Coroner to Probe Railroader's Death As soon as three persons injured in the fatal two-car crash near DuBois Sunday have recovered sufficiently there will be an inquest into the death of Alfred E. Nelson, DuBois railroader. Acting Coroner E. S. Erhard, Curwensville, announced Tuesday. Nelson, a B & O fireman, died Monday morning at the DuBois hospital from the head and chest injuries he received when the car in which he was a passenger, crashed head-on with a car operated by Mrs. J. V. Eberhart, of Lock Haven. Mrs. Eberhart, her husband and Henry Marine, DuBois, driver of the other car, were all injured in the wreck. Investigating motor police said the cars hit head-on with such force that the occupants of both cars were catapulted through the windshields. The cars, both 1941 models, were badly wrecked. The Marine car's wheels were shoved back to where the motor normally was placed while the motor was shoved back into the body of the car. Hundreds Witness Opening of Road

(Continued from page one) the former home of General Philip Benner, early ironmaster, is at Rock, and because General Benner was a pioneer in the development of the Kishacoquillas Turnpike. The road-naming contest was sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce, Bellefonte, and the Commerce Club, State College. Judges, in addition to Dr. Claudy were: Mayor Hardman P. Harris, of Bellefonte; Mayor Wilbur F. Leitzell, of State College; Charles Martin, of Bellefonte, and L. Frank Mayes, of Lemont, representing the Bellefonte Chamber of Commerce; and E. F. Lee and L. V. Hartman, of the Commerce Club, State College. Mayes was substituted for W. W. Sieg of Bellefonte, when Mr. Sieg was called out of town on a business matter. The Bellefonte motor procession to Dale's Summit for the opening ceremonies was led by the public band and followed by the Undine Fire Company's new emergency truck bearing Bellefonte borough officials and newspapermen. Following the Undine truck came a long string of automobiles carrying highway department officials and citizens. When the caravan reached the intersection, the State College delegation was in readiness for the ceremony. Following a drill by the State College Drum Corps and a number by the Legion Junior Band, Karl E. Kusse, secretary of the Bellefonte Chamber of Commerce, introduced Dr. Claudy who gave the invocation and who served as master of ceremonies. After greetings had been exchanged between Mayor Harris of Bellefonte and Mayor Leitzell of State College, and between President Clark of State College Borough Council and President Thomas Beaver of Bellefonte Borough Council, Mr. Harris was called upon as the first speaker. He declared that the new road between the two towns would have been built nine years ago if the citizens of the respective communities could have reached an agreement as to where the road should enter Bellefonte and State College. Bickering among townspeople was responsible for the delay in obtaining the modern highway, he said. Mr. Leitzell in a brief address declared "This road makes Bellefonte a suburb of State College, and State College a suburb of Bellefonte." He predicted that the road will be the means of cementing a firm friendship between the county's two principal communities. In announcing the name, Dr. Claudy declared that the Bellefonte and State College Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs are to be asked to erect at some future time a fitting memorial to General Benner somewhere along the new road. C. H. Buckius, assistant secretary of Highways, declared that the Pike is a good road, and will last for many years. He congratulated the contractor, inspectors, engineers, civic leaders, County Commissioners and the public in general for their cooperation and work in bringing the long-dreamed highway into being. He pointed out that the State Highway Department has a great problem on its hands in building roads to satisfy the greatest number of persons in the 67 counties, 4,500 townships and hundreds of towns and cities who constantly are asking for more and better roads. Dr. Claudy next introduced Sid Collins of Clearfield, district engineer for the State Highway Department, whose efforts were largely responsible for the construction of an underpass at the cattle barns at Rockview penitentiary. The underpass, that otherwise would have created a major danger point, Dr. Claudy said. State Senator A. H. Letzler expressed pleasure that Centre county had obtained the long-sought road and declared that his constituents do an outstanding example of what cooperation between communities can do in the way of improving conditions. He brought a message of regret from Assemblyman Kenneth G. Haines, who was unable to attend the ceremonies. A message from Mr. Haines was read by the master of ceremonies. After the ribbon-cutting ritual had been completed, the State College caravan continued on to Bellefonte area, while the Bellefonte caravan went to State College for a similar parade. The road, 81 miles in length from borough line to borough line, can be traversed easily in 13 minutes without exceeding the 50-mile speed limit and including several slow-ups for traffic. This was demonstrated on the return run of the Undine emergency truck Tuesday afternoon. Officials checked time and mileage on the run, which was made at an ordinary motoring speed. The Pike has been officially designated as Route 545, extending from Bellefonte to Huntingdon. There is a possibility that it later will be extended to Milesburg. It is a through highway between Bellefonte and State College, and stop signs have been erected accordingly. Bellefonte Youth Aboard Submarine

(Continued from page one) from the day of her reconduction. Miller's mother recently received a letter from her son telling the story of a troubled cruise from the Philadelphia Navy Yard to New London, Conn. Miller wrote: "Oh, mother, the trip was terrible. We ran in fog the entire distance, and everything went wrong with the ship. But we got here all right. The navy always sees to that." Through her tears, Mrs. Trostle revealed that her son wouldn't have been aboard the 0-9 except for his desire to spend last Christmas with her. Learning that if he transferred to submarine duty before Christmas, the navy would pay his transportation home for the holidays, he hurried the transfer. "If he'd waited, he probably wouldn't have been far enough advanced to be diving by now," his mother said. Chester Lee Miller was born in Tyrone, attended the Tyrone public schools and later, after the death of his father, entered Girard College, Philadelphia. After his graduation there about five years ago he enlisted in the Navy. Surviving in addition to his mother and stepfather, is a brother, William A. Miller, who is a student at Girard College, and who is scheduled to graduate this week. Miller was a member of Tyrone Lodge, Loyal Order of the Moose. Other survivors include an uncle and five aunts (brother and sisters of his mother), namely: Harry McMullen and Mrs. William Shawley, both of Milesburg; Mrs. Stella Sheldahl, Philadelphia; Mrs. Paul Fanning, of Shelby, Miss.; and Mrs. Edgar Eckley, of Coleville. When Miller visited here at Christmas time he was accompanied by Charles Eagleton, signman third class, Denver, Colo., who also was aboard the 0-9 when it made its fatal last dive. Because the submarine was at such great depth, the Navy has indicated that no salvage attempt can be made. Only with the greatest difficulty has some bodies been salvaged from depths approximately one-half as great as the 440 feet of water in which the 0-9 rests. The Navy conducted funeral services with full military honors for the 33 men aboard the ill-fated vessel, on Sunday. The 0-9, built to withstand up to 200-foot dives, is believed to have been broken up by the extreme pressures encountered at 440 feet. Plan Central Counties Golf Tournament The board of governors of the Tyrone Golf Club has completed plans to entertain the eleven clubs of the Association at the Tyrone Golf Club early in August. George C. Wilson, Jr., of Tyrone, was elected general chairman of the tournament. The clubs participating will be the Blair Hills Country Club of Hollidaysburg, Centre Hills Country Club, Clearfield Country Club, Huntingdon Country Club, Lewistown Country Club, Lock Haven Country Club, American Legion Country Club of Mount Union, Nithany Country Club, Park Hills Country Club of Altoona, Philadelphia Country Club, and the Tyrone Golf Club. Many original, but currently useful prizes will be awarded. Entrants will qualify on Friday, August 8. Match play will take place on August 9, and the finals on the 10th.
