Big Comet To Usher In Christmas

man is fortunate he may be able to see the comet in the daytime merely by holding up a hand to block out direct sunlight from his eyes. In recent times only one comet, that of 1882, attained such brilliance.

Astronomers at Harvard Observatory say that the earliest date at which the new comet can be seen with the unaided eye. And then it can be seen only in the isolated country, far away from the glare of lights of cities. Even then it may be difficult to see because the moon will be full on December 14 and the night sky will be bright.

However, by Christmas Eve, on December 24, nearly every one who knows where to look will be able to see the new comet. At that time the moon will be waning and the sky will be dark at night. At the same time the comet will have increased in brightness. By Christmas even people in large cities will be able to view the comet.

The appearance of the new comet near Christmas time is sure to set people wondering if the famous Star of Bethlehem, which guided the Wise Men to the Christ Child, was not also a comet. As best astronomers can calculate now it is believed that this was not so. Rather, the best explanation is that at the time of the birth of Christ two planets were in conjunction in the zodiacal sign, having served as general superintendents of the church school.

POMONA GRANGE NEWS

Centre County Pomona Grange No. 3 met Saturday, November 16, in the L. O. O. F. building at Millheim with East Penna Valley Grange as host with an attendance of 200 patrons.

The morning session was presided over by the Worthy Pomona Master, L. E. Biddle.

Sara Grove, secretary to Pomona Grange Fair Association, gave a brief report on Fair conditions; T. I. Mairs, Superintendent of Education, at the Fair, gave his report. Judging of dramatics was quite extensively discussed.

Harry Fisher was elected a member of the executive committee and George Ralston a member of the finance committee, with Samuel Pletcher as fire insurance auditor.

Edith S. Dale spoke on the Centre County Library and endorsed its work. The address of welcome was given by Henry Stover, of East Penna Valley Grange, and the response by Mayse Harpster, of Port Matilda Grange.

The main feature at the noon hour was The National Grange program from Syracuse, N. Y., which was tuned in and enjoyed by all.

Dr. Burt, of The Pennsylvania State College Extension Service, gave an educational lecture and display of different varieties of potatoes and disease of potatoes, with special mention to the following varieties: Hauma, Rural Russet, Sebago, and Sequel. The proper preparation of soil, section of seed and spraying was urged. Pennsylvania is the third best potato producing state in the union.

The afternoon session was in charge of Pomona lecturer, Phoebe Cronister, who rendered the following program:

Music by East Penna Valley Orchestra, directed by Paul Barages; solos, "Sweetheart of the Valley," "God Bless America," Lois Stover; reading, "The Granger's Wife," Mrs. John Blausler; Potato Song, composed by Phoebe Cronister.

The farm topic for the afternoon was Potatoes.

The potato originated in South America. There are thirty-one different varieties given to serve potatoes.

Potatoes, John West, Potatoes, the largest vegetable crop, Joseph Owens; Maine Potatoes, Mrs. George McCormick; Soil for Potatoes, Mrs. Harry Fisher; Shipping Potatoes.

PENN STATE TO EXHIBIT LIVESTOCK AT CHICAGO

The Pennsylvania State College will exhibit 34 hogs and 21 lambs at the livestock show at Chicago, Ill., in position in Chicago, Nov. 30 to Dec. 7. The animals will be shipped Nov. 25 in order to allow them time to become accustomed to their surroundings.

Purebred wether lambs will be shown by the College in the sheep classes. These will include one Hampshire, one Shropshire, three Cheviots, and 16 Southdowns.

The College will show nine Chester White barrows, three in each of the weight classes, and six Duroc Jerseys, three each in the light and heavy classes. It will show nine Berkshire, three in each class, and a pen of 10. A get-of-sire class of five will be shown in each breed. Six barrows have been entered in the carcass class, and the pen of 10 Berkshires will automatically be entered in the contest for 10 carcasses.

Penn State entries have been strong competitors at the International. The past two grand champion wether lambs of the exposition were bred, fed, and exhibited by the College. Beginning in 1935 with reserve champion barrow, the College has shown on alternate years the reserve champion and grand champion barrow of the exposition. In 1936 and 1937, the College won the sweepstakes prize on its pen of 10 barrows, on foot, and for the past two years it took first prize in the contest of 10 carcasses.

