well deserved relief,

GOP LEADER WILL SUPPORT

ROOSEVELT Albert H. Ladner, a Pennsylvania Republican who received 230,000 votes in the Pennsylvania senatorial primary last spring, has announced his intention to suppost Roosevelt for President in a letter vigorously denouncing Wendell Willkie. Mr. Ladner is a close friend of Senator James J. Davis who journeyed out to Elwood, Indiana, to help tell Wilikie that he had been nominated for President. He is also a past supreme dictator of the Loval Order of Moose and known throughout the country for his activities in that society.

In announcing his decision Mr. Ladner said: "I am a parent like many of the millions of Americans who must make a vital decision on November 5, I have two sons, both of whom hold commissions in the National Guard of Pennsylvania, I am willing, and I believe it to be just, that if my country needs my sons-and I expect them to be called-they should and will be ready to make whatever sacrifices are necessary. How, then, can I conscientiously give my support to a candidate for the Presidency of the United States who places more value upon the dollars contained in the money bags of Wall Street than he does in the value of the blood that flows through the veins of my children?

"As an American interested in the future of our country and as a parent, I cannot and will not support the candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie

He cares not how many of the youth of America are sacrificed in the defense of the country as long as its vested wealth is left alone. His idea of prosperity would be a repitition of the World War days of profiteering.

WAR PROFITS AND A FORMER WAR

The people of the United States should not lose sight of the immense profits that some business interests expect to make out of the national defense

We know that there are big business leaders who insist that they are patriotic and ready to serve their country. Most of them are patriotic but they will charge the nation full price for any services ren-

The experience of this country in the last war aptly demonstrates the truth of this assertion. While we are not convinced that it is to the national interests at this time to commandeer industrial plants for national defense, we are thoroughly in favor of stringent legislation to regulate the profits of war industries. If men are to be drafted for a year's service in the Army, it is only fair and equitable that business and industry make a reasonable contribution to national defense, which includes the protection of their interests.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that the Justice Department has asked the Supreme Court to review two World War decisions involving profits on ship-building contracts. The Government's petition charges that the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation had a contract to receive the cost of constructing vessels, plus a fixed profit of about ten per cent, with a "bonus for savings" equal to one-half of the amount by which actual cost was less than estimated costs. It is charged that the shipbuilding company submitted inflated estimates of costs, with the resuit that it would receive over $25,000,000 profits for doing work which cost about $93,000,000, without running any risk of loss. The United States brought suit to recover excess profits paid to the company in Pennsylvania. The Federal judge ruled that the Government could not recover the profits already paid but he called the transaction a "daylight robbery" and said that the company's conduct reminded him of Rob Roy "who admitted he was a robber but proudly proclaimed that he was no thief." The Government has asked the Supreme Court to review the case because it is "now engaged in a program of military and navel ermament compar able to or greater than that undertaken in 1917 and 1918" and that it is "of immediate national con-cern that there should be an authoritative determination of the extent to which the country's needs should place it at the mercy of its contractors"

Obviously, it is of vital importance to the Government to secure prompt adjudication of the questions raised in order to be able to adequately protect itself in the framing of contracts connected with the present defense emergency.
