

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

On Wednesday morning Mr. Jesse Klinger, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of our town, died at his home on Thomas Street. He was ill for several days and died from the effects of a paralytic stroke. He died aged exactly 71 years.

The census of the three central places is to be stopped and they are to be withdrawn from circulation. And everybody will be glad of it, for the three cent pieces so closely resemble dimes that they are an unmitigated nuisance. It is well that we are to have no more of them.

Mr. Isaac Harvey the geologist, is kept quite busy of late. He is considered one of the most reliable and accurate men in his profession and his services naturally are in demand. During the past few weeks he has been locating coal fields in the northern part of Centre County and other parts of the state.

On last Monday evening a policeman heard a disturbance on East Street and followed it up to the Court House where he discovered his mistake—the noise was caused by Ed Wood's vociferous applause and violent hand clapping in the opera house while the Irish Corporal was singing patriotic songs. Ed does not deny his nationality but is proud of it.

That a good steamer would do valuable service at fires in this town is evident. There are many points of our town where buildings are at least as high as the reservoir and the result is that there is not sufficient pressure to throw a stream while a steamer carries sufficient force to break open doors and windows and crush out a fire. Since the Logan company is making an effort to purchase a steamer they should give them the proper encouragement as we consider it a good and necessary instrument. Buy the Logan boys a first class steamer and in case of a fire they will be on hand.

The funeral of Mrs. John Curtin, of this place, occurred on last Sunday. The interment was made at Eagle cemetery near Curtins Works. Mr. Andrew Cruse left on Saturday for Annapolis, Md., to resume his studies in the U. S. Naval Academy at that place. Mrs. Soubreck, mother of John Soubreck, the groceryman, died on Monday morning aged about 71 years. There are said to be a large number of cases of typhoid fever in the vicinity of Snow Shoe at present. The heavy frosts during the past week have brought out the delicate autumn colors on the trees. A large shoe factory is to be established at Phillipsburg by some of their capitalists.

John Wilson, the prisoner charged with the murder of Waterhouse talks very little and writes no letters for the newspapers. Judging from the course and fate of Andrews and Hopkins it is best not to talk. Messrs. Jerome Harper and James Harris married with the Julian girls on last Sunday. Having a double team, they beat several gents who were en route for the same place. Since the Grangers picnic is over we hear of lots of fellows having their pockets picked who were never known to have a $10 bill in their possession. Gov.

Miller Goodhart, of Spring Mills; and Bryan Decker, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Decker, of Georges Valley. All members were awarded gold medals, while Miss Rishel won an additional medal for her individual work.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: Merrill A. Moyer, Pleasant Gap and Lull G. Hazel, Bellefonte; Harold W. Nelson, Lock Haven, and Blanche B. Buff, Wilkes Barre; George S. Denton, Pittsburgh, and Janet McCurdy Scott, Bellefonte; John Biazosky, Philadelphia, and Alverda P. Cowher, Port Matilda; Ortan Alexander, Flemington, and Helen Dunkle, Mingo; William K. Rote and Marjorie M. King, both of Bellefonte; James Murphy and Nellie Gunther, both of Phillipsburg.

The skating rink on the Island Bellefonte, was continuing to grow in popularity and young and old were flocking to the place for an afternoon or evening of entertainment. James E. Sol, who since the death of his wife had maintained his home on East Logan Street, announced that he would hold public sale of his goods. He planned to reside with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Musser, of East Balmora.

A change in schedule of Pennsylvania railroad trains became effective Sunday. The Pennsylvania-lehigh west in the afternoon, formerly due here at 3:16 o'clock now arrives at 3:57, and the evening train west is half an hour later. Because of these changes mails for these trains close half an hour later at the Bellefonte postoffice. A Tax CCC trucks from the Poe Valley camp, were involved in an accident last Tuesday evening that resulted in serious injury to two of the occupants of the one vehicle. Coming down the Penns Creek road the driver of one truck, attempted to pass the other, but struck a tree. One of the passengers had an arm broken in two places and another had severe injury inflicted upon his back—at first it was thought to have been broken. First aid was rendered at the office of a Millheim physician, and both injured boys were then taken to the Lewis-town hospital.