LOCAL OFFICIALS MEET THIS WEEK AT PENN STATE

Municipal and local finance officers from every corner of the state will meet at the Pennsylvania State College this weekend to hear the prominent speakers and to discuss such problems as tax delinquency and assessing procedure.

The meeting, fifth in an annual series sponsored by the Institute of Local Government and the Extension Services of Penn State, will open with a general session Friday afternoon, Nov. 22, and close with a luncheon on Saturday.

Speakers at the Friday night session will include State Senator Charles R. Mallory, of Blair county; T. Coleman Andrews, representative of the Municipal Finance Officers of the United States and Canada; and Roy Owsley, Washington representative of the American Municipal Association.

Cooperating municipal divisions and their state officers who will take part in the program include: third class cities, Walter E. Greenwood, Coatesville; boroughs, Thomas F. Christwalt, Hanover; county commissioners, James Kell Greenburg, county controllers, Asher S. Kichline, Easton; county treasurers, W. Clyde Harper, Williamsport; township supervisors, H. A. Thomson, Drexel Hill; and township commissioners, Dr. Frank P. K. Barker, Norristown.

The surest way to make money is to render service for compensation instead of trying to figure up some scheme to make money without effort.

It might surprise some school teachers to know how much their pupils know about them.

Victor Brungard; Idaho Potatoes, Harry Fisher; Potato Grading, Henry Stover; Potato Varieties, LaRue Porter; Rural Russets, Ray Sharer; Serving Potatoes, Pearl Biddle; Orchestra music.

Thanksgiving Through the Years, was discussed by Rev. James Fisher of Pipe Grove Mills, based on Psalms 92:1, in which he stated that we can give thanks in three ways only, by being willing to give of our time, talent and money. Doxology.

The traveling Bible was presented by Myrtle Dixon, chaplain of Marlon Grange, to Mrs. Morris Burkholder, chaplain of Pomona Grange. Talk on Keeping of Bees, Paul Stevens.

The Hon. Howard and Mrs. Miles celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary at this meeting. A guessing contest was held as to the number of eyes in a sack of potatoes, which was won by William Benford and Mary Vonada.

Phillip Barr composed an original poem on Potatoes.

At the evening session recognition was given Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Biddle and Andrew Rockey for being present at all Neighbor Nights during 1938, 1939 and 1940.

The following were given recognition for being absent at only one Neighbor Night in three years: Mrs. Andrew Rockey, Joseph Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weaver, Donald Biddle, and Mr. and Mrs. John Witmer.

Those attending every Neighbor Night in 1940 were: Phoebe Cronister, LaRue Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Donald Biddle, Mrs. Miles Bartley, Mr. and Mrs. John Witmer, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rockey, Joseph Owens, and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Biddle.

The traveling Bible was presented in pageant form by candlelight by Pomona Chaplain, Mrs. Burkholder, to a patron representing Spring Mills Grange, who had the largest percentage of its members at services on Go To Church Sunday, Rebersburg Grange won a miniature Bible being second highest. The crossing was recited in the distance by Joseph Owens during the pageant.

Six candidates were instructed in the mysteries of the Fifth Degree. It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good and His mercy endureth forever.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Seed Corn Needs Drying—The poor season for maturing corn has left much of it carrying a high percentage of moisture. If corn to be used for seed goes through a hard freeze in its present condition, germination will be seriously injured.

say agronomists of the Pennsylvania State College. Usually care is needed to insure rapid drying or protection must be given against early freezes until the seed corn has thoroughly dried.

Clean House Chimneys—Brushes for cleaning house chimneys can be made from pine branches with long ropes attached at each end. Penn State agricultural engineers say that the brush is started at the top of the chimney and let down and pulled up with the rope.

Clean Flower Borders—Proper care of the flower and shrub borders demands that a good cleaning be given these parts of the landscape around the house. Ornamental horticulturists of the Pennsylvania State College recommend removal and burning of the plants refuse to kill pests.

Protect Bees from Wind—Colonies of bees need wind protection, either natural or artificial, during the winter. A board fence or a fence of cornstalks will provide satisfactory artificial protection, say extension apiculturists of the Pennsylvania State College.

Agricultural Students Enroll—Nearly 1,300 students are enrolled in the School of Agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College this year. This nearly equals the record figure of last year.

