SOMETHING?

We're vaguely disturbed over reports that Hitler and Mussolini, interested in the defeat of President Former Governor Declares fluence the vote on November 5. A telling blow on England would be less effective than some direct interference in this country, such as a last-minute barrage of some kind of propaganda that sounded real but couldn't be branded as false before election day. We've had Roosevelt as President for 8 years, and have known him much longer than that. For the last four years his opponents have easierly given voice to every conceivable hate they have against him.
