HOUSEHOLD SCRAPBOOK

Brown Shoes From White
When the white shoes have become too dirty to clean, they can be changed to a nice brown by rubbing them over with a mixture of 20 drops of saffron and two table-spoons of olive oil; two applications are necessary for proper color.

House Plants
Soiled leaves of house plants can be cleaned by applying equal parts of milk and warm water. Use a sponge, and rub gently to prevent breaking the leaves.

Glue Bottle Cork
An excellent substitute cork for the glue bottle is the stump of an old candle. It will not stick and the glue can not spill.

Embroidery Designs
Draw an embroidery design on the material with a good, black lead pencil. Press with a hot iron, and the design will not rub out so easily. If there are any mistakes in the design, they should be removed with an ordinary eraser before ironing.

Cleaning White Paint
The next time white-painted articles are to be cleaned, try using water in which two or three onions have been boiled, and see how readily the dirt is removed.

Prevent Slipping
The pastry board can be prevented from slipping about on the enamel table top if a rubber jar ring is put under each corner.

Match Scratches
Match scratches can be removed from white painted surfaces by rubbing with a cut lemon. Future scratching of matches on the surface can be prevented by smearing the spot lightly with vasoline. The greasy surface will defy any attempt to scratch matches on it.

Patent Leather
Sweet oil forms a good dressing for patent leather. Apply it with a small piece of flannel, then polish with a soft cloth.

Remove Candle Grease
When candle grease has splattered over the black suede shoes, take a piece of brown paper and cover the candle grease with this. Then hold a warm iron over the paper. The spot will soon be absorbed.

Using Yeast
When using yeast, put it into a little warm water and add a teaspoon of sugar and let develop a while in the water before adding to the dough mixture. This will cause the dough to rise more quickly and easily, and give the bread a better texture.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION BY W.W. REID

American Jews have recently contributed $500,000 to the Jewish National Fund of America and this has been sent to the Jerusalem headquarters of the Fund as a "New Year message of encouragement." It is announced by Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the organization in America. The Fund is used by the Jewish people for the acquisition and reclamation of the soil of the Holy Land as property of the race and nation.

The United Lutheran Church is considering a wide expansion of its missionary work in South America, following the recent visit to that continent of Dr. Saml Trexler, head of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, and president of the denomination's Board of Foreign Missions. Dr. Trexler is also recommending that some of the young men of South America be brought to theological seminaries in the United States for training for ministry to their native countries. At the present time, the Lutherans have missions in Argentina and British Guiana under the care of a dozen American missionaries and forty national workers.

A number of medical missionaries in both Asia and Africa are looking with interest at successful cures which the U. S. Indian Service has effected for trachoma sufferers among the American Indians. If this treatment can be used as effectively by medical missionaries overseas, one of their great problems will be solved. Scientists say that trachoma is endemic over half the world's surface. More than half the trachoma victims in the United States are Indians. Dr. Fred Loe, for twenty years an Indian Service physician, has begun the treatment of several victims by daily doses of several pills taken internally. Heretofore all treatment for the disease has been external. The first Indians to whom the pills were given were discharged as "arrested" within a month. They had been under treatment externally for several years without improvement. Medical men believe this "magic drug" is on the way to conquering trachoma.

Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn., which prepared young men and women for Christian and missionary work, claims to have one of the most international student bodies of any school in America. Numbered among its students this fall are representative young people and missionaries on-furlough from Algeria, Brazil, Burma, China, Congo Belge, Cuba, Java, Japan, Korea, Malaya, Mexico, and the Philippine Islands.

"Recent evidence of anti-Jewish prejudice in our own country compels us to speak again a word of solemn warning to the nation," says a statement of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. "Divisiveness on religious or racial grounds is a portentous menace to American democracy. If one group be made the target of attack today, the same spirit of intolerance may be visited on another group tomorrow and the rights and liberties of every group thus be put jeopardy. We condemn anti-Semitism as un-American. Even more strongly we condemn anti-Semitism as un-Christian. In behalf of the Christian churches, which comprise the Federal Council we voice our renewed determination to unite in combatting every tendency to anti-Semitism in our country. We recognize that a special responsibility rests upon us, who belong to the numerically strongest group, to be staunch advocates of the rights of minorities. We pledge our best efforts in their defense."

