

OBITUARY

CONNELL J. MAGILL

Connell J. Magill, a sophomore at Penn State, died Sunday morning, October 19, 1941, in the Temple Hospital, Philadelphia. He had been in the College infirmary from last Tuesday until Friday, suffering, it is understood, from mastoiditis. On Friday he was sent to his home to consult a specialist. He was a member of Phi Kappa fraternity.

MISS IDA WEAVER

Miss Ida Weaver, the last of the three Weaver sisters who had resided on East Howard street, Bellefonte, for many years, died at her home at 12:15 o'clock Friday morning, October 17, 1941, after a several months' illness with a complication of diseases. Miss Weaver, in failing health for more than a year, was in her late 70s. Deceased was a daughter of David and Susannah Bridge Weaver and was born near Bellefonte. She was a sister of the late Miss Carrie Weaver, Bellefonte school teacher who died on August 2, 1939, and of Miss E. Belle Weaver, for many years stenographer in the offices of the late Judge Ellis L. Orvis, Bellefonte, who died 12 days later. Surviving are a brother, Henry Weaver, of Wilkinsburg, and a niece, Mrs. Emory Wolf, also of Wilkinsburg. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Widdowson Funeral Home, North Allegheny street, with the Rev. William C. Thompson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Interment was made in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte.

DAVID MCKEAN HARI, II

David McKean Hari, II, of Punxsutawney, a brother of Mrs. Lorin J. Elder, of State College, died in the McKeesport Hospital Saturday, Oct. 18, 1941, following an operation. Mr. Hari was well known in State College through having worked there as a builder and architect, making his home with his sister. Eighteen months ago he moved to McKeesport to do similar work. A graduate of Kiskadee, his younger days were spent in the Southwest and the Canadian Northwest, prospecting and big-game hunting. Ten years ago, to prove a living could still be made in the wilds of Pennsylvania, he camped and hunted for a year in the mountains of Potter county. He was a lover of the outdoors. In addition to his wife, Maude, a daughter, Mrs. Ben Thayer and a son, David, III, all of Warren, O. Surviving brothers and sisters in addition to Mrs. Elder are Ben, Altoona; John, Philadelphia; Frank, Punxsutawney; Mrs. Marie Curry, Punxsutawney; and Mrs. Edgar Hinkle, New York City. Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Curry in Punxsutawney Tuesday afternoon. Interment was made in Punxsutawney.

Removing Old Stumps

To remove an old tree stump, bore a hole about 18 inches deep and 1 inch in diameter in the center of the stump in the autumn of the year. Put in about 2 ounces of saltpeter. Fill the hole with water, and plug it up tight. In the spring, take out the plug, pour in 8 or 10 ounces of gasoline, ignite, and the stump will smolder, but not blaze, to the extremities of the roots, leaving only ashes.

Hand-Cleaning Paste

A very good hand-cleaning paste or soap can be made by dissolving 2½ pounds of white soap in 5½ pints of hot water. As it cools and sets, stir in one pound of fine sand.

Keeps Lid On

Drop a teaspoonful of butter into the water when boiling dry beans, or other starchy vegetables, to eliminate the annoyance of the lid jumping off, as it will otherwise do. The butter acts the same as oil on troubled waters and keeps it calm and manageable.

Stuck Postage Stamps

Oftentimes when postage stamps have been carried in a purse they become stuck together. When this happens, do not soak them apart but lay them on a smooth surface and pass a hot iron over them. This will separate the stamps without destroying the gum.

The Silverware

Soaking the silverware in a solution of hot water and borax (a quart of hot water to a tablespoon of borax) will usually remove the tarnish. Do not boil. Place a few pieces of silver in at a time. Remove, and then wash in a solution of soap, borax, and water. Wipe dry.

Whipping Cream

If cream will not whip, try adding the white of an egg to it. Chill both the cream and egg thoroughly, and then whip together.

Dustless Duster

To make a dust cloth that will really hold the dust and not take it up in one place only to scatter it in another, soak a large square of cheesecloth in kerosene oil until thoroughly saturated. Hang in the open air all day until well dried. It holds the dust splendidly. When oiled, the process may be repeated after the cloth has been washed.

