

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

On Sunday Mrs. William Hill, of Coleville, died after a short illness. Mrs. Hill was the daughter of Mr. George Breen. She leaves a family of six small children.

Mr. Frank Baset, formerly connected with the Bellefonte Furnace Company as chemist, has accepted a similar position with an iron company in Philadelphia.

When Bellefonte gets the extension of the Beech Creek road don't be surprised to see new car works, cutlery works, glass plant, and other industries locate here.

Mr. Jacob Connelly died suddenly at his home in Milesburg on last Thursday morning. His age was 74 years, and he was the oldest member of the M. E. church of that place.

Ex-Commissioner Henry Mingle, of Aaronsburg, is said to be in poor health of late, and his present condition is not encouraging. He is the father of Mr. A. C. Mingle, of this place.

Dr. J. W. Rhone is slowly recovering from the effects of his severe fall some time ago. He occasionally rises from his bed, and is able to move about in his room by the use of crutches.

Mr. Ellis L. Orvis and family, and sister, Carrie, spent Sunday with their father, Hon. J. H. Orvis, at Pottsville, where he is retained as counsel in the famous Shepp-Core ejection case.

Our merchants are very much opposed to seeing traveling salesmen come to Bellefonte and supply the ladies with dress goods. They think the Bureau should refuse to grant such licenses.

On Monday morning Mr. Samuel Gray Jr. died at the home of his parents at Buffalo Run. His illness was due to consumption which finally caused his death. He was a young man about 19 years of age. He is a brother of William Gray Esq. of this place.

Mrs. Albright, widow of Samuel Albright, of Millheim; Mr. Henry Royer, a well known citizen of Pottsville; Charles, the 16-year-old son of Howard Fetteroff, of Centre Hall, and Mrs. George Nearhood, also of Centre Hall, are recent Penns Valley deaths.

Messrs. Harry Keller and Henry Quigley are hard at work on legal lore, preparing for admission to practice law in our courts. Mr. J. B. Crawford, the deputy sheriff, will not move to Bellefonte, but the family will remain in Spring Mills.

Burge a Reeder spent Sunday with his family, who are visiting Mrs. Reeder's parents' home in Berwick. Some of the farmers in Nittany Valley did considerable plowing before the present cold spell arrived. On Wednesday morning we had a surprise in finding almost a foot of snow on the ground.

Miss Jennie Saltzman now holds a position in Hastings & Reeder's law office as stenographer and typist. Last Saturday was pay day at the Mill Works and the pay roll of over $1300 was paid off with nothing but silver quarters. The result is that during the past few days there has been nothing but quarters circulating among the business men.

Twenty Years Ago

Paul Musser, professional baseball pitcher who had been at his home in Millheim since fall, departed for Wichita, Kansas, where he was to join his team for the season.

Allen Cruse, who had been employed at the Electric Supply Company store in Bellefonte, had been transferred to the State College store. Howard Thompson had tendered his resignation from the State Centre Electric Co.

Prof. A. H. Sloop, and Miss Wagner, of the Bellefonte Public Schools, were attending a national convention of educators in Atlantic City. Mr. and Mrs. G. Murray Andrews, of Bellefonte, were spending the early

'My Experience Has Shown Me I Do Not Have To Suffer'— Say Pennsylvania People

Everywhere RUX Compound and Williams Formula Are Introduced Users Praise Fine Relief Received From RHEUMATIC, MUSCLE PAINS, Gassy Pains, Constipation, Irritated Urinary Passages.

You too may find that RUX Compound and WILLIAMS FORMULA give just the relief you have been looking for. Since your own neighbors and friends tell how these medicines have meant so much to them, we want you to make the easy home test for yourself.

For right here you have evidence of such good that Williams Formula is doing. In selling of the relief Williams Formula brought him, Mr. J. J. Biting, 808 3rd Ave., Altoona, Pa., says: "I was bothered with gas and bloating pains in my stomach and I also felt constipated and run-down. And I surely am glad I began taking Williams Formula for it is bringing me such agreeable relief from this distress. For that same reason I want my friends here to know my experience, for if Williams Formula may be the means of bringing you relief—and you don't try it—then you are the loser. As for me, I am so happy I decided to try Williams Formula."

MR. J. J. BITING

What Your Neighbors Say! And here is more good news—Mrs. Catherine Parker, 238 Jones Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., tried RUX Compound for herself and she says, "Yes RUX Compound is a grand medicine, in my opinion, for it is relieving the rheumatic-like pains in my hips and limbs. I sleep so much better with the pains relieved, and made driving quite hazardous. The bus was not badly damaged.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: John G. Poorman and Zeima V. Miller, both of Bellefonte; Alexander Boyl and Vada May Bumgarner, both of Clearfield, and Blair Bumgarner and Esther J. Summers, both of Windgate.

A York livestock dealer found little market in Centre County for $700-an-over mules, and as a result a public sale of the animals was held and the mules were returned to York. Mules sold before the auction was halted brought from $550 to $635 a horse.

