

HEAPS OF TROUBLE

Ninety-five degree heat caused Jack Skowlund of Peshtigo, Wis., to stop for a rest last Thursday. He sat down on a stump containing a bees' nest and got stung. He took off his shirt to apply a mud plaster to the stung area and his shirt blew into a barbed fence. His shirt was torn and when Skowlund recovered it, he suffered a severe hand laceration. He started to jump into his truck, but missed the running board and sprained an ankle. When he got to the doctor's office Skowlund learned he had fallen into a patch of poison ivy.

NO FREE PASSES

Manager William V. Ward of the Illinois State Fair has called upon the Bible to help him discourage those "give me a pass" pests. To each seeker of free tickets, Ward courteously hands one of his business cards, on the reverse of which are printed these Bibical quotations: "Thou shalt not pass .-- Numbers 20:18. "Suffer not a man to pass"-Judges 3:28. "Though they roar, yet they cannot pass"-Jeremiah 5:22. "So he paid the fare thereof and went"-Jonah 1,3. State Fair officials recently decided to abolish passes to this year's fair, August 9 to 17.

LOST HIS WIFE

An absent - minded Illinois tourist drove thirty miles recently before he noticed his wife was missing from the car. State Trooper, B. E. Williams said the frantic woman called him after her husband drove away while she was in the rest room of a service station at Winchester, W. Va. The officer and woman set in pursuit and found the middle-aged husband on the roadside pondering what to do. He said he failed to see his wife leave the car and thought she had been thrown out on a curve.

Five Others Made III and Rushed to Philipsburg Hospital

Taken ill Sunday, James Chandler, aged four years, of Emporium, died Wednesday at the home of his grandfather, William English, a miner of Frenchville, R. D. Five other children also suffered from illness, which is thought to have been caused by some unknown food poisoning. They were rushed to the Philipsburg hospital and are reported to be recovering. They are: Carol, 3, and Judith, 19 months, sisters of the Chandler boy; and English's three younger children Janeste, 7, Anita, 4, and Donald

Lee. 3. The three Chandler children were vacationing at their grandparents' home. Mrs. English, grief-stricken over the tragedy, told Dr. E. S. Erhard, acting coroner of Clearfield county that the cause might have been insect spray on garden beans which the family ale.

MIDSUMMER DAY'S DREAM:

This corner is singularly devoid of ideas this week. It is the week of the summer doldrums. We feel much like the parking meter posts which line Bellefonte's curbs. They stand there, but are absolutely use ess because they have no heads. But maybe its just as well, for after they get heads they'll be roundly cursed by some folks who won't like to pay for the time they park their cars in town. By the same token, if we had any ideas this week, we'd probably be cursed for "taking a crack" at someone.

The summer season is well under way. The town's firemen, bands, and marching units are attending parades and similar public functions throughout the state, and are coming home loaded with prizes and honors. Politics are beginning to warm up, and while we don't look for any red hot interest in this fall's elections, there will be a few name called and the electorate, generally, will derive a mild form of pleasure from the annual trek to the polls.

KING COAL:

Me-

Fishermen, hunters and other nature lovers by all means should take a trip to the hard coal regions, if found immediately after falling in they've never been there. where the eye falls there is nothing but waste and devastation. Old Mother Earth must blush when she looks at what man, in his quest for coal, has done to the appearance of a section which several hundred years ago must have been one of great natural beauty. The streams are unbelievably horrid, with their banks lined with coal dirt through which the liquid which passes for water has cut channels. Even if the water would support fish life, it is a question whether any angler would find pleasure or recreation in fishing John C. Clark, prominent Lock for them from the foul shores.

WASTE

The hills and the mountains are almost as bad as the streams. Evervwhere there are huge unsightly heaps of mine refuse, and of rocky earth which has been piled up in the process of exposing coal seams for stripping operations. Here and there a tree or two fights for existence on the mountains of waste.

DAMAGE:

Colleries, breakers, and mine structures of other types can be seen on every hand. Giant power shovels which rip off the top soil to expose coal beds, rear their steel booms from the landscape. And where man's old coal mines have caved in, the highways on top of the ground are rough and uneven; buildings sag out of plumb, large service was held at 9 o'clock Satur- I cracks appear in stone and brick