The Rev. Dr. Zwingli A. Yearick died at Bethlehem on Wednesday last week at the age of 95 years. He was the oldest living minister in the Reformed church. A native of Haines township, Centre county, he was educated at Franklin and Marshall College and the Eastern Theological Seminary. Before going to Bethlehem in 1915, where he organized St. John's Reformed church, he served congregations at Shenandoah, Aaronsburg and Mercersburg. He retired from the ministry in 1923, and had been totally blind for several years past.

Newton E. Hess, well known resident of State College and one time big game hunter, was slightly injured in a motor car accident on the Williams Penn highway last Friday. His automobile collided with the rear of a truck driven by Clyde Pigman, of Apple Creek. Following the impact Hess' machine turned over and before he could crawl out of it it was hit by an automobile driven by John E. Clayford, of Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: John H. Lee and Sarah J. Kesigle, both of Tusseyville; C. M. Garbich and Mary A. Welby, both of Colesville; E. L. Wasson of Hubersburg and C. Bailey of Eagleview; Edward Neff, of Howard, and Eva Johnson, of Jacksonville; Stephen Drabek and Mary Poutick, both of Bellefonte; Matthew Lidgett and Mary A. Crumpton, both of Phillipsburg; James Reeder and Melda Balmora, both of Mt. Eagle; E. A. McNeven, of Benree, and Rose E. McFadden, of Bellefonte; George Askley Roffe and Minnie L. M. Glenphen, both of Mill Hill; Peter E. Cain and Lizzie Corner, both of Bellefonte; Noah Weaver and Malinda Moyer, both of Spring Township.

effect on the building was not what had been hoped for, and much of the structure remained intact. Miss Eleanor Weston went to Milton to give a lecture on health illustrating the talk with her impersonation of the health clown. Louise McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McClure, won a prize at the skating rink for correctly guessing how long Billy Carpenter would do the double toe spin.

Sarah Rishel, aged 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Rishel, of Farmers Mills, was awarded highest honors in a better testing contest at the Eastern States Livestock Exposition at Springfield, Mass. Officers and members of the team winning first place in the contests were: Sara Goodhart, 16, daughter of Mrs.

Over The County News

Max Kofman returned to Phoenix, Arizona this week, following a six week visit home in Bellefonte, with his mother and the family. Max is a graduate of the University of Arizona Law School and a practicing attorney in Phoenix.

Benfer's Barber Shop, in the Maize Building on Main street, Millheim, underwent interior improvement last week. The walls and ceiling were paneled and painted. The shop is now a most attractive appearance which can readily be noticed from the street.

George F. Walker of Bellefonte, R. D. 1, was arrested last Wednesday afternoon on West High street by Chief of Police Harry Dukeman and Officer Ralph Eyer on a charge of drunken driving. Walker was pronounced intoxicated, when examined by a local physician and was placed in jail to sober up, pending a hearing on the charge.

Bowling Green, Ohio. Hess escaped with a laceration of the forehead and bruises on the left hip. He was treated by a Newport physician.

Rains of early last week brought up the levels of county creeks, and stopped all farm operations, including the seeding of wheat and cutting of corn.

Roy Arbogast, of Rebersburg, who had rented the former Gutelius home on Main street, Millheim, and had intentions of going into the grocery business in the Bowers store room, has changed his plans and will not move to Millheim.

Due to breakdowns in machinery the work of widening and deepening of Elk Creek along Water street, Millheim, is not making much progress. Old flues that gave out halted the work last week. As far as the work has gone, it appears to be satisfactory as a flood control measure and will improve the properties along the street. The attitude of fishermen, however, is another thing, for this manner of creating a stream bed practically destroys the natural spots to which every fisherman turns.

The Centre County Bar Association at its annual meeting recently at the Penn Belle Hotel elected officers for the ensuing year. Former Judge James C. Furst was elected president, succeeding former Judge M. Ward Fleming. Attorney David L. Baird of Phillipsburg was named vice president, replacing Attorney John T. Taylor of State College. Attorney L. Orvis Harris succeeded Attorney Philip H. Johnston, as treasurer and Attorney J. Thomas Mitchell was re-elected secretary about 20 members were present.

Dr. and Mrs. J. LeRoy Forsythe returned to Millheim last Saturday night from a wedding trip that took them up through the Adirondacks, into Canada, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and other points of scenic interest. They were given receptions of traditional enthusiasm at the bride's home in Mt. Jackson on Friday and on Monday evening were serenaded by Barteggs East Centre County Band, and escorted about the community on J. B. Malone's truck. They are now at home in the apartment over the Millheim pharmacy.

