

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

William Kinloch, editor of The Wage Earners' Journal, Philadelphia, is erecting a large office and dwelling on Front Street, opposite the postoffice.

Miss Martha, daughter of Col. D. S. Keller, while at the Reformed Sunday School picnic last week, had a fall by which her knee cap was dislocated. The injury will compel her to remain indoors for some time.

The cigarette is responsible for causing rejection of nearly two-thirds of the applicants for admission to West Point and Annapolis. Uncle Sam wants no weeds who are on their way to the imbecile wards via the rice paper and tobacco route.

The dedication of the Odd Fellows hall, at this place, some time in October will bring a large gathering to Bellefonte. Large delegations from neighboring lodges will be present and eminent men have been invited to speak on this occasion.

Last Saturday the members of the Union Sunday School of Bush's Addition picnicked in Curtin's woods near the Jackson mine camp. The Valentine Furnace Company very kindly furnished a large amount of the entire party was transported to and from the grove free of charge.

Visitors to Cherry Run, the scene of the now famous Colby tragedy, hardly recognize the place. The buildings that were the Colby house and barn are gone and a short distance below a large camp has been erected for the accommodation of the men who operate the steam sawmill, which is located a short distance up the run.

Dr. Dorworth and family will not move to State College as was stated in our last issue. As Mr. Pauble purchased the Dr.'s residence on High Street, they will move across the street and occupy the John Potter residence near the court house and be with continue in the practice of medicine in this community the same as heretofore.

The barn on the farm of P. B. Crider, near Esleville, was struck by lightning and burned last week. The flames communicated to a tobacco shed 130 feet long and it, too, was consumed. There were two men and two horses in the barn when the lightning struck it, but they were not injured. Tobacco cutting had begun and a part of this year's crop was already in the shed. The barn was filled with hay and grain, all of which was a total loss.

The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. of this place, held a meeting last Monday evening and it was decided to reopen the rooms on the first of September, with William Chambers as temporary secretary. With a little better exercise of financial wisdom than formerly, this organization can be kept in good condition and be a benefit by drawing young men to its rooms who otherwise spend their time at night on the street corners.

According to the Millheim Journal a very heavy rain storm passed over that section of Pennsylvania. William Stover's barn west of Millheim was unroofed and the orchards were ruined by the wind breaking down the trees or tearing them up by the roots. The loss of fruit will be very great on account of this storm. Corn fields were leveled to the ground and the crop considerably damaged. Hill fields and quantities of the size of small hickory nuts, breaking in many windows that were located in the path of the storm.

Messrs. Ad Fauble and Frank Nagney spent Sunday at Lock Haven taking in the sights and winking at the pretty girls, so abundant there.

The Undine Hose Company will attend the firemen's convention at Lock Haven, September 17, with a representation of sixty members. They have engaged accommodations at the St. Cloud Hotel.

The following notice was published: "Abraham McCollum, of Milesburg, Centre County, or rather Centre City, an annex of Milesburg, left home on Thursday of last week, and had not been heard of as late as Saturday afternoon. It was feared that perhaps he might have been found who is at present living at the home of his uncle Daniel Garman, met with a painful accident. He was wrestling with another boy and in a fall both bones of his left forearm were broken. Dr. Hoy was called and gave the necessary treatment; since then Master Mart has been getting along very nicely.

Our farmers are more than delighted with the progress of their cornfields during the past few weeks. It stands thick and is large and in many instances the stalks will bear two and three well matured ears of corn. Some farmers claim that portions of their fields will give them 125 to 150 bushels to the acre. That ought to make mush and corn cakes plenty.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Grace H. Wobbe and Dr. H. K. Hoy, in the Episcopal church at this place on Thursday, September 3, at 9 a. m. The contracting parties are residents of this place, the bride being the niece of George B. Brandon, of the Brockerhoff House and a most estimable young lady. After October 1 they will be at home at No. 23 West High Street.

