

Modern Etiquette

- 1. Should children be taught what some people call "company manners?"
2. When a hostess knows that a guest is dieting, isn't it inconsiderate for her to insist that the guest eat more than she desires?
3. Is it permissible to ask a friend to introduce you to other people?
4. Isn't it proper, when shaking hands, to hold the hand at about chin level?
5. Should every guest at a wedding reception congratulate the bride and bridegroom?
6. Isn't it nice and thoughtful for a husband to send his wife a valentine?
7. When having a "Dutch treat" lunch with some friends, what is the best way to pay the bill?
8. When you are attending a church sermon or lecture and are seated with a fit of coughing, what should you do?
9. Is it improper to stress a remark by pointing a finger at the one who is being addressed?
10. Is it proper for a divorcee to wear the engagement and wedding rings of her first husband, after she has become engaged again?
11. Does a formal dinner begin at the same time as an informal dinner?
12. When a man is signing a hotel register, should he use the prefix Mr.?
13. Is it possible to judge a per-

- son's breeding by his "telephone voice?"
14. If you have a friend who has been married, but you do not know whether her husband is living or she is divorced, should you ask her?
15. How many vegetables is it necessary to serve at a dinner?
16. What should a hostess do when she has some weekend guests who develop into disagreeable bores?
17. When writing a note to decline an invitation, should one make it formal?
18. When a young man takes a girl to dinner and the food is not very good, should she ever criticize it?
19. When a girl introduces a young man to another girl, isn't it tactless for this second girl to say, "I am glad to know you. Jane has talked so much about you?"
20. When calling at a friend's house, and a servant whom you know opens the door, should one greet him?
21. Is there any rule of etiquette that governs the length of a marriage engagement?
22. When parents give their children good advice, tell them what to do and what not to do, is it also necessary that they continually set the example?
23. Is a person obliged to give the reason for declining an invitation?
24. Shouldn't one use a knife and fork to eat a double-decker sandwich?

Answers to Modern Etiquette

- 1. No. They should be taught that good manners are for daily use in the home, office, and on the street, as well as when in the presence of company.
2. Yes. Whether the guest is dieting or not, a hostess should never urge that she eat more than she desires.
3. Never, unless you are sure the meeting would be a mutual pleasure.
4. No; this is affectation. The hand should be slightly above the waist level.
5. The bridegroom should be congratulated, but not the bride. One should extend best wishes for happiness to the bride.
6. Yes. He may send one of the pictured kind or it may be candy or flowers.
7. Probably have one person pay the entire bill, then each friend contribute his share. Or, ask the waiter for separate checks.
8. Tiptoe quietly outside and remain until the coughing has been relieved.
9. Yes. One should not point.
10. The wedding ring should be abandoned. The engagement ring may still be worn, and the right hand, if the new fiancé does not object.
11. The formal dinner usually

- begins at 8 o'clock, the informal one around 7 or 7.30.
12. No. Just sign, J. L. Porter, Cleveland, Ohio.
13. Yes it is. The person of good breeding speaks as courteously and pleasantly when telephoning as he does face to face. The one who is curt or rude over the phone is just the same at other times.
14. No. She will tell you if she wants you to know.
15. Two vegetables are sufficient.
16. All she can do is to endure them as graciously as possible, realize that the weekend will soon pass, and be grateful for the consolation that it "will not happen again."
17. Yes, if the invitation is formal. Otherwise, not. The form of the invitation should be followed.
18. Never. It would be ill-bred to do so.
19. Yes; nothing could be more tactless.
20. Certainly. One should say pleasantly, "How do you do, Edward?"
21. No; but long engagements are not so common as they were years ago.
22. Yes. It has been said that "Whatever parent gives his children good instruction, and sets them at the same time a bad example, may be considered as bringing them food in one hand and poison in the other."
23. There is no obligation, but it is the gracious thing when there is no important reason for not doing so.
24. No. It should be eaten with the fingers.

New Rector

Grange, Mr. Thomas has owned and edited several newspapers in Pennsylvania and Virginia. He writes for several publications of the Episcopal church and is the author of a book of Church History "Trail Blazers of the Way," recently published by Morehouse-Gorham.

Mr. Thomas received his training at Mercersburg Academy, the University of Virginia and the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Virginia. He has served churches in several parts of Virginia and is now in charge of the Episcopal work in Waynesboro and Gettysburg.

Before the World War and until a year after, Mr. Thomas served with the Army, being discharged as second lieutenant. He has been a member of the American Legion since its inception. He is also a member of the Harris Ferry chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. He is secretary of the department of Christian Education of the Diocese, and a member of the executive council of the Diocese.

Mr. Thomas is a Virginian, where her family has been prominent for generations. She is a descendant of President Monroe on both sides of her family. She has been active for many years in church work and is a member of the executive board of the Diocesan Women's Auxiliary, in charge of the work of the Girls' Friendly Society. She is also Diocesan president of the latter society.

The Thomases expect to arrive in Bellefonte during the week of February 24 and will be accompanied by their son, Robert H. Thomas, IV, who is a freshman in high school. Miss Lena Kay of Albemarle county, Virginia, who has been a member of the household for some years, will accompany them.

Council Seeks New Revenues

New revenues Councilman Henry Broeckerhoff declared: "In the past few years Council has made every effort to save money and to conduct the affairs of the borough on a businesslike basis. We are now entitled to seek new ways of obtaining revenue, and the townspeople should support us. We have placed our 'house' in order, and there should be no complaints, especially if we can reduce the millage this year."

Many other members of Council concurred in Mr. Broeckerhoff's stand, some Councilmen pointing out that Bellefonte has the lowest millage rate of any town of comparable size in this area, and that Bellefonte has been slow to take advantage of the revenues provided by the licensing of pinball and other machines. One member added that Bellefonte is the only town of its size in this section which has not installed parking meters.