A Handy Cement

A cement for attaching objects to glass can be made by melting together one part of resin and two parts of yellow wax.

Physician Asks For Injunction

ence are essential, Dr. Charles Reimers, Huntingdon, testified it was essential to have Dr. Clark's services as a specialist in Huntingdon during the absence of Dr. Hunt inasmuch as there are no other specialists in this particular area. Other physicians testified on the essential need of Dr. Clark as a specialist for Huntingdon and community.

Two Phillipsburg members of the State Hospital staff, Miss Mittie Cathcart, superintendent, and Miss Frances Houck, supervisor of outpatients of the hospital clinic, were present in court to testify.

Miss Cathcart testified that Dr. Clark had 1257 clinic patients since she became superintendent in November, 1939.

Miss Houck testified that Dr. Clark, former employee of Dr. Hunt, had performed 73 operations at the hospital and that his services were satisfactory.

Miss Bernice English, social worker of the Division of Welfare, Council of Blind, testified she had made a survey for the blind needs of Phillipsburg and vicinity. She said considerable difficulty was experienced in finding a qualified eye specialist. She testified Dr. Clark, whose services were secured, performed satisfactorily and that there is a definite need for Dr. Clark at the Phillipsburg clinic.

C. McKnight Africa, Huntingdon civil engineer, identified a map showing points within a 50-mile radius of Huntingdon. Points within the 50-mile radius were Johnstown, Bedford, Carlisle, Greencastle, Newport, Laurelton, Curwensville and Clearfield.

The court reserved decision in the case.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Long years ago All Hallers Eve was a time of much merrymaking and feasting; everyone expected to be jolly. Today it is the one night in all the year when simplicity counts, the party may be a real old-fashioned one of doughnuts, gingerbread, pumpkin pie, coffee, cider, apples, nuts and popcorn. If you prefer, it may be as modern as you like. The following recipes are suitable for such an occasion.

Doughnuts

- 4 cups flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon mace
- 1 cup milk

Sift dry ingredients together; add sugar and beaten eggs, then creamed butter, flour and milk alternately; and vanilla. This makes 3 to 4 dozen doughnuts. Roll on floured board to ½ inch thickness. Cut with doughnut cutter and fry in deep fat.

Soft Gingerbread

- ¼ cup butter
- ¼ cup sour milk
- ¼ cup molasses
- 1 egg
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons ginger
- ½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, beat eggs slightly and add. Add flour and other dry ingredients alternately with the liquid. Stir vigorously and pour into a greased pan. Bake 30 minutes in an oven 375 degrees.

Witch's Treasure Chest

- 3 cups flaked canned red salmon
- 2 cup; chopped nut meats
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- About 1 cup mayonnaise
- Some chopped pickles
- Creamed butter
- 1 loaf bread, unsliced
- Hard-boiled eggs, pimento.

Combine salmon, nut meats, the pickles, lemon juice and mayonnaise, using enough mayonnaise to thoroughly moisten. Remove crust from bread and cut into 4 lengthwise slices. Butter each generously being careful to butter inside of top slice. Spread the three lower slices with salmon mixture, top with remaining slice, trim and wrap in waxed paper or a dampened napkin. Chill thoroughly and at serving time garnish with sliced hard-boiled egg, lemon slices and quarter-inch bands of pimento. Cut into slices for serving.

Halloween Sandwiches

Cut white bread in very thin slices and cut in circles with a round cutter. Cream 2 tablespoons butter with ¼ cup highly seasoned yellow-cheese and season with salt and paprika. Spread this mixture on one round of bread. Over this spread current jelly. The other circle should be cut out to resemble features, a triangle for the nose, a half moon for the mouth and small circles for the eyes. Place over the round which has been spread with cheese and jelly and press firmly together.

Jack O'Lantern Salad

Hollow red apples or oranges. Cut Jack O'Lantern faces in the surface, and place bits of pimento, green pepper or cherry in the openings. Fill the jagged rim with a nice fruit salad and top with a mayonnaise made stiff enough to stand like a cap on the fruit.