The Titan Metal Manufacturing Co. is adding another story to its office building and is increasing the size of the melting department at its plant here. The additional story for occupancy about the middle of October, is being constructed to provide more office space. According to a company official, the present offices on the ground floor and basement of the building are crowded and the additional offices are expected to relieve the situation. The new wing on the melting department will provide needed space and permit changes in the positions of the electric furnaces there.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Burd and family spent the weekend at the Charles Lucas home, and attended church on Sunday. Joanne Rhoades celebrated her fifth birthday anniversary on Friday, those present were: Mrs. Homer Sprankle and son, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Switzer and daughter of Newport, Perry county, last Friday. FORMER PENN STATE STUDENTS IN REUNION

Former students of the two-year courses in agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College are planning their regular five-year reunion for Alumni Homecoming Day, October 12, announces Henry F. Rhoads, of Norris town, president of the group. Several thousand students have taken work in the two-year courses since they were first offered in 1906, and a large number are expected to return to the campus to take part in the reunion.

The first reunion was held in 1937. The 1935 meeting was so successful that an extra celebration was held in 1937. A general session is planned this year with talks by Dr. S. W. Fletcher, dean of the School of Agriculture, and E. K. Hibeman, executive secretary of the Penn State Alumni Association. Moving pictures of some of the campus activities in agriculture will be shown. In general, those who have finished the two-year courses in agriculture have been very fortunate in obtaining employment, reports Professor A. L. Beam, director of short courses, who says that enrollment this year promises to be about the same as usual.

VACCINATE CHICKENS, TURKS AGAINST COLDS

Pullets that have been housed in open range shelters usually will be found entirely free from colds. However, colds often develop as soon as they are moved into the laying house, in spite of the best of sanitation, ventilation, and housing. There are two types of colds, generally speaking those which are due to exposure and those which are caused by infectious cold organisms. The latter probably are responsible for the colds that appear in pullets when first transferred to the laying house. The organisms may have been left in the building by a previous flock of laying hens, and the new pullets naturally did not have an opportunity to become immune to them out on the open range. Immunity can be stimulated by vaccinating with bacterins made from laboratory cultures of common cold organisms taken from infected chickens. Given for a definite period in favorable media and then killed, these organisms, plus the antibodies that were developed by them in the media, become valuable bacterins.

The Bureau of Animal Industry issues licenses to manufacture bacterins under standardized names and formula, and reports a steady increase in the use of this bacterin known as Mixed Bacterin (Avian). It is used for chickens about to enter an important laying period and turkeys before fattening for market. Poultry raisers can purchase syringes with their bacterins and apply two doses of 1 cc. each in three day intervals, with the amount doubled in Turkey. It must be remembered that bacterins cannot prevent colds due to exposure, overcooling, overheating, drafts and other factors which might lower the resistance of otherwise predisposed fowl to colds.

FARM CALENDAR

The Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture Fertilize for Biggs—Soil in which flowering bulbs are to be grown needs well-rotted, stable manure incorporated deeply when the beds are prepared. Ornamental horticulturists of the Pennsylvania State College also suggest the use of a complete chemical fertilizer, such as 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 analysis. The rate of application is 2 1/2 to 3 pounds per 100 square feet of planting area. Treat Soil Erosion—Contour strip farming is the principal erosion control practice demonstrated by the agricultural extension service in Pennsylvania. This includes contour planting of new orchards. Good rotations, sod waterways, cover crops, and forest tree plantings are emphasized as essentials in proper control.

Control Grain Weevils—Five recommendations are made by extension entomologists of the Pennsylvania State College for the control of grain weevils. These are cleaning of barns, tightening of bins C. Reesey home, at Gum Stump Sunday eve. Donald Shade called on his grandparents at Central City, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Heaton. Mr. and Mrs. Clark McKinley and children of Dry Top spent Saturday evening at the Orvis Watson home. Mr. and Mrs. John Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Conner and family at Bellefonte, on Saturday evening.

Deep Litter Helps Poultry—Many poultrymen are using deep litter in their poultry houses, report poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. The litter keeps drier than shallow and insulates the floor. Turkey Growers Meet—A special program for turkey growers is scheduled for November 6 at the Pennsylvania State College.

