ory that he was able to give information at a moment's notice. He was one of those men who when he read, he understood and was able to explain. He reared a large family, but some years ago left this section and went to Baltimore. Later he came to Carlisle where he opened a gas station, and followed this vocation until he became physically unable to continue. He was 78 years of age and two years ago came all the way from Carlisle here on a bicycle and went back home the same way.

of Bundists, of organizations of youth who are taught to "goose-step" and give the salutes of the enemies of democracy. It is against these forces as well as those of the saboteurs who seek actual destruction of our plants, our munitions and food warehouses, of everything that goes toward strengthening our national defenses, he declared, that the United States must be on guard constantly.

More subtle, but none the less dangerous, are the activities of "fifth columnists" who seek to poison the minds of citizens against democracy and the ways of democracies, Commander Gwynne declared, calling on all people to watch for and to be prepared to combat all such activities.

John Love was master of ceremonies at the impressive service which followed one of the largest Memorial Day parades ever held here. The program opened with the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner," by the American Legion Senior Band. The invocation was given by Mr. William E. Downes, rector of St. John's Catholic church, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Robert H. Thomas, 3rd, rector of the Episcopal church. The ceremonies closed with a salute by the Veterans of Foreign Wars firing squad and taps played by members of the Bellefonte Junior American Legion Band.

Nineteen organizations participated in the parade and hundreds of spectators swelled the crowd for the program at the school grounds.

at which time the newly-installed grand president, Reports from various committees were given including a report of the state convention held recently in Allentown, given by Miss Carpeneto, delegate of the court. The following committees were appointed: sick committee, Albert and Sara Mieschke; secretary, Mary Hartle; social, Ruth Casper, chairman, Madeline Carpeneto, Esther Baney and Marie Adams. Mary J. Gray was chosen chairman for the annual picnic to be held at Hecla Park June 25. In case of rain the picnic will be held one week later. Members voted to contribute to the Cancer Control Fund.

Announcement was made that the national convention of the organization will be held in Washington, D. C., the week of July 7. An exhibit from the court will be sent to the convention.

Monsignor William E. Downes, court chaplain, was the guest of honor at a social hour held following the meeting. The court choir, "Maytime," by Shultz, and also sang the new song of the organization introduced at the state convention and presented to the court by Miss Carpeneto.

Mrs. Helen Bickett, Mrs. Rose Pearl, Mrs. Ruth Casper, Mrs. Anne Beezer, Mrs. Jean Y. Baney, and Miss Adeline Anderson, are members of the choir of which Mrs. Ethel Carpeneto is pianist.

The room was decorated with roses and peonies. Miss Carpeneto was presented with two gifts from officers and members of the court, who also presented a gift to the visiting district deputy. Both women spoke briefly. Refreshments were served.

Other out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Anna Cox, former grand regent of Tyrone, and Miss Catherine Grazer, present grand regent of the Tyrone court.

STUDENTS HEAR ADDRESS ON WILDLIFE CONSERVATION

Last week Randolph Thompson, of the Pennsylvania Department of Conservation, gave an illustrated talk to the upper grades of the Spring street school on conservation of wildlife.

The films showing wild ducks on Pymatuning Dam and of birds nesting and feeding their young were particularly interesting. These fine moving pictures impressed the children with the importance of protection of wild bird life, beginning at home with the planting of some of the various fruit-bearing trees.

Housekeeping would be ideal if every home had a little fairy who would work like the little fairies of the imaginary world.

chromium alloy able to stand the extremely high temperatures of the aeroplane exhaust valve. Because of this alloy the long range flight of the modern bomber has been made possible. In the modern army with its many mechanized units there are many parts under great heat and terrific strain. The making of perpetually lubricated parts allows operation under many adverse conditions and results in far less engine failure. Magnesium metals are now being extracted from sea water, adding to the necessary supply in defense industries.

The flour milling industry is using under war time conditions the products of chemistry to return to the white flour the vitamins extracted during the process of milling. In England this has been found to be a large factor in national health and has been of use also in the correction of nervous disorders so liable to crop up in times of stress. It is believed that flour enriched with vitamins will have also a great influence upon our own national health.

In a long range planning of national defense another chemical discovery will play a large part. A substance has been discovered which keeps hybrids fertile and true to strain. This is being applied for instance to the lumber industry in the crossing of a fast growing walnut tree with one of fine quality lumber to produce a fast growing tree of most excellent quality.

Mr. Lewis called attention to the sulpho derivatives, which are proving of great use in war times. These are of great value in infections from wounds and as preventative of infection, being used in the fight against pneumonia and other diseases.

In the field of synthetics the speaker pointed out that in two years this nation could have plants to make enough synthetic rubber to take care of the needs of the nation. We imported 600,000 tons of raw rubber last year and manufactured 1,700 tons of synthetic rubber. Synthetic rubber has the advantage of being able to be made to meet various needs as of resistance to tear, wear, or corrosion.

Benzene is now being turned into phenol, a vital need in many places in our national defense. It is also a necessary ingredient in plastics, and this new discovery of a source of phenol allows the nitric acid supply to be used more largely for explosives.

There are 1,800 laboratories, Mr. Lewis stated, in our country, giving their time to research, and spending almost 200 millions of dollars a year. While at present much of their effort is in research for war time needs and destruction, the day will come when all their efforts will be turned into constructive work and many of the discoveries being made now will be turned towards the building of a better nation.

Hugh Quiskey was received into the membership of the club.

Guests present were George Shugert, Elmira, N. Y., Kwanians Joe mountainous region is a favorite with hunters.

Most of the cottage owners along Fishing Creek have possession on the strength of 90-day leases from the landowner, it is said. The leases provide that the cottages are removable on 90-day notice.

The tract which the Game Commission reportedly is desirous of obtaining was sold by former State Senator Charles Steele, of Northumberland, to the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company for a reported consideration of more than $250,000. The transaction took place about the time of the World War.
