RECENT WEDDINGS

Haag—McDermott.
Mrs. Gertrude McDermott, of Gary, Ind., Friday announced the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Clarys McDermott, to Alexander Samuel Haag, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Haag, of Tyrone, the ceremony having been solemnized in the rectory of Holy Rosary Catholic church of Gary, Ind., with Rev. Fa her Lewis Roy officiating. The happy couple was attended by the brother and sister of the bridegroom as best man and maid of honor. The bride is a graduate of the Emerson High School of Gary, Ind., and has since been employed in the office of the state police headquarters in Indianapolis. Mr. Haag is a graduate of Tyrone High School, class of 1933, and was one of the stars of the high school football team. He is employed by the Inland Steel company in Indiana Harbor. Following the ceremony, a reception and dinner was tendered at the home of the bride. The bridegroom is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haag, of Bellefonte, and has frequently visited here.

MUSICAL EVANGELISTS AT MILLHEIM CHURCH
Rev. and Mrs. Max Harvey, Musical Evangelists from Akron, Ohio, St. Luke's Evangelical Church, Millheim, from February 4 to 16 inclusive. This is the same evangelistic party which appeared in that church a year ago, and they will be remembered for their varied musical programs, and stirring gospel messages. Both Rev. and Mrs. Harvey are accomplished musicians, together playing ten different instruments including piano, piano accordion, cathedral chimes, piccolo, cow bells, tenor guitar, electric Hawaiian guitar, violin, trumpet, electric vibraphone, and musical saw. Altogether they carry with them more than $4,000 worth of instruments, all of which will be used throughout the series of meetings. In addition both are splendid singers, and will give their message in song as well as through the instrumental programs and gospel sermons. It will be of interest to those folks who attended the services last year to know that since the first of June, Rev. Harvey has been serving a full-time pastorate in the city of Akron, having been extended a call by the congregation of which Dr. W. D. Herrstrom had been pastor for some time. Dr. Herrstrom resigned his pastorate there in order to devote his full time to traveling and lecturing in Bible conferences, and also to writing books. As a result of accepting this pastorate the Harveys are not now engaged in full-time evangelistic work, but have reserved several weeks out of the year for several campaigns. The services will begin promptly each night (except Monday) at 7:30, with a song service and musical program. On Sunday, February 9 there will be services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; and on Sunday, February 16 at these same hours, and also at 2:30 in the afternoon, which will probably be an all-musical program. During the second week, from Monday February 10 to Friday the 14th there will be children's meetings in the church immediately after school. In these services for the children interesting object talks will be given by Mrs. Harvey, and choruses will be taught. The public is invited to attend all of these services.

LETTERS to the Editor

TELLS OF BOAT TRIP
(The following letter written by Allan Hoy to his mother, Mrs. Henry Hoy, Bellefonte, R. D., describes an ocean trip to the South, and is given space in this column as an interesting news item to his many friends in this vicinity.)

On the S. S. Dorchester, Going North in Chesapeake Bay to Philadelphia. Sunday, 11 a. m., Jan. 12, 1941. Dear Mother:

A few lines to you about things since I last wrote to you.

The enclosed booklet "The John S. Collins Memorial" should make easy, interesting reading for you. If you get a chance, read it over before we see you and then with some pictures we have of the place, Miami Beach now, together with some of the cards we have sent you, you will have a good understanding of the enormous work that has been done to make it the beautiful place it is.

We were to get into Philadelphia this Sunday morning at 7, but we will be about 18 hours late, getting in instead at 11 a. m., Monday, January 13. Too bad, for it spoils the plan we had to visit the Beneditos today. The reason we are so late is that at Jacksonville, Fla., we took on an enormous load of freight consisting of lumber (pine) and citrus fruits. The ship has a refrigeration capacity for fruit, etc., of 60-200 cubic feet.

Loading this, the ship was 8 hours late, getting away from Jacksonville. Coming north in the Atlantic Ocean we encountered a strong, unfavorable wind much of the way and off the coast of North Carolina, near Cape Hatteras, we were subjected to quite a storm. The ship tossed around, a lot most of the night and we were quite uncomfortable. Nothing serious happened, tho, and we'll have to wait until we see you to answer questions you may have and tell you of our detailed experiences.

In line with my intention to come often as we can near the first of each month, I hope we will be in there Saturday, February 1.

We have greatly enjoyed the trip and don't worry about what happened to my handwriting. I never did write very well and the vibration from this boat, although gliding very smoothly through the Chesapeake Bay, shakes my hand slightly, and that is all that is wrong with my handwriting as far as I know. Love to all.

ALLAN.

The Centre Democrat:

Thirty-one years ago our family left Pennsylvania and settled near Illinois. Following the ceremony, a reception and dinner was tendered at the home of the bride. The bridegroom is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haag, of Bellefonte, and has frequently visited here.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Takes Oath Of Office As Nation's First Third-Term President

Addressing Thousands Before Nation's Capitol and Other Millions Throughout the Land, Pledges Himself to Guard and Perpetuate Democracy With All Faith of America in Face of Peril.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt took the presidential oath of office at 12:11 1/2 p. m. Monday to become the nation's first third-term president. Against the grim backdrop of a world at war, a host of Americans joined in a pageant of patriotism and tradition for the inauguration ceremonies.

