ARMISTICE DAY.

Just tweney-two years ago
The Armistice was signed.
And as each year we celebrate
The first one is clear, in my mind.

And as the band plays sweet music
I silently shed a tear,
In memory of those I loved
My two little boys so dear.

They never grew to be soldiers
But silently went away.
Leaving me with only memories
Memories of yesterday.

Their life on earth was too brief
But they answered the great roll call
Of our Father who reigns above
The ruler of one and all.

So each Armistice Day I'm sad
Along with many more,
Whose hearts today are sad
Because of a cruel war.

When years ago their sons
Silently marched away,
And left them with only a memory
A memory of yesterday.

MILK PRICE OF $1.92 FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER

Continued heavy production in October combined with a daily decrease in the consumption of fluid milk in the New York market of 3.37 per cent resulted in a uniform prize of $1.92 per hundred pounds for dairy farmers in the New York milkshed.

N. J. Cladakis, administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area, who announced the price, said it would apply to milk of 3.5 per cent butterfat received in October at New York City approved milk plants in the zone 201-210 miles distant from New York City.

Mr. Cladakis said that the price is the same as the uniform price of milk delivered in September and less than the price of $2.27 for October, 1939.

"The reason that the October price did not show an improvement over the previous month," Mr. Cladakis said, "will be found clearly defined in the production and consumption flures. Production continued at an unseasonable high level and the net quantity of milk in the administrator's pool actually increased. "At the same time, the sale of fluid milk in New York decreased 3.37 per cent a day. The daily consumption in September amounted to 7,116,133 pounds, while the quantity used daily in the fluid class in October was 6,876,309 pounds.

Spectacle Frames

Celluloid spectacle frames may be very easily and effectively repaired by applying a drop of glacial acetic acid to the broken ends, then in a few minutes pressing them firmly together, and allowing to dry.

Laundering Trousers

After woolen trousers are laundered, do not wring them, nor sprinkle them. Take off the line when nearly dry and fold as when puchased. Then wring out a towel wet in clear water, cover the trousers with it, and iron until the towel is perfectly dry.

Use For Old Candles

Melt the ends of old candles and add this to common turpentine. The mixture will make an excellent wax for polishing the floors.

Table Linen

Try darning table linen on the sewing machine. First put the worn places in embroidery hoops, loosen the tension of the machine, and then stitch back and forth until the place is neatly mended. The mended portion is hard to find after laundering.

Coffee Pot Repair

If the pin in the hinge of the coffee pot lid breaks, or slips out and is lost, replace it with a small safety pin, and it will probably last as long as the pot.

Gasoline Odor

To remove the odor of gasoline from freshly-cleaned garments, use oil of sassafras in the gasoline (about ten drops to a quart of gasoline).

Old Pictures

After several years, the backs of pictures hung on the wall sometimes are torn and open to dust and soil, which is injurious to the picture itself. Take a heavy grade of wrapping and glue it tightly to the back of the frame; this will keep out the dust and dirt.

Home-Made Metal Polish

A practical polish for all metals can be made with one cup of cigar ashes mixed with a tablespoon of bicarbonate of soda brought to a smooth paste by the addition of water. Use on a soft cloth, rubbing vigorously.

To Frost Glass

One method for frosting glass is to apply a solution of six ounces of magnesium sulphite, two ounces of dextrin, in twenty ounces of water.

To Waterproof Pottery

Occasionally the inside glaze of a pottery flower bowl or vase is imperfect, so that when in use a ring of moisture is formed on the table on which it stands. In this case, warm the pottery with hot water, and wipe. Then pour into it a few spoonfuls of melted paraffin and turn and tip the vessel until the whole interior is coated.

The people of our town were frightened out of their sleep about five-fifteen o'clock Monday morning by the fire whistle which announced a fire in the Henry Noll bunk house, a few yards from the main house, due to the explosion of an oil burner. Four boys were in the building at the time and while they escaped uninjured only one was able to save his clothes. Mr. Noll had gone to considerable expense last spring to have this building made very modern and comfortable and it was a total loss to him as he had not had it insured yet.

Another event on Monday was the running away without a driver, of a car which had been parked near Melroys and which finally came to a stop in the low unoccupied vacant lot adjoining the Henry Noll property.

Earl Lego of Philadelphia spent a few days with his mother, Mrs. Frank Barnes and husband and brother Paul Lego and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Adams moved Saturday into their new home on State Street.

Mrs. Henry Noll and Mrs. Ray Melroy made a hurried trip to Harrisburg last Wednesday and while here attended the Tea given by Miss Dorothy James at the Governor's Mansion to the ladies who attended the annual meeting of the State Council of Republican Women.

Mrs. Henry Noll was an overnight guest Monday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Brungart at Rebersburg.

Mrs. David Hall has been entertaining a friend from New York State for the past week.

Mrs. Henry Hoy who has been in poor health for a number of months is now a patient in the Centre County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrie Mulbarger and son Harold spent Tuesday evening at the home of the former's brother Samuel Mulbarger near Bellefonte.

Work was started recently on the burn on each side of the highway through town. This has been in terrible condition for a number of years and especially after hard rains hence the town folks are quite pleased with the project.

Mr. Compton who is a member of the United States Marines was called back to Philadelphia a few days ago. His wife who recently opened a Beauty Salon here was unable to accompany him to the city where he will be stationed for awhile.

Poets' Corner

A PRAYER.

I ask not wealth and power
Riches are not my aim.
Neither do honors lure me
Nor hope of future fame.
Amid the world's vast treasure
One thing alone I pray
God grant me a constant measure
Of peace from day to day.
Grant me a sense of beauty
In all that I survey.
And a little understanding
Of the things that come my way.
Yes, Lord, if all else be denied,
Grant me but this I pray!
Just a little understanding
Of the things that come my way.

MERRY HEART

Keep smilin', Bonnie Laddie,
With your merry eyes.
May your cheery blithness be
One that never dies.
Many hearts are comforted
By your cheery smile
More than words of condolence
It does joy beguile.
May you always laugh at life
As you do today.
You can conquer every hurt
With your spirit gay.
Happiness is always yours,
Things are what they seem.
Le, no one persuade you, Lad,
That you must not dream.
God put a ray of sunshine
In your merry soul.
To keep it bright and glowing
May it be your goal.
You will find some bitter souls
Who say you should be serious,
That's because they've lost the way
To your joy mysterious.
There'll always be enough of rain
Of somber skies and gray.
You just keep a-smilin', Lad,
In your merry way.

WOMAN, 84, RETRACES IN DEATH HER 'HOMECOMING'

Mrs. Sophie Vetter Kerr, 84, of Pittsburgh, retraced Saturday in death the "homecoming" route she planned years ago.

A yellowed scrap of paper found in her safety box directed that her funeral procession be driven over the streets she trod as a young woman and past the houses she once called home.

"Don't forget," she wrote. "I want to see the old home and some of the old folks."

An obituary—written in pencil and ink—had been kept up to date from time to time. It said she was born in Alsace-Lorraine in March, 1856, and came here with her family when she was 11.

Beech Creek Grange Buys Home
