Notice to Visitors

Because of the prevalence of influenza, grippe and common colds, hospital authorities have restricted visiting in semi-private and ward rooms to the immediate families of patients.

Hospital officials also ask that visiting in private rooms be kept to a minimum. The restrictions will be removed when the present epidemic conditions have passed, it was said.

Hand Cut in Saw

John Kelly, 37, Bellefonte, R. D. 3, received treatment Saturday at the dispensary of the hospital for an injury to the second finger of his left hand. Kelly, employed as a carpenter by Lawrence Shelby, caught his finger in a circular saw. Several stitches were required to close the laceration.

days. When he was one year of age the family moved to South Spring street—and he has lived on the section of that street known as "Quaker Hill" ever since, having built his present home there 44 years ago.

Mr. Lambert was united in marriage with Mary Erby Houser, who died in October 1929. Surviving are these children: Marguerite, at home; William, Russell and John, all of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Hugh L. Wilson, of Warriors Mark. One brother and sister survive, namely: James D. Lambert, of East McKeesport, and Mrs. Charles Spicher, of near Bellefonte. There also are four grandchildren.

Mr. Lambert was a lifelong member of the Bellefonte Methodist church. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the home, with the Rev. H. Willis Hartsock, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Interment was made in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte.

Mr. Lambert was the contractor in charge of the remodeling of the Centre County Court House and on several occasions remodeled the former Bellefonte Academy buildings. He built the first airplane hangar in this area on the Beaver farm just east of Bellefonte, and constructed the first group of buildings at the Fish Hatchery between Bellefonte and Pleasant Gap. He was in charge of the construction of the building at the corner of Bishop and Allegheny street which now houses the County Chevrolet garage, and in addition built many homes and buildings in the Bellefonte-State College area.

Mr. Lambert was a member of the United Fire Company and of the I. O. O. F. Lodge, both in Bellefonte. His reputation for thorough work and for reliability in his business dealings had earned for him the reputation of being one of the foremost contractors in this area.

The Centre County Library is growing up. The report for the first fiscal year, January to December, 1940, presents figures and problems which indicate that the library is taking its rightful place in filling a long-felt need among the civic activities of the community; that the use of its facilities is steadily increasing and that the need for expansion in every phase of its work is urgent.

The most notable development is that of the reference service. Not only do school children seek information in connection with their studies and hobbies, but adults engaged in various activities have learned that the library can supply more than recreational literature, whether the need is the making of a club program, a treatise of some phase of engineering or a discussion of world events. Citizens of periodicals from states, cities have been sorted and arranged, and with the help of current indexes, have provided the answers to many of these reference questions.

As the National Defense program progresses many requests have been received for material of a technical nature which, naturally, has been supplied from the county book stock. Nearly two hundred special requests have been met by books sent by mail from the State Library or by the State College Library.

The frequent use of the new dictionary for general purposes and for the solving and construction of puzzles has led to the necessity of preparing some old dictionaries for home use.

Radio and cinema are strong contributing factors in promoting reading. Books of history and biography are called for as background material for such pictures as "Northwest Passage" and "Clyde With the Wind," and questions with which to win $250 on a radio program are diligently searched for in books of biography, music and general information.

When recently the State Motor Police requested a plan of the suburbs of Berlin, the County Library was able to produce the information from its own collection which now totals 11,432 volumes. To this the State has added by loan 2,087 volumes, making a working book-stock of 13,519 volumes. Unfortunately, in this number there are only 3,969 children's books for the 11,000 children of the county from the coal "A" book for every child in Centre county. Although more books for children than for adults have been purchased with the book fund, the number of children's books donated has been only 15 per cent of the total number of gift books, causing the wide difference between the adult and juvenile book collections.

Nearly 1,900 borrowers are registered at the Main Library. Three hundred of these are readers from outside the borough, some of whom are registered also in their local branches. Since January, 1940, four hundred titles have been opened for the use of adults and juveniles. Port Matilda, Snow Shoe-Charlestown, Millheim and Howard, and Centre Hall, making seven branches (Pleasant Gap and Philipsburg were opened in November, 1939, each receiving from 100-200 books per month). Pleasant Gap Branch is operated entirely by volunteer workers, and although it is open to the public only one hour and a half each week, circulated 2487 volumes, the largest branch circulation.

The County Hospital has weekly library service on Tuesday afternoons when books are taken to the wards and private rooms. The distributions of books to the patients has been facilitated by the recent gift of a double-deck carrier on rubber tires donated to the library by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company.

Much credit is due the 305 teachers in 117 schools who have been served with county books and who have shown enthusiasm and cooperation in circulating the books among their pupils. Nearly 15,000 units of circulation have been turned over in schools outside of Bellefonte, and 7,000 by children who use the main library.

To the end that children and adults in rural areas may be served regularly all year with the best literature for their needs, a fund for the purchase of a bookmobile was begun by a resolution passed at Teacher's Institute and has reached the sum of $450. Other collections have been reported but not yet turned in. Although the public schools of State College have never received any service from the County Library because of their own well-equipped library, they have unselfishly contributed $25 to the bookmobile fund. Other State College organizations have sent books and money in the interest of work with rural children.

Children's Story Hour on Saturday morning has been conducted since October by a group of students taking the course in oral interpretation of literature at State College under the direction of Mrs. Russell B. Nesbit. This attempt to bring to children in an intimate way the finest literature, both classic and modern, is having a definite influence on the reading tastes and habits of a number of those who attend regularly. It is unfortunate that the necessarily early hour due to bus schedules, has made it impossible to avail themselves of the privilege of hearing the stories.

PRESIDENT DELIGHTED WITH WIDE REACTION

President Roosevelt was described Tuesday as "delighted" with the reaction to his inaugural message and with the congratulations coming to the White House from this country and abroad.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters: "The President was delighted to end with the response coming in from the country, from abroad, the South and North, and from every direction."

Beginning the first full day of his third term, the Chief Executive adhered to a light schedule so as to leave as much time as possible to his "correspondence and paper work."

P. O. S. of A. to Receive Traveling Flag, Bible

These emblems started their journey last fall and will continue visiting the Camps in this part of the State until next August when they will complete their scheduled journey by arriving at the State Camp Convention to be held in Stroudsburg. This will complete its 23rd year of travel being contacted by more than 35,000 members and friends.