Thousands on thousands swarmed along Washington's flag-decorated avenues in freezing temperatures, reading about themselves hoarse at the climactic moment when the Chief Executive would place his hand upon a worn Dutch family Bible and solemnly promise once again to "preserve, protect and defend the constitution."

The crowds overran hotels, pullmans, and even the capital's tourist camp on the banks of the Potomac. For the day, the holiday-mood throngs tried to forget the shadows of impending foreign crises and gave themselves up to paying homage to the nation's leading figure—the President.

Crowd Less Noisy
Although the crowd was as large as usual, it was strikingly less noisy than the throngs which have seen past inaugurations. It may have raved on the banks of the Potomac, but the solemnity of the President's theme, but while the interruptions for applause were frequent they were relatively short and the sound was muffled by gloves.

The chief executive spoke from an imposing temporary stand, the whole designed to carry out the quasi-classical architecture of the capitol buildings. To his left were the members of the house and senate, some in glistening silk topers, others in plain fedoras. To his right was the diplomatic corps, including Hans Thomsen, German charge d'affaires.

About the President were the members of his family, Vice President Wallace, who took the oath of office just before Mr. Roosevelt did so; John N. Garner, who closed a 38-year public career, by administering the oath to Wallace, and Chief Justice Hughes, in his sliver gown and tiny black skull cap, administered the oath to the President.

Sermon on Democracy
Reference to the "spirit of American" and the "spirit of democracy" were frequent in the 1,200-word speech which Mr. Roosevelt delivered as a veritable sermon on democracy.

Most Unconquerable
"We know it because democracy alone, of all forms of government, enlightens the full force of man's enlightened will."

PURSE-SNATCHER:
What has become of Bellefonte's purse-snatcher? The sudden absence, during the past two weeks or so, of "incidents" such as the ones which had womenfolk in pitters for several months, makes some people believe that the snatcher has left town. Police say nothing but they have a peculiar twinkle in the eye when they talk about the matter.

Centre County's First Volunteers In '61

W. Montgomery, David K. Tate, Robert A. Cassidy, Charles H. Hale, James P. Riddle.

Meanwhile, their services were rendered upon a more pleasant occasion—the inauguration of Governor Curtin, which took place January 15, 1861, at Harrisburg.

The flag of the Fencibles, which he had received on behalf of the company from the ladies of Bellefonte nearly three years before, waved over Governor Curtin's head as he delivered his inaugural address.

It was not until after the firing upon Fort Sumpter that the Bellefonte Fencibles actually got into service.

Following the memorable incident which precipitated the bloody struggle between the North and South, an enthusiastic meeting of the citizens was held in the Court House, for the purpose of taking action on the recent requisition made on the State for sixteen regiments of volunteers.

The meeting was described as one of the largest and most patriotic gatherings ever convened here. Major James Armor was made chairman and Hon. James T. Hale was called upon to state the object of the meeting which he did in a brief but patriotic speech. From this gathering of patriotic Centre county citizens the enthusiasm of national defense resulted in the organization of many volunteer units.

In Snow Shoe a company was formed with James Gilliland as captain; Dr. A. A. Yarrington, first lieutenant; Samuel W. Askey, second lieutenant; and David Bells, orderly; and a resolution passed to tender its services.

The Bellefonte Fencibles, Capt. John Mitchell, at once and for the serving unit offered their services, and so promptly proceeded to Harrisburg, one hundred and seventy-seven strong.

The Eagle Guards, under Capt. A. B. Snyder, one hundred and twenty-five strong, soon followed.

A third company was formed with the surplus (beyond the seventy-seven required) of these companies, under Capt. John N. Stover. Captain Robert McParlane left Boalsburg on the 18th with the Cameron Infantry, one hundred and twenty-seven men. And Frank W. Hess, a school teacher at Pottery Mills, took down some men, and organized a company from the surplus of Centre county recruits at Harrisburg.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Recently there has been discovered in the science of nutrition that certain increases energy and endurance and tones the muscles, which means an individual can do more work with less fatigue. Through the use of gelatin you may serve an endless variety of delicious dishes. Try a molded salad, a meat loaf, chilled appetizers and soups; all of these will appeal to the family.

Fruit Soup
1 tablespoon gelatin.
1-4 cup cold water.
2 bouillon cubes.
1-4 cup boiling water.
1-2 cup unsweetened pineapple juice.

Dissolve gelatin in the cold water, add bouillon cubes to the boiling water and when dissolved pour over the gelatin, stir well. Let cool and add the pineapple juice. Mix well and pour into soup dishes. Chill and serve very cold, accompanied by salty crackers, spread with cream cheese.

Justification for Sacrifices
"But," he declared, "we Americans know that this is not true."

"The preservation of the spirit and faith of the nation," he declared, "does and will, furnish the highest justification for every sacrifice that we may make in the cause of national defense."

"Prophets of the downfall of American democracy have seen their dire predictions come to naught," the President said.

"We know it because we have seen it revive and grow."

"We know it cannot die—because it is built on the unhampered initiative of individual men and women joined together in a common enterprise—an enterprise undertaken and carried through by the free expression of a free majority."

Spirit is the Greatest
But he reverted quickly to the main theme of his speech, saying "it is not enough," he continued, "to clothe and feed the body of this nation, and instruct and inform its mind. For there is also the spirit. And of the three, the greatest is the spirit."

"Without the body and the mind, as all men know, the nation could not live."

"But if the spirit of America were killed, even though the nation's body and mind, constructed in an alien world, lived on, the America we know would have perished."
