

Echoes From The Past

Fifty Years Ago

Mr. Sam Noll who spent last winter attending lectures in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, returned home last week. He will remain at Pleasant Gap this summer.

The streets of Bellefonte seldom, if ever, were in as good shape as at present. Last winter Poor Overseer James Schofield gave all who asked for assistance an opportunity to earn a living by breaking stone for the borough streets.

Miss Lulu Hensley, of Howard, is trying to organize a class in painting and crayon work at this place. Samples of her work can be seen in Joseph Brothers' store window. No person is allowed to catch speckled trout with anything save rod, hook and line under penalty of $25, and cannot use those implements on Sunday under a like penalty.

Jim Schofield, the hustling harness dealer, is thinking of taking a trip to Ireland, his former home, to visit his parents, neither of whom he has seen since he left his home 24 years ago. He will take in many points of interest while on his trip, but will return to Bellefonte in time to talk politics and take an active part in next fall's election.

The telephone exchange made another valuable extension to their system this week by starting work on a line to Hubersburg. When that is completed, and it is expected to be finished by Friday, every section of the county will be connected with Bellefonte, except Miles township. The citizens of that section should make an effort to have the line extended and it would soon prove its great utility.

The Daily News states that last summer the Pennsylvania Railroad company commenced the job of fencing the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe Branch with wire fence and succeeded in getting about twelve miles of it fenced. Now this spring they have already gone to work. E. H. Houser has the contract and is now stationed at Glen Harris with a force of six men and is fencing out to intersect the other end.

Very few attorneys are left in Bellefonte this week as a large number left for Philadelphia early on Monday morning. The regular session of supreme court, for hearing argument upon cases from this section of the state, is in progress this week. Bellefonte is represented by the following: Hon. J. H. Crvis, C. M. Bower, J. W. Gephart, W. F. Reeder, C. P. Hewes, Col. D. S. Keller, D. P. Fortney, John G. Love and C. M. Dale. Master John Bower accompanied his father to take in the sights.

Mr. James McQuead, at one time a resident of Spring Mills, died at his residence in Sinking Valley, Blair County, near Tyrone, on last Saturday. He was 78 years of age. The G. A. R. Post of Millheim has secured John G. Love, Esq., of Bellefonte, to deliver the oration on Decoration Day at that place. The funeral of Mrs. Jacob Arney occurred at Centre Hall on last Sunday. Her husband preceded her to the grave about six weeks ago. Lewis Grower, formerly of this place, is now located at Philipsburg and can be found in the clothing store of Mr. E. S. Wooster. Samuel Ryan is making things look ing class: Misses Grayce Vallmont, Mary Royer, Margaret Young, Bertha Smith and May Mong.

Fire destroyed the chicken coop of John Conner, on Logan Street, together with about 150 chicks in the building. The blaze was caused by an oil heater which Mr. Conner had placed in the building to keep the chicks warm.

Fred Musser, manager of the Musser Wholesale Grocery Co., went to New York to attend a convention of "Serrus" dealers. William Rowe, employed as desk clerk at the Bush House for a number of years had resigned, and Lester Musser, who had considerable experience in hotel work, had been named to the vacancy.

Merchant C. M. Smith, of Centre Hall, had purchased from E. S. Ripka the corner lot on which F. V. Goodhard, furniture store, Mr. Smith planned to raise the store and erect a three-story building in its place. He expected to use the first floor for his business and was to arrange the upper floors for use as headquarters and meeting places for lodgers.

Application had been made to the Governor for the incorporation of a bank at Port Matilda, to be known as the "Community Bank." The incorporators were H. C. Woodring, W. T. Hoover, William Bennett, Budd Thompson and O. D. Eberts, all substantial citizens of that community. Port Matilda had 700 inhabitants, business was booming and the people were progressive.

Russell Rossman, employed by the Beatty Motor Company, Bellefonte, was driving one of the company's service trucks in Millheim when the steering mechanism failed and the truck hit a telephone pole with great force. Rossman was accompanied by his sister, Blanche, and his cousin, Miss Grace Neese. All three suffered bruises and minor lacerations. The truck was badly damaged.

James Haworth and his son, Harold, formerly in the planing mill business at Philipsburg, planned to open a candy factory in that community. They had purchased a tract of land at the corner of Third and Locust Streets and were to build a 60 by 60 foot two-story brick building. Modern machinery was to be installed and an experienced candy maker employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Delaney, at Ony's service trucks in Millheim, were mourning the death of their only child, Glenn Calvin, aged 8 months, following convulsions. The child had contracted measles several days before death ensued.

