—We had the pleasure of meeting last Thursday, a dyed-in-the-wool, militant Democrat, who wears the principles of his party as a cloak and stands ready to challenge any who might have the temerity to scoff at that garment. He is Glenn Evans, of Waukesha, Wisconsin, a native of Penn's Valley, who is on vacation from his regular duties with the Waukesha Motor Company, nationally known manufacturers of tractor and truck motors. On his vacation trip east, Mr. Evans visited practically every Democratic headquarters and newspaper office en route, and that, combined with frequent brushes with Republicans, convinced him into a moss-free political rally known as "The Party" in which he is to speak interestingly, convincingly and forcefully for a half-hour at our office on the benefits the common man has received through President Roosevelt's two administrations. We know without further proof that with him as Democratic committeeman, the 6th ward of Waukesha is well represented. If the party had one hundred Mr. Evans to send out through the country as emissaries of Democracy most elections could be won without a struggle.