At a horse sale in Millheim, Tra Gramley, the sales manager, was kicked by a horse and his left shoulder was badly bruised. The Seven Stars theatre at Philadelphia was broken into at night and robbed of $18 which had been left in the money drawer.

Elmer Cartwright, native of Philadelphia, died in the Cottage State Hospital there from the effects of injuries received when several cars run over him at Sterling No. 6 mine. One leg was severed and the other so badly mangled that amputation was necessary.

While George Mann and Cyrus Huey, of Fillmore, were working in the Reynolds Shoe lumber camp in Buffalo Run Valley, they killed a large garter snake and saw a butterfly and a grasshopper. An early spring was predicted on the basis of their observations.

When a car owned by Clarence Ripka, of Pleasant Gap, and driven by Robert Markie, of that community, skidded and overturned while rounding Griffith's turn, between Pleasant Gap and Bellefonte, a group of young men in the car escaped with bruises and minor lacerations.

Charles C. Johnson, Philadelphia barber, complaining of a severe pain in his head, visited a chiropractor for treatment, and shortly afterwards went to sleep. He failed to regain consciousness and was admitted to the Cottage Hospital where surgeons were puzzled over his condition. He regained consciousness for a few minutes at intervals.

Contractors were rapidly removing diseased chestnut trees from the Logan State forest in Centre and Huntingdon counties. C. A. Seeds had a crew of 15 men cutting mine props on Short Mountain and W. A. Neale was manufacturing staves on Tussey Mountain. The cutting operations were part of the State's plan to destroy blighted chestnut trees as rapidly as possible.

Mrs. Catherine Baumgardner, of Pleasant Gap, quietly celebrated her 92nd birthday. She was the daughter of the late George Longberger, and was born in Bellefonte. Her sons and daughters were home for the anniversary celebration; G. L. Baumgardner, Allport; Collins, of Pleasant Gap; Harry, of California; Mrs. Calvin Kline, State College; Mrs. Alice Herman, Pleasant Gap, and Miss Ella, a professional nurse.

While hunting in the mountains back of the Pennsylvania Railroad station at Beech Creek, Milton Bowman, of Blanchard, was injured when his gun accidentally discharged. The side of his face was filled with shot and one hand and arm also were injured. Bowman was taken to the Beech Creek station where his injuries were treated by Dr. G. H. Tibbens, who later conveyed him to his home in Blanchard. Bowman, who was 27 years old, was not believed to be in critical condition.

Dick Harlow, of Philadelphia, coach of the Penn State boxing team and assistant football coach, had a narrow escape from serious injury or death while searching for birds on the fourth range of the Seven Mountains. Only rare presence of mind and considerable strength saved him when he went over the side of a 90-foot cliff and landed at the bottom. Harlow, an authority on bird lore, who has been commissioned by the Smithsonian Institute to carry out several expeditions in Labrador, was pursuing his hobby in the Seven Mountains when he discovered a raven's nest. To reach it, he swung himself over the cliff on a rope, and then had to swing under an overhang to reach the nest. When he was about halfway down the rope, a rock dislodged above and struck him on the head, stunning him. Although in semi-conscious condition, he clung to the rope and chided his descent, breaking his fall. He remained unconscious for about a half-hour, after which he made his way to Coburn where he secured transportation to State College. One hand was cut to the bone and the other was badly seared by the rope. His head was severely bruised and his body was a mass of cuts and bruises. No bones were broken.

William H. Davis, of State College, is being held for court on $1000 bail, following a hearing last Thursday before Squire Wilbur F. Leit-zell, of State College, on charges of assault and battery brought by Davis' wife.

Ten employees of the Titan Metal Co., recently were awarded cash prizes by the company for submitting the twelve best suggestions for the elimination of accident hazards at the plant. Over 60 suggestions were received by the committee.

The brothers, Ivy and Speer Gentzel, accompanied by the latter's son and daughter-in-law, came out of the Southwest last week and are visiting their cousins, Matthew and Charles Burrell, on West Main Street, Millheim. Ivy Gentzel is from Texas, and the others from Oklahoma.

Russell Esterline, of Wisconsin, Pa., who has just returned from Singapore, in the Dutch East Indies, was a guest last week at the Stanley Bierly home in Rebersburg. Mr. Esterline, who has been doing engineering work in that section for the past three years, was a college friend of Mr. Bierly's.

Corporal Paul Fanning, of Battery B, 190th Field Artillery of Bellefonte, donated a quantity of blood recently to save the life of a soldier's mother in New Orleans. Fanning, who is with the local battery at Camp Shelby, Miss., had gone to New Orleans for a weekend leave with Sgt. Ray Dunkleberger, and Corporals Edgar Miles, Jack Murphy and Russell Gandy. As they emerged from a restaurant they met a boy in Army uniform who said his mother needed a blood transfusion immediately. The Battery B boys volunteered their services and Fanning's blood was found to be the same type as that of the patient's and he submitted to a transfusion.