William "Bill" Doak, for many years a familiar figure on Bellefonte streets, died at the local hospital from the effects of injuries received when he was struck by a car. Doak was 50 years old and was a native of Bellefonte. Survivors included two sisters and a brother. Interment was made in the Myers cemetery, in Buffalo Run Valley. Bill was blind, deaf and dumb, and had made a living for many years by asking alms on the streets. When he was about ten years of age he was severely burned when his shirt caught fire from sparks, and his deafness was attributed to nerve damage caused at that time. Then his eyesight began to fail and at the age of 35 surgeons found it necessary to remove both eyes. He lost his power of speech a few years before his death.

Driven desperate by her feeble efforts at self-support since the death of her husband, a Clarence woman offered to sell two of her nine children in order that she and the other seven could live. Here was the advertisement the woman directed to be placed in newspapers: "For Sale—Two blue-eyed, light-haired little girls, 4 1/2 and 2 1/2 years. I would like to sell them as I have no way to support a family of nine and myself. I have a stove and a bed for almost three years. I'll sell my babies or starve. I'm getting along pretty good when my two boys were working but they have been idle three months and can't get employment. So I am willing to sell these two to save the others from starving. I have spent my last cent, I am willing to work myself, but there is no place here for me to work. I do not want to steal or beg, for that is against the law, and I do not want to stain my hands with my children's blood, so there is no other way—sell my dear little girls or starve. Signed: A broken-hearted mother. Mrs. Ed. Note: The name of the mother appeared in the original story.

fresh and bright about the Big Spring. Two hundred small trout were put in. There are entirely too many small boys playing about the streets of Bellefonte who should be at school.

Mrs. Ed. Cassett, widow of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad fireman, recently killed at Milesburg by the train wreckers, has been made happy by the receipt of a check for one thousand dollars, bearing the signature of S. S. Blair, superintendent, and coming from the relief fund of the railroad.

On Saturday evening as a freight train on the Lemont Railroad was coming around the curve at Humes Mill, near Axe Mann, the engine struck four cows that were standing on the track. The train was running at a good speed and the four cows were badly mangled. One had its head cut off and the three had their legs broken and had to be killed. Three of the animals belonged to W. H. Miller, a farmer, and the other one belonged to Charles Garis.

The body of Miss Sadie Haines, daughter of Simon Haines, formerly of Centre Hall, a young lady only about 17 years of age, was found in its head cut off and the three had their legs broken and had to be killed. Three of the animals belonged to W. H. Miller, a farmer, and the other one belonged to Charles Garis.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: C. K. Hickien and Miss Rhoda S. Peters, both of Bellefonte; Robert Boyle, of Bradford, and Miss Lizzie Murray, of Milesburg; James Young and Miss Jane Hoffman, both of Eldendale, Rush township; Albert E. Smith, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Martha J. Baughman, Sandy Ridge; Thomas H. Buchanan, Bellefonte, and Miss Elizabeth A. Symmonds, Pleasant Gap; Harry Campbell, Bellefonte, and Miss Ellen Hale, Julian; Charles T. Houser, Buialo Run, and Miss Carrie Minnemyer, Milesburg; Theodore Schilling and Mrs. Mary Bland, both of Bellefonte; J. W. Moore, Taylor Twp., and Miss Maclaud Moore, Huntingdon County; Frank Arney and Miss Lizzie A. Shenefelt, of Centre Hall.

On last Thursday morning a special session of court was held and Judge Krebs, of Clearfield, presided. Among the business transacted was a motion made by Hon. John E. Linn, Esq., to admit Henry Keller and Henry Quigley to practice law in the several courts of the county. The two young men completed their examinations in a very creditable manner. Harry Keller is a son of D. S. Keller, Esq., and during Gov. Beaver's administration held a position under Adjutant General D. H. Hastings. During that time he devoted his spare hours to his law books. Henry Quigley is a son of Capt. Quigley, of Eagleville. He was a student with Hastings & Reader the past two years. Both of these young men possess energy and ability and in the course of a few years we expect to see them, forging to the front.

Members of the Centre County Engineering Society made an inspection of the McFeely brick plant at Port Matilda last Monday afternoon. The men were shown through the plant and quarry by Ben F. Nicodemus, superintendent of the company. The group, numbering about 20 men, had dinner at the company club house in the evening. An agreement for land damages paid by the county to Frank Beezer of Spring township for property damages caused by running the new Bellefonte-State College highway through the Beezer farm was filed at the office of the county prothonotary. The amount of the damages to be paid by the county commissioners, according to the agreement, is $5,000.

Merrill E. Fletcher, of Howard, had purchased "The Maples" tea-room at Howard and has leased it to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Markie, of Pleasant Gap, who will conduct the business. The place is being renovated throughout and the Markies announce that it will be open for business some day this week. Mr. Fletcher purchased the tea-room from the former Mrs. Stella V. Williams, who conducted it for many years.
