The dedication will be that of the Jacks Creek Stone Arch Bridge park just off Route 22 as it enters Lewistown from the east. The unveiling will be that of the marker erected on West Elizabeth street by Penna. Edison Company on the site of Lock No. 16 and the toll office

Strange as it may seem, this bridge, erected in 1815 by Philip Deal without the use of a keystone, was reported by viewers named by Mifflin county court that year as "net completed according to contract," yet the arch stood without a flaw until local civic organizations, backed by Mifflin County Commissioners, secured W. P. A. funds for its restoration in 1940, Private funds were raised for the beautification of the surrounding park.

The bridge carried the early stage coach lines between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh via Lewistown and Huntingdon, and was part of the first turnpike along the Juniata River. By 1829 the stage lines and turnpikes had a rival for trans-state transportation in the Penna, Canal which that year reached Lewistown. The packet "Juniata" arrived on November 3, 1829, at Lock No. 16, the first boat to reach Lewistown. For 60 years this lock was in use and by it stood the canal toll office. Now both are gone but Pennsylvania Edison is erecting the marker which will be unveiled May 16.

Judge W. W. Uttley of Mifflin county courts, will preside at the ceremonies opening at 3:15 o'clock at the Arch Bridge where Mr. J. Herbert Walker, director of Tourist Information, Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, will be the speaker.
