The market committee reported collections totaling $9.70. Councilman Harold D. Cowher suggested to the West Penn officials present that the falls and possibly other scenic points in town be lighted during the week of the firemen's convention here in August. Officials declared that floodlighting equipment is at a premium because of defense measures, and held out the hope that some special lighting arrangements can be made, with the West Penn furnishing the current. *Because there is practically no prospect of getting WPA aid for street construction this year, Council abandoned a project for the construction of Shope street by the WPA, and decided to build the road with borough labor. The road will be constructed only one-half as wide as originally contemplated, and will be a low-cost type of road. Council expressed the hope that the resumption of WPA in future years will make it possible to widen and improve the road.

The budget for 1941 was read and approved, and the report of the borough auditors for the fiscal year 1940 was approved. The audit omits a "balance sheet" for the borough, the auditors explaining in a note attached to the report that the item cannot be completed until the tax collector's records have been audited for years prior to 1940. Chairman Brockerhoff, of the finance committee, reported that he is negotiating with outside auditors to take care of the necessary audit. The fee charged by borough auditors was