Select Right Apples—Select the proper variety of apple as to season and use if you would get satisfaction. Fruit specialists of the Pennsylvania State College say that each variety has its best time for use.

Bear Seen Along Pike—Guy Basinger and his hunting party from Lock Haven, while returning from their camp in the Coudersport Pike section, last Wednesday encountered a huge black bear, which was believed to have weighed at least 400 pounds. The bear very casually crossed the road, which was on the Coudersport Pike route, in front of the car. He was, however, un molested, due to the fact that big game hunting season didn't open until five days later.

Woman Dies As Home Burns

burns all over the body about 7 o'clock that morning when an explosion resulted as she poured kerosene in the kitchen range to hasten the fire. Flaming liquid showered the room which soon was a mass of flames.

With Mrs. Burns downstairs was a daughter, while seven other members of the family were in upstairs bedrooms. The flames spread so rapidly that those upstairs could not use the stairway and some of them jumped from the windows. Others were assisted to the ground by neighbors who rushed to the scene.

Those admitted to the hospital in addition to Mrs. Burns were these of her children: Miss Betty Estright, 20; Melvin Burns, 16; Alfred Estright, 35; and Gladys Estright, 32. All suffered burns about the face, arms and chest, and several had lacerations of the hands from broken windows. All are recovering satisfactorily.

Two grandchildren and several other children of Mrs. Burns escaped unharmed from the blazing home.

Fed by the coal oil, the blaze spread with great rapidity and in a short time the entire house was involved. There was no chance to save clothing or household goods.

Neighbors, assisted by the Logan Fire Company of Bellefonte, kept water on the nearby homes of Donald MacMillan and Ralph MacLaughlin, which were scorched by the intense heat.

Mabel Estright Burns was a daughter of Robert and Susan Laird Blair and was born in Centre County on April 5, 1880, making her age at time of death 60 years, 7 months, and 11 days. In 1897 she was united in marriage with David Estright, who passed away in 1921. In 1922 she was united in marriage with Harry Burns.

Surviving children are: Cornelius Estright, Tyrone; Samuel Estright, Mrs. Zachariah Sommers, Betty Estright, Melvin Burns, Alfred Estright, and Gladys Estright, all of Wingate; Mrs. William Glace, Lewistown; Mrs. Charles Conaway, Snow Shoe; Mrs. Miles Resides, Julian, R. D.; and Mrs. Violet Poorman, Julian.

Other survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Bortoff, and Mrs. George Harper, both of State College, and 10 grandchildren. Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at the Evangelical church, Wingate, with the Rev. L. E. Kline, of Howard, officiating. Interment was made in the Oak Ridge cemetery, near Unionville. Mrs. Burns was a member of the Evangelical church, Wingate.

Navy Age Limit Cut to 17—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox announced that he has lowered the naval enlistment age from 18 to 17. Knox said the step was taken "in order to encourage enlistments of younger men, particularly those of high school caliber." Seventeen-year old recruits will serve until their 21st birthday, and enlistment will be accepted only with the consent of parents or guardians.

State Nurse Dies On Highway

farm, just southeast of Phillipsburg in Rush township, on September 26, 1938. Her father, C. C. Hess, died a number of years ago.

Surviving the loss of this loved one are her devoted mother, Mrs. Catherine Hess, four brothers and one sister, namely: L. Edgar Hess and C. Homer Hess, of Rush township; Samuel M. Hess, of Huntingdon; Ralph Hess, of Osceola Mills; Miss Catherine Hess, at home.

Miss Hess attended Juniata College, Huntingdon, and prepared her life's work as a nurse at the Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, from which institution she was graduated in 1913. For a couple of years she served as a nurse at the Children's Seashore Home, Atlantic City, which is connected with the Pennsylvania hospital. She did private duty for a short time before becoming affiliated with the State Department as a nurse.

She was a member of the Pennsylvania Nursing Association, District 8, and as an active member was sent as a delegate to the state convention, held at Wilkes Barre the latter part of October. She was also affiliated with the Pennsylvania State Organization for Public Health Nursing.

In early girlhood she united with the Methodist church of this place, and ever manifested her loyalty. She was also a charter member of the Twentieth Century Club, Phillipsburg. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the family home in Phillipsburg in charge of her pastor, Rev. Walter H. Williams, of Trinity Methodist church.

Interment was made in the family plot in Phillipsburg cemetery.
