Sale Register Carries Ad For Next March

Consequently, the man who sets a date, make all arrangements for that date and advertise accordingly in the Centre Democrat Sale Register. It is virtually certain that none of his neighbors will choose the same date for his sale.

The first spring sale advertised so far this season will be found in The Register under the date of Friday, March 20, 1942. On that date J. D. and C. F. Neidigh will hold a farm sale in Ferguson township, 5 miles southwest of State College. E. M. Smith will be the auctioneer.

For many years The Centre Democrat has been recognized as the most complete and most reliable source of public sale news in Centre County. Antique dealers and sale patrons from far and near use the Sale Register as their official guide to auctions. In recent years the influence of The Sale Register has extended to a number of adjoining counties and advertisers outside of the county use it to inform Centre County of sales elsewhere in Central Pennsylvania.

The cost of public sale advertising in The Centre Democrat is surprisingly low, especially when it is considered that such advertising reaches approximately 35,000 readers and potential sale patrons each week.

Farmers who have had sale in the past frequently comment that because some person found listed in a Sale Register advertisement some item he was seeking, the higher price received for that item through competitive bidding offset the cost of the advertising.

Church Meeting At Unionville

Friday afternoon will be given over to a consideration of the Sunday School. The speaker will be Rev. P. C. Millard, of New Castle, who is the Sunday School secretary of the Oil City Conference. A roundtable discussion will follow the address.

A great day is planned for the Sabbath. The day will open with an old-fashioned Methodist love-feast at 9:30 a. m. Dr. Blews will preach at 11 o'clock upon the subject, "Where is the God of Elijah?" At 2:30 a missionary rally will be held. The speaker will be Miss Mae Armstrong, a missionary returned from Africa. She was returning to Africa on the Zam Zam which was torpedoed by a German submarine. She was rescued and returned again to the United States.

The convention will close with an evangelistic sermon by Rev. I. K. Blews, of Renovo.

Marriage Licenses Arthur R. Bickel, Bellefonte; Kathleen C. Emlinizer, Bellefonte; Harry F. Alters, Jr., Bellefonte; Carolyn E. Hart, Key West, Fla.; Joel N. Yearick, Bellefonte; Anna Mary Garner, State College; H. A. Hartshorn, New Kensington; Sarah J. Gilbert, Phillipsburg.

Activity Returns To Osceola Mines

P. R. R. Weighin Coal at Osceola Scales For First Time in 13 Years

Boom times in coal and brick industries are bringing part of the glory that was once the Moshannon Valley's back to Osceola Mills.

Last week for the first time in 13 years coal was weighed and weighed-billed at the Osceola Mills scales.

The sudden move to weigh coal shipments from the Moshannon Valley section at Osceola Mills rather than at Altoona where coal has been weighed since 1928 was made when the section's "black gold" began rumbling down the valley in long strings of cars. Since 100 per cent of the Moshannon Valley coal goes to eastern markets, the decision was made to weigh coal at Osceola.

For two days last week the coal was weighed and weigh-billed at the Osceola scales. Then came a tie-up. The shipments were too big for the cramped scales to handle; there wasn't room to classify the large number of cars which were being rushed to the scales. The rush necessitated hauling part of the coal to Altoona for weighing and classification.

Now the railroad is going to give the coal weighing another whirl at the Osceola scales where approximately 250 cars of coal and brick will be weighed daily and then hauled over the mountain to Tyrone where they will be picked up by the proper trains.

It is expected that the weighing and classification of coal at Osceola Mills will bring two clerks to Osceola Mills to assist Harvey R. McCree, Osceola Mills agent, as well as two crews of additional men to aid in handling the cars at the scales. Additional track and other alterations are also expected to be made.

College High School Gets $26,868 Grant

Additions and improvements to the high school building at State College are provided for by a WPA allotment of $26,868, approval of which was announced in Washington yesterday.

The project is sponsored by the State College school board which will provide additional funds about equal to the cost of materials to be used. WPA money will be spent chiefly for labor.

Work authorized includes: excavating, plastering and painting; performing masonry, tile, concrete, structural steel, carpentry and sheet metal work; and installing heating, ventilating, plumbing and electrical facilities.

The project is limited to operation on publicly-owned property and can get under way, officials said, as soon as WPA funds are released by the state administrator.

Opens Strip Mine The first strip coal mining to take place in the Snow Shoe district for many years was begun by Von E. Johnson at his operation about two miles from Snow Shoe. More than a month has been required to prepare the ground for the strip operation. The work is done with a large steam shovel.

SCHOOL PATROL SYMBOLIZES SAFETY

Morning, noon, and afternoon, in rain or shine, in cold weather or warm, little groups of youngsters armed with large yellow flags, stand at street intersections in Bellefonte to guard the lives of yellow pupils on their way to and from school.

They are members of the School Safety Patrol, organization formed several years ago to guide children safely across streets and to teach them the rudiments of safe-conduct.

When the organization was first formed, the public was more or less apathetic. Many thought it wouldn't last. Others thought members of the Patrol, children themselves, would not like the continued responsibility. But their fears proved wrong.