F. J. Malone, proprietor of Coburn Grain & Creamery Company, is seriously ill at his home in Coburn from an attack of pneumonia. Early last week, Mr. Malone attempted to fix a leaky flue in the boiler at his creamery plant. Crawling into the boiler for that purpose, he soon realized that he must get out again for air. Upon recuperating from the effects of this venture, he again made the attempt to complete the work. This time he barely made it outside until he collapsed. He was revived by his son, J. Blaine Malone, and others who were there, and a doctor called. Able to walk home, he completely recovered from the effects of the gas fumes inhaled in the boiler, but the after effects seem to have developed into complications of a serious nature. Last Wednesday he developed pneumonia and one of his daughters, Lorene who has been at Portage for some weeks past came home to attend him, she having had nurse's training.

Sunday School Lesson

CHRIST REJECTED

International Sunday School Lesson for March 9, 1941.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake."—Matthew 5:11.

Lesson Text: Luke 20:29-28.

Our lesson for this week follows immediately after that of last week and is a continuation of Jesus' answer to the Sanhedrin when they questioned him regarding his authority. As a matter of fact all of the events recorded in Luke 20 to Luke 21:5, took place in Jerusalem proper, during what we have come to call Passion Week, or the week immediately preceding his crucifixion.

Matthew followed Jesus' declaration of his authority with the parable of the two sons (Matt. 21: 28-32) but both Luke and Mark omit this parable. Still other attempts were made during the day to ensnare Jesus. He was asked by the Pharisees and Herodians about the tribute money; the Sadducees asked Jesus about the resurrection; a scribe asked him what he considered the great commandment, Jesus again denounced the scribe and gave us the beautiful story of the widow's mite. Following this, Jesus went out from Jerusalem with his apostles for a talk together about last things. It was a busy day for Jesus and it was an important day in the history of the world, filled with contrasts of trickery and honesty, hate and love, conspiracy and devotion.

Following the questioning of his authority by the scribe and Pharisees, Jesus told them a story, the meaning of which was very clear to them. It was a story of a certain man who planted a vineyard and then let it out to husbandmen and then took a journey into a far country. When the owner sent his servants to collect his rightful share of the fruits, they were shamefully treated and sent away empty. Having sent three servants at different times, the owner finally decided to send his own son to collect his share of the fruits.

The wicked husbandmen, reasoning that the son was the heir and that if he were put out of the way, they would inherit the vineyard, killed him also. Pressing home the lesson of the parable, Jesus asked, "What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do unto them?" and answering his own question by declaring, "He shall come and destroy these husbandmen, and shall give the vineyard to others."

The wicked husbandmen, of course, represented the Jewish people, and the scribe and Pharisees caught the implication. The vineyard represents the work that God gave them to do as the Chosen people. God entrusted the Jewish nation with a great stewardship when he entered into covenant relationship with them at Sinai. They were the people through whom God would uniquely reveal himself to the world. Old Testament history reveals how shamefully the prophets of God were treated and how their messages from God were scorned and disregarded. The last of these prophets was John the Baptist and he, too, was rejected by the rulers and leaders of the people. Because God is so longsuffering with his people, he sent his beloved Son to Israel, but he was rejected and slain by the rulers of Israel. Knowing that this was to happen, Jesus told his hearers that a reckoning day would come to the Chosen People of God because of their rejection of the very Son of God. The "stone" which the "builders" rejected would become the "head of the corner." And what would happen to the heir? "He shall come and destroy these husbandmen and shall give the vineyard to others."

This prophecy of Jesus was literally fulfilled, as we pointed out last week. Jerusalem, with its beautiful temple, was laid desolate only forty years later. From that time on there has in fact been no Jewish nation as a nation. The vineyard of theocracy was taken away from the Chosen People. Out of the ruins of the old theocracy arose a new theocracy, the theocracy of the kingdom of God, the New Israel, of which Jesus Christ, the rejected cornerstone, is the chief cornerstone.

There is a lesson for all nations of the world in the experience of Israel. No nation can escape the judgment of God than could the nation of Israel escape when it rejected the Christ. America, as a nation, stands at the crossroad today. Shall we, like Israel of old reject Christ, and shall our vineyard be taken from us and given to others?

To Command 5,000 Colonel Samuel B. Wolfe, Lewisburg, brother of former mayor of Williamsport, Charles D. Wolfe, will be placed in charge of 2,500 men at Camp Shelby, Miss., as he takes command of the brigade during the absence of General March, who has been called to Fort Sill, Okla., for three months. The strength of the brigade in that period will be increased to 5,000.

Loganston Boy is Cowboy Word has been received by relatives in Sugar Valley from Levi Embich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Embich, the boy who last year left home and friends rather unexpectedly to seek adventure and work. He has found what he was looking for, being employed as a cowboy on a large ranch near Cheyenne, Wyoming, and reports liking the country, the people and the work.