On Tuesday last week the pastor of the United Brethren church at Port Matilda, on the Bald Eagle Valley road between Milesburg and Tyrone, came very near being drowned. He wanted to wash his buggy and attempted to drive into the creek below that place when his horse frightened and backed down the embankment about ten feet high into the creek. The horse fell and became tangled up in the harness, struggling and floundering in the water in its efforts to extricate itself. Mr. Noden, the pastor mentioned went to the assistance of the animal and tried to cut the harness, but he was knocked down and sank under the water. Mr. Willis just saved the preacher from drowning, although it is said he was rescued more dead than alive. The horse was drowned and the buggy totally wrecked.

When Linn W. Bodie resumed his studies as a senior in the Bellefonte High School, he had an experience out of the ordinary to the his classmates. Linn was born and raised in Buffalo Run Valley and entered high school while the family was living there. Upon the death of his father his mother moved to Armstrong county, but Linn remained here, on the home of the Misses McKnight, on Spring Street. During the summer vacation he and a friend from Armstrong County set out by foot for a visit with his uncle William Koch, who lived at Stockton, Ill. They made the trip in eight days and spent only $1.25 on the way, obtaining most of their meals from generous residents of towns along the way. They returned home by train.

Twenty Years Ago

Ground was broken for an addition to the Luther D. Fye store building at State College. The addition, to be 25x35 feet in size, was to provide extra space for the dry goods department. Other departments were to be rearranged after completion of the work.

Repairs on the Bellefonte Academy building were being rushed to completion in preparation for the opening of the school season. Water in the new swimming pool was said to be just the right temperature and many persons were enjoying the pool.

While on their way to the Logan Fire Company picnic at Hecla Park, Harrison and family, of Philadelphia, were involved in a collision with a Ford touring car driven by Robert Wallace, son of James Wallace of Milesburg, on the grade near the old chain works, between Milesburg and Bellefonte. While no one was injured in the crash, both cars were damaged.

Harry Baum, a Bellefonte boy who was residing in Sunbury, had a narrow escape from death when a car in which he and a young lady were riding was sideswiped by an engine on the Philadelphia and Reading crossing at Sunbury. The accident happened on a crossing generally considered to be dangerous because nearby buildings obstructed a view of the tracks.

The Mac-Murray Comedy Company, with A. A. McDonald as manager, which had been located in Milesburg where the outfit made its summer home, was preparing to depart for their winter tour through the country. During the summer the company gave two entertainments at the Garman Opera House. The troupe was composed of talented musicians and comedians.

Sunday School Lesson

CHRISTIAN LOVE. International Sunday School Lesson for August 31, 1941.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Let us not love in word, neither with the tongue; but in deed and in truth."—1 John 3: 18.

Lesson Text: 1 John 3: 12-18; 7-21.

The author of the three letters that we know of as first, second and third John is also the author of the fourth gospel—the Apostle John, Cannon Westcott, that great New Testament authority, says, "The First Epistle is so closely connected with the fourth Gospel in vocabulary, style, thought, and scope that these two books cannot be regarded as works of the same author."

These three letters were evidently written by John while he was in Ephesus and when he was an old man. The first of the letters was apparently addressed to the Christians in Asia Minor, although no person is mentioned, save the Lord, and neither is any place mentioned in the whole letter. The second and third letters, which are very short, were addressed to "the elect lady" and to "Gaius," respectively. Dummelow points out that the three great watchwords of First John are: "God is light," "God is righteous," and "God is love."

Sixteen times in the First Epistle we find John's reference to the "love" for us, and twenty-five times we read of our love to God or our love to one another. A proof of our salvation, he declares, is our love of our Heavenly Father and of our fellowmen. If we can say sincerely that we do love God and our fellowmen, then "We know that we have passed out of death into life," because "he that loveth not abideth in death."

John emphasizes this point of love for one another, declaring that we are not to love in the word or in tongue alone, but in reality, by deeds. It is easy to declare our love for someone, or even for God, but such a declaration is surely meaningless unless it is proved by our actions. By this test,