The vote to investigate the new sources of revenue was unanimous. Council approved the first reading of an ordinance requiring that the owner of property in the borough be required to register the deed for the property with the borough secretary. Dissension which appeared at the meeting over some provisions of the ordinance indicated that it may undergo substantial revision before it passes its third and final reading to become borough law. The purpose of the law is to afford an easy and accurate way to determine the owner of any given property in the borough.

The penalty for failure to observe the law is a five dollar fine and costs, or five days in jail.

Approval was given to a list of apparatus drivers submitted by the Logan Fire Company. The list follows: chief drivers, Philip Groes, Herman Hazel, Fred Love and Fred Blair, and assistant drivers, Fred Sawyer and G. Murray Decker.

Council increased the annual appropriation to the Logan Company as the borough's share of the light bill at the Borough building from $87 to $150, and in addition made a grant of $50 to partly reimburse the Logans for light bills they have paid in past years. With the Council chamber in use almost every day at night, and with lights in use most of the time, the Logan electric bills have increased to a point where the $87 annual appropriation fell far short of meeting the expense.

Police reported that 59 cars had been tagged for overtime parking since last meeting night. The report also showed 4 other motor vehicles, and the investigation of 25 telephone calls. Council approved a suggestion by Water Superintendent Phil Sayler that the police car be parked in a vacant space in the Logan Fire Co. building from 4 a. m. when the night police goes off duty, until the day man reports for work.

He pointed out that it would keep the car warmer and would protect it to some extent from weather.

Borough Manager George Carmelo reported that approximately 8 persons have been billed for the use of snow from sidewalks by borough employees. The borough now has authority to remove snow and fill the householder for the work if the snow is not removed within 9 hours after the beginning of a snowstorm.

The Fire and Police Committee has given authority to purchase paint and paper for use in the Logan Fire Company building. The decorating project is to be done by NYA employees.

Mayor Hardman P. Harris turned in $37.50 from fines and costs collected and reported that Clayton Z. Royer, new janitor at the Court House, had been sworn in as a special police. For some years Court House janitors have had borough police authority, to aid them in quelling any disturbances in or around the county buildings.

Health Officer Ralph Helster reported that during the last two-week period there have been no cases of communicable diseases in Bellefonte.

Council heard a report that the American Lime and Stone Company is continuing its experiments with devices designed to abate the lime dust nuisance.

It was reported that Mrs. Mary H. Broeckerhoff of State College, had presented a check for $1425 to Council for the unpaid balance on the borough home property sold last summer at public sale to her brother, J. Clarence Hamilton, of Bellefonte. Mrs. Broeckerhoff will be given the deed to the property as the guardian of Mr. Hamilton. One fourth of the purchase price of $1,900 was paid by Mr. Hamilton on the day of the sale.

college may admit former students of those not in school to the course if they are between 19 and 26 years of age and have completed at least two years of college. It is not required to do so, however, and may limit the course to Penn State students who have completed at least one year of regular college work.

Ground instruction will be given primarily by the college. It will consist of 72 hours of classroom instruction divided equally among three subjects: navigation, meteorology, and civil air regulations. An the Orphans' Court and receives $500 a year for that post, while the Prothonotary receives $1000 extra a year for his duties as clerk of the Court of Oyer and Terminer and Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions. The basic salary of the offices is $3000.

If sixth class regulations had been in effect in 1940, the county would have received the entire $2,672.21 excess from the Prothonotary's office. The county would have had to pay the Register the difference between his $3,500 salary and the $2,450 he would have cleared last year—or $1,049.84.

So its a matter of simple arithmetic to figure how the county would have fared had the 6th class regulations been in effect. Since it did receive one-half of the Prothonotary's excess, its extra profit from that source under the new system would have been the other half, or $1,269.10. It would have received $918.36 from the Recorder's office—making total receipts of $2,287.46. From this amount it would have had to pay $1,049.84 to make up the Register's salary, leaving a net $1,137.62 which the county would have kept.

Since under the present regulations incumbents of the three offices can keep one-half of everything they clear over $4000 in every year they stand to earn more than their $4000. Under the new system, with salaries definitely fixed, the county will profit more if they have good years, while in poor years the officials will be assured that they will receive their full salaries even if their offices do not earn it.

Under the 8th class regulations, Centre County may have an assistant district attorney at a salary of $1,250, and a County Detective at a salary not exceeding $4,000. Appointment of such officers may be made only with the approval of the Court.

The County Commissioners and the County Treasurer will become members of a salary board which will meet the first Monday of each year, to fix the salaries of county employees for the year.

The County Commissioners, who now receive $1800 each a year, will receive $3,000 a year, which will be a large item of extra expense, for which the County Treasurer, the annual salary will jump from $500 to $600 a year for his three.

The County Treasurer will continue to receive his remuneration through keeping a percentage of the money that passes through his office. He will, however, not be able to retain more than $4000 a year. There is no limit now on the amount he may keep.

The District Attorney will be entitled to a salary of $2,500 instead of the present $1,500. Auditors and jury commissioners will receive $6,000 a year, instead of the present $5 a day and mileage. The Sheriff's salary will be increased from the present $3000 to $4000 a year.

Board of view members will receive $10 a day and mileage instead of $7.50 a day.

Taken all in all, the cost of running the county government is almost certain to show a substantial increase after 6th class regulations go into effect, and it is difficult to see how the county will benefit from the extra expense.

But there's nothing we can do about it. The census takers counted 62,608 noses in the county last year, and that makes up a sixth class county, whether we like it or not. If the total had been 49,999 or 2,607 less, we'd still be a seventh class county.