Little Nittany Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harter and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Harter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shuey. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Haagen and daughter spent Sunday evening at the Jesse Burd home. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laubach and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Laubach's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Murtis Schenck of Monument spent Sunday at the Ralph Fletcher home.

Not Pink Elephants Pink katydids, almost as unusual as the fabled pink elephants, have made their appearance in Clinton County, and are being investigated by State College scientists. They hatched out pink and probably are the result of a mutation, explains Dr. S. W. Frost, professor of economic entomology, who examined the insect. Very possibly, more pink katydids, offspring of a lone pink parent, could be found by searching the area from which this one came, he said.

Every wound, however small, is an open door for the deadly germs of infection. Protect yourself at once by applying antiseptic SAN-CURA OINTMENT. It relieves the pain and helps the tissues heal quickly and in a healthy manner. Antiseptic SAN-CURA OINTMENT is splendid for minor burns, bruises, skin irritation, and piles. 35c at all drug stores. Sunday School Lesson

LUKE AND HIS GOSPEL International Sunday School Lesson for October 6, 1940.

GOLDEN TEXT: "It seemed good to me also... to write... that thou mightest know the certain things concerning the things wherein thou was instructed."—Luke 1:3-4. Lesson Text: Luke 1: Acts 1:1-5; 16:9-15; Colossians 4:15; II Timothy 4:11.

For the last three months of this year and the first three months of 1941, our lessons are to be taken from the Gospel of Luke. While many others had undertaken to write about the amazing events they had seen, it seemed wise to Luke also, who was a most careful historian and who had been an eye-witness of the events, to give an orderly account of Jesus' life "that thou mightest know the certainty concerning the things wherein thou this friend, Theophilus) wast instructed."

Luke was the author of the two longest books of the New Testament his gospel and the Acts. He was the only Gentile writer of any of the New Testament. His message was particularly for the Gentile world. Many of our lessons this year will be based on his writings which constitute more than a quarter of the New Testament—a larger contribution than that made by any other author. Luke was a very prominent figure in the early church and was referred to by Paul as a fellow worker; and as the "beloved physician." In the last letter which we have from the pen of Paul, written just before his execution at Rome, he tells Timothy that Luke alone had remained with him.

We know a few definite facts about Luke's life, although many have surmised and speculated upon it. It is generally accepted that he was a Greek physician, possibly educated at Tarsus, who was living in Antioch when the first advent of the new faith came to that city from Jerusalem, and it is probably that Luke was converted there, before Paul's activity there. The general story is that Luke joined Paul's party at Troas on the apostle's second missionary journey, and some think he was the "Man of Macedonia" who appealed to Paul. Shortly thereafter Paul left Luke at Philippi, and the whereabouts of the doctor are uncertain for possibly six or seven years, when he rejoins Paul to remain with him until the latter's death. Tradition says that Luke finally settled in Bythynia, the region just south of the Black Sea and died there at the age of seventy-four.

At Jerusalem he probably saw Peter, James and other apostles, as well as many who had seen Jesus in person. At Caesarea he probably saw the Deacon Phillip, possibly Cornelius, and other witnesses of events he relates. We can be assured that Luke, who was a very careful historian, fully verified the story which he finally recited. He was the only Gentile who wrote a book in our Bible, and some of the unique features of his Gospel are these:

- (1) It is universal in its viewpoint, emphasizing the sympathy of Jesus for the poor and outcast, and prominently demonstrating and interesting of Jesus in Gentiles. (2) It is the only Gospel which records all of the seven greatest events in the life of Jesus, his birth, baptism, temptation, transfiguration, death, resurrection, and ascension. (3) It has about ten chapters dealing mainly with the Persian ministry of Jesus the details of which are not furnished us by any other. (4) It alone gives us a number of parables, including the Good Samaritan, the Prodigal Son, Dives and Lazarus, the Pharisee and the Publican, and others. (5) It alone gives us five great hymns of the church, namely, the Ave Maria, Magnificat, Benedictus Gloria in Excelsis, and Nunc Dimittis. (6) It alone tells us about the prayers of Jesus at his baptism after the cleaning of a leper, before conversation at the transfiguration, and on the cross for his enemies.