The Safety Patrol is rapidly becoming recognized as one of definite service to the community. Parents are asking that children be dismissed from school only when the Patrol is on duty. The Bellefonte Elks Lodge has equipped Patrol members with outfits suitable for rainy and snowy weather. The management of local theatre provides a free movie admission once a month to Patrol members in recognition of their services.

And, most important, school children are gradually becoming more "safety-conscious." When a boy or girl disobeys the patrol, he is subject to criticism by his classmates.

The duties of School Patrol members often are tiresome and are performed in extremes of weather conditions. Encouragement on the part of parents and the public in general goes far toward maintaining a high morale in the Patrol, and in keeping interest in a job which many times is a wearisome one.

Members of the Spring Street Safety Patrol are:

Lions Prepare to Meet Bucknell

Penn State Not Over-Confident as Season's Most Unpredictable Game Nears

One of Pennsylvania's oldest football rivalries will be continued on Penn State Homecoming Day Saturday, October 11, when the Nittany Lions meet Bucknell in the 31st game of a series which started in 1887.

With this year's Penn State squad not expected to do as well as the 1940 one, Coach Bob Higgins will be taking nothing for granted. Last fall the Thundering Herd came to New Beaver Field and for three quarters held a great State eleven scoreless. It was only a last stanza drive that garnered the Blue and White a 9-0 victory.

Although the Nittany Lions are ahead in games won by 20 to 10, the Blue and White have taken the measure of their central Pennsylvania rivals in seven out of the last eleven contests.

This year's Bucknell team, sparked by triple-threat Mel Knupp and scooting Fred Fahringer will provide the Lions with more than the usual amount of trouble, and possibly a victory for the Herd.

Coach Higgins will depend on his sparkling backfield of Pepper Petrella at left half, Captain Len Krouse at right half, Bill Smaltz at full, and Paul Weaver at quarter back, to provide the scores that will mean victory.

State has learned to take Bucknell seriously regardless of the comparative strength of the two elevens. Three years ago a highly-favored Lion team was upset by Bucknell, 14-0. That was the same Lion team which later in the season routed Syracuse 33-6, and tied Pennsylvania, 7-7.

Previous scores mean nothing in traditional Penn State-Bucknell encounters, and the October 11 battle will not prove to be an exception.

Red Cross Nurse Submits Report

A total of 366 home visits and 9 office visits are noted in the report of Miss Bertha Rimmer, Red Cross Nurse for this area, for the period July to September, inclusive.

Of the total visits, 24 were maternity calls; 209 for non-communicable diseases; 1 crippled children's service; and 41 for various health services, including 21 new born, 12 infant, 1 other, and 5 social service calls.

Mrs. Melvin Locke served as Red Cross nurse while Miss Rimmer was on vacation during July.

Health work in the Spring township schools, consisting of nine schools with 750 pupils, began in September. Weighing and measuring of pupils is taken care of by the teachers in as many schools as possible.

This fall the nurse has weighed and measured 191 children, held conferences at schools with 15 teachers, and helped them plan programs for the year.

The Associated Charities purchased four pairs of glasses for school children, and one pair of glasses for an adult was purchased by the welfare section of the Bellefonte Woman's Club. Fees of the nurse totaled $113.35 and mileage for the period was 981 miles.

Use Soft Drink to Extinguish Fire

Lives of Two Motorists Saved by Application of 'Fizz Water'

How a quantity of soft drink was used to extinguish an automobile fire on the Tyrone mountain the other night, was disclosed this week.

Albin Baney and Ossie Schnarrs, driver and helper of the Penn Alto Bottling Works truck which hauls between Phillipsburg and Altoona, were the first to arrive at the scene of the Cassidy-Baumgardner crash on the mountain.

The drivers said both men were stretched out and looked dead. The one car was on fire under the hood and they were unable to raise the hood because of the way the front end was caved in. They said they opened about 10 bottles of Pepsi-Cola and fizzed it and shot it in through the hood ventilator and put the fire out.

Cassidy, they said, was unconscious on the seat and the windshield was smashed. Baumgardner's foot was caught in the brake and clutch and the door was open and his body was on the running board with his head on the highway. Both were unconscious and covered with blood. Other motorists brought them to the hospital where their injuries were treated.

Both men are reported to be fairly good. Cassidy is a patient at the hospital and Baumgardner is at home.

DAMAGE $50 AS CARS MEET AT INTERSECTION

Damage totaled about $50 but no one was injured in an auto accident at the corner of Lamb and Allegheny streets about 10:50 o'clock Saturday night, according to a report by Chief of Police Harry Duke-man and Officer Johnson. A machine driven by Charles Eason, of East Lamb street, drove west down the Lamb street hill, allegedly failed to stop at the sign at Allegheny street, and is said to have crashed into a car driven by Thomas Garman, of Howard, R. D. 2, which was going north on Allegheny street. After striking the Garman car, police said, the Eason machine crashed through the road barriers on Lamb street at the school corner, ran down the street a short distance and turned around, coming to rest facing uphill. Damage to the Garman car was placed at about $50. The Eason machine was only slightly damaged.
