Most Unusual

While in a race with the stork, the doctor's car carrying Mrs. Grace Armstrong to the hospital at Winter, Wis., skidded and was wrecked. The doctor flagged a passing motorist, bunched Mrs. Armstrong into the machine and dashed off. When they arrived at the hospital they discovered the baby had been born—but the baby wasn't there. Dashing back to the scene of the wreck, they found him in a snowdrift near the doctor's wrecked car, yelling his head off, but otherwise unhurt.

Wrong-Sided Organs

When Francis Rice, 21, of New York, was examined by Army doctors, it was found that all of his major organs were on the wrong side of his body—his heart, liver and appendix were reversed. He was accepted, but doctors warned him to inform any examining doctor of this unusual condition in the event of any future illness to prevent inaccurate diagnosis.

Second McCall Brother Dies

Just thirty hours after the death of A. C. McCall on Friday while returning at his home in Johnstown after a business trip to State College, his brother Charles S. McCall passed away at the Memorial Hospital in Johnstown. Charles McCall was the owner of the C. D. McCall & Co. sheet metal and roofing firm of Johnstown.

HOUSEHOLD SCRAPBOOK

To Make Sandpaper

Sandpaper can be made by coating stout paper with glue and then sifting fine sand over its surface before the glue sets. Emery paper can be made in the same manner, only powdered emery is used instead of sand.

Uneven Floors

Cracks in the floor underneath a rug are very hard on the rug and should be filled whenever possible. Tear newspaper into small pieces and jet soak in alum and glue water until pulpy. Fill the cracks with this pulp and press in hard and smooth with a spatula. Then stain or paint the floor when it hardens.

Cleaning Hands

Grease and grime may be removed from the hands by adding a little sugar to the soap lather. The dirt will disappear like magic, leaving the hands soft and white.

Decorative Candles

If the candles that have been out all winter are soiled, but otherwise perfect, saturate a cloth with alcohol and rub the candles. All soil will be removed and the luster retained. The candles can then be wrapped and put away for next winter.

More Juice

When extracting juice from oranges or lemons, warm the fruit and roll briskly with the hand until soft. It will be surprising how much more juice will be obtained from the fruit.

Starch Treatment

To prevent starch from sticking, add one teaspoonful of lard to each quart of starch and boil it one minute before using.

Stocking Runs

If a run, or a small hole, in the silk stocking is rubbed with a dampened cake of soap, it will prevent a long run.

But at the County Home, Mrs. Mary Dry, of North Thomas street, supervisor of the project on which 12 women are now employed, and Miss Ida Daughenbaugh, of Howard, who is in charge of distribution, worked as usual, and their sides continued to turn out their daily quota of layettes for use of relief families.

No orders have been received here to discontinue work, and until such orders are received work will continue as usual.

Each woman works 120 hours a month and receives $36 compensation. The Bellefonte workers turned out a total of more than 3000 garments in six months' time while the distribution department furnished 264 garments on orders of the Centre County Commissioners, alone, in two days' time, it is reported.

SOLILQUY

The trains all run on schedule.

The children laugh and play.

But the house is gloomy and silent.

Since the boys have gone away.

We go on with our daily routine.

And cook three meals a day.

But a place at the table is empty.

Since the boys have gone away.

We miss 'em saying "Hi mother."

At the closing of the day.

And life don't seem worth living.

Since the boys have gone away.

We made them good-bye with a smile.

Intermingled with tears.

The news we have each day.

Confirms our greatest fears.

And we pray to our Heavenly Father.

Who watches over all.

That they return to us safely.

Ere they answer the last roll call.

And then in a silent whisper.

We say "Thy will be done."

Whether it be my boy.

Or some other mother's son.

Each day and hour we pray.

That soon the war will cease.

So we can live in unity.

And have perpetual peace.

Obedience Saves Life

George King, 7, of Lowell, Mass., probably saved his life because he listened to his 12-year-old brother's advice to "sit down and don't move" when an ice-cream truck which he was standing broke loose near the shore and moved downstream. Police who rescued him a half-hour later said if he had shifted his position even slightly, the ice would probably have broken under him and he would have drowned.

To Expand Local Fish Hatcheries

hatchery property, not far from the residence of Dewey Sorenson, hatchery supervisor.

At Bass Nursery

Extension of electric power lines from Fishermen's Paradise to the bass nursery. This facility will afford better protection to the area, in addition to providing ample light for night caretakers, who now use oil lamps. Power also will be available to operate electrical equipment.

All the itemized additions were approved by the State Board of Fish Commissioners at a recent meeting. Hatchery officials declared. In addition, a long-range program for the replacement of worn-out and outdated outdoor facilities at the Pleasant Gap hatchery was announced. It also is proposed to encase all present buildings at Pleasant Gap in brick, to conform with the new buildings. This work will not be done immediately.

Now under construction at the northern end of the Pleasant Gap unit is a fresh water biological research station, which will be devoted entirely to research work. In this station studies will be made of fish food organisms found in Pennsylvania lakes and streams, with the purpose of aiding nature through artificial means of providing more food for fish after they have been stocked in streams.

Other problems to be studied in the research laboratory will include fish diseases, and the life histories of different aquatic organisms in an effort to determine their relation to fish life.

Future Program

Scheduled for construction as soon as possible but not included in the present approved projects is a permanent building at Pleasant Gap hatchery to house equipment and materials which will be available to various colleges and scientists engaged in investigating matters pertaining to the breeding and propagation of fish and fish foods.

The Bellefonte hatchery, central headquarters for the field plant of the State Fish Commission, will become even a more important center in the statewide set-up after the year's building program has been completed.

The local plant will serve as the distribution center for fish foods, supplies and materials, which will be purchased in large quantities and stored here until needed at various hatcheries and nurseries throughout the state.

Trout Distribution

C. Ross Buller, of Bellefonte, chief fish culturist for the State, with offices at the Pleasant Gap Hatchery, and Dewey Sorenson, supervisor of all units of the Bellefonte Hatchery, in commenting upon the proposed expansion envisioned a steady improvement of local hatchery facilities during the next few years.

Get 10 New Trucks

Within the past week the Hatchery here received a consignment of ten new cab-over-engine trucks, for use in distributing trout to various lakes and streams. The addition of the new trucks increase the fish-distribution fleet of the State to approximately 40 trucks. Distribution of trout this year will begin on March 1.

Each truck carries two large insulated tanks, with a special section provided for ice. During the time the fish are enroute to their destination, the air content of the water in the tanks is kept at the proper level by a small gasoline-driven pump which sprays water continuously from the top of the tanks.

Mr. Buller announced that beginning this fall, work on the reconstruction and remodeling of the upper ponds at Pleasant Gap will be launched. These concrete ponds, crumbling in places and not designed to conform with modern fish culture practices, will be replaced by new and modern ponds. The work will be timed so that production of trout at the hatchery will not be reduced during the replacement period.