(7) It alone tells us of the conversion of Zacharias, the topic of conversation at the transfiguration the trial before Herod, the penitent thief, the appearance of Jesus on the evening after the resurrection, including his walk to Emmaus, and a number of other interesting and vital incidents.

BENNER TWP.

Jack Frost paid us a visit three nights in succession and has killed every growing plant. Rev. Gaunt has gone to Clearfield where he will preach and Rev. Woomer will preach in the U. B. charge here.

Orvis Harris is threshing through Buffalo Run valley, this week. Frances Benner and wife, and Charles Johnstonbaugh and lady friend Helen Brown, out to Lock Haven, on Saturday evening to visit friends and they attended the show there.

Mrs. Ira Benner entertained four lady friends from Clearfield on Tuesday. Edwin Benner, brother of Ira Benner, spent Sunday there. William Worrel from Zion, spent Sunday here with Fred Marshall and family.

Mrs. Mack Spicer was kept busy the past week canning peaches. Frances Benner and wife, and James Shilling and Harold Faury spent Friday evening at the skating rink at State College, roller skating.

Jack Lose visited in Bellefonte Saturday evening and Sunday with friends and relatives.

Many cars were parked along Spring Creek on Sunday, people taking a day of pleasure and sunshine.

We have been told that there are quite a lot of cases of typhoid and scarlet fever at State College.

The farmers were late sowing their fall crop on account of the rainy weather, some just finished sowing wheat this week. Some farmers are filling silos while others are raising potatoes.

People are complaining of the Benner hill here at Rock being unfit to travel. It is washed out in gutters some being a foot or more deep, some people have been planning to go to Harrisburg to see why the road is not fixed fit for cars to travel on.

VALLEY VIEW

Miss Anna Gherilly is spending a few weeks with her father, Calvin Gherilly and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gherilly.

Those who spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pardee were Mr. and Mrs. Willis Neff and daughter Arline of Curtin and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shillings, Mrs. Sara Markle and son Ray and Mrs. May Beatty of State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wison returned home Sunday after spending a week in West Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. James Wison, son Leroy, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Houser, daughter Gloria motored to West Virginia Friday night to bring Mr. and Mrs. Wison home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sager and family and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Houser, spent the weekend at a camp in the Allegheny mountains.

Miss Betty Shuey spent Sunday with Mirman and Hazel Houser of Bellefonte.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul King and two children Mack and Janet, spent the weekend in Ford City with Mrs. King's sisters Mrs. Karl Fredericks and Mrs. James Klangermeyer and her mother Mrs. Ida Lester. On their way home they stopped at Cooks Forest.

Mr. Fred Lose had his tonsils removed Wednesday at Dr. Mervine in Lock Haven.

Those who spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lose were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yeacker, Mrs. Ella Clements and Shirley Chandler.

MADE TEST FOR HIMSELF WAS NOT DISAPPOINTED

Mr. Andresen declares Williams Formula Best Medicine He Ever Used—Mr. Gibbons Found RUX Compound Just The Medicine For Neuritic-like Pains That Caused Him So Much Distress!

When foods cause gas and bloat, your head aches, you feel dizzy, let-down, tired out and most everything you do seems a burden—when your nights are sleepless, you roll and toss and get up hardly fit for the day's work—don't you think it's time to do something about it?

What Mr. Andresen Did! The prominently known Pittsburgh insurance man, Mr. Bendix Andresen, 321 Atwood St., says of his recent experience, "Acid indigestion after eating was making me nervous, and I was getting dizzy spells from the gas pressure and sluggish condition of my bowels. At times, the pressure would seem to make my heart flutter and this was a most distressing feeling. I know others were finding WILLIAMS FORMULA answered their needs, so I tried it for myself. I am thankful that I did. I have been agreeably relieved of these gas and sour, acid pain distresses after eating and enjoy my foods so much more."

Mr. Gibbons Gets Relief! And Mr. Stephen Gibbons, Dilltown, (near Johnstown, Pa.) says, "Neuritic like pains were not only keeping me from sound sleep but even made me lose my appetite for food. This was tearing down my energy so it was imperative that I find a good medicine at once. I decided to try RUX Compound for myself. I was not disappointed for

MR. BENDIX ANDRESEN this fine medicine did not take long to begin relieving my pains."