Dr. Charles A. Ainslie and those associated with him in the American Hospital of the Presbyterian Mission, Guatemala City, have given Guatemala three important "firsts." They organized the nation's first school for training nurses, gave the country its first modern sanitary hospital, and introduced the first hospital ambulance. The Hospital has been described as an important the presence of mosquitoes but by getting suddenly chilled, taking a cold, or otherwise having their vitality lowered, they are in danger of an attack of malaria, which is ushered in by a chill followed by fever. If this happens, it becomes necessary at once to give quinine in suitable doses. From the age of twelve, and beyond, give twenty grains of quinine a day from five to seven days, or until the fever is broken which usually occurs in from four to five days. It is useless to give larger doses, or to continue the twenty grains of quinine longer. Leading malarialogists have abandoned the giving of large doses of quinine over a period of weeks or months.

Quinine is the safest and surest drug that can be used for the cure and prophylaxis of malaria. The laity should learn how to give it in order to obtain the best results. During the malaria season, six grains of quinine a day in alcohol taken as a preventive. Children should receive the dosage which is proportionate to their ages.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture
Pbn Annual Poultry Meeting—The twenty-first annual poultry convention and the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Poultry Association will be held at the Pennsylvania State College, October 27 to 31.

Destroy Peony Foliage—It is a good plan to remove peony foliage to within two inches of the crown in the fall, say specialists in ornamental horticulture at the Pennsylvania State College. To guard against future difficulties with insects and diseases, burn the refuse.

Clean Litter for Layers—Keep a deep, dry bed of broken litter in laying pens, recommend poultry extension specialists at the Pennsylvania State College. Clean litter promotes sanitation and cleaner eggs are produced. A good deep litter keeps the house warmer, absorbs large quantities of moisture, and usually does not need to be removed during the winter.

Select Apples Carefully—"Blue-ribbon" apples at the Harrisburg Farm Show in January will be the result of careful selection and handling. "Spot" picking and careful handling to avoid bruising accompanied by prompt cooling and storage make blue-ribbon quality possible.

Health And Beauty
QUININE ON THE BATTLE FRONT.
Again the earth is stained crimson with the blood of dying soldiers on far flung battle fields. They are killing and being killed by millions. At the same time the medical profession, as always, is striving to alleviate suffering and to save life. While bombs and bullets are taking such a heavy toll, disease often proves a more subtle and dangerous enemy, also destroying as many lives.

Among the most deadly diseases against which we contend is malaria. This fall large numbers of troops are maneuvering in the South, where the torrid rains have continued for weeks. Every swamp, creek and water-containing hole of every description has been filled to the brim. Much of this water is standing in vast swamps and roadside ditches left by the highway department, and in ponds in low water-containing meadows. Here it will stand for months yet and breed billions of mosquitoes. Not only soldiers will be bitten and infected with malaria, many of the civilian population will not escape.

It is to be hoped that army medical officers, with the co-operation of the military authorities, will take every precaution against malaria, and institute such measures of prophylaxis that there will be very few cases among the soldiers. When the Italians invaded Ethiopia, they went into a country where malaria was endemic. Mussolini ordered that all medical work be coordinated under one head. Castellani, a specialist in tropical medicine, was put in charge and given the authority to have his orders carried out. He instituted malaria prophylaxis on a magnificent scale. There were a million and a half men sent into Ethiopia, every one of whom by Castellani's orders, received nine grains of quinine a day. This was taken under supervision. Each one of the million and a half was given three grains of quinine three times a day. The results proved that all medical work be coordinated under one head. Why Some People Still Believe in Vampires
Science steps forward with an explanation of the age-old belief that the "undead" sleep all day in their graves and steal forth on their satanic mission at night. Don't miss this unusual story in the October 19th issue of The American Weekly, the big magazine distributed with the Baltimore Sunday American.

YOU may never have heard of a K carrier circuit, but it has often heard you.
It's a Bell Telephone Laboratories development by which two pairs of wires in parallel cables can carry as many as twelve separate conversations at the same time!
K carrier circuits are being built into many miles of Long Distance cables. This is one of the ways we have of adding a lot of long circuits in a hurry to meet the needs of national defense.