Most men of the house know that this is the time of the year when their better halves require new outfits.

PENNSYLVANIA APPLE GROWERS FACE PROBLEM

In many sections of the fruit growing area of Pennsylvania, yields of apples are so low that they barely repay orchardists in normal times. With the shortage of labor and rising cost of boxes, baskets, spray materials, and other equipment, growers are facing a serious problem, according to pomologists at the Pennsylvania State College. This is just the time when a re-attention to maintaining healthy leaves on the trees. Luxuriant leaf growth is necessary for a tree to store the plant food which is essential in producing a fruit crop. Insects, diseases, and unwise spraying are three important causes of leaf damage. Greater care also is necessary in handling sod and cover crops to prevent erosion and increase soil fertility. These and many other subjects will be covered briefly during the short course which is open to everyone. Expenses for the four weeks need not exceed $55 or $60.

Fraternities Robbed
Three Bucknell University fraternity houses were robbed last week, more than $200 in bills having been reported stolen. Watches and jewelry at the three fraternity homes, those of the Phi Gamma Delta, the S. A. E. and the Sigma Chi, were ignored. Apparent was familiarity with the houses, which are never locked.

Philadelphia Man Pays for Crime was slain. The authorities said Herman was the "smoothie" of the combine—he dressed well and spoke impressively.

The ring, the Commonwealth charged, dealt in "hexing," the "evil eye," and "magic love potions." Herman Petrillo said the police sought out women with "husband troubles" and told them how to dispose of their spouses—obtain a big insurance policy and then administer poison.

Testimony disclosed the ring claimed at least $300 from the policies of each victim and Assistant District Attorney Vincent McDermott said there were at least twenty-seven deaths—possibly many more.

Police authorities in Philadelphia, who "broke" the fantastic case in 1938, said the ring operated for at least six years and accounted for 26 known deaths. Many others, some say as high as 100, are believed to have died at the hands of the ring, which specialized in arsenic murders but did not hesitate to employ other methods, such as drowning and bludgeoning.

Petrillo received no visitors after his arrival Saturday at the Rockview penitentiary from Philadelphia. He made no special request for food, said the warden. He died leaving a wife and five children. His body was claimed by his sister, Miss Dolores Petrillo. The condemned man spent his last day reading a prayer book.

Members of the ring and its victims were traced to three other states in addition to Pennsylvania. Tales of magic and witchcraft filled the testimony of the fantastic court trials which followed. In addition to the two who were electrocuted, 11 are serving life imprisonment, including two of the ring's "borgias," another "lifer" died in prison, five received prison terms ranging from 2 to 20 years, and one, Max Bolber, the "witch doctor," is still awaiting sentence.

Baseball Star in Army

Gerald "Peany" Gates, of State College, a Penn State baseball star until his induction into the Army on July 22, has been assigned to the recreation office of the Air Corps Advanced Flying School at Victoria, Texas.

Gates, who completed his third year at Penn State College last June, was also a member of the hockey team. He is a graduate of State College High School.

Badly Hurt in Fall

Warren Hess, of Millintown, an employe of the American Car & Foundry Company at Berwick, was badly hurt in a fall into a concrete pit at the plant, while on his way to the finishing shed, where he worked. His injuries include a skull fracture and a bruised ear drum.

train was located at Tyrone. When the West Penn truck appeared many spectators believed they would be unable to move the 10-ton caboose. But the crews with the aid of Bellefonte firemen went to work, and in a short time had the car free. Who'd have lifted the caboose if the West Penn hadn't help available? Your guess is as good as ours. Maybe there's some truth to the saying that no matter how difficult the job to be done, someone always turns up who can do it.

TWO-HOLER:

The Chick Station building on the sidewalk in front of the Plaza theatre is there to advertise a Halloween jamboree to be held at the theatre. We can't help but think that it's a good thing this isn't the week of the Firemen's Convention.

BIG JOB:

Clyde Stewart, manager of the Wolf Furniture store, who last week set up a stove on the sidewalk, complete with stovepipe and all, isn't trying to heat the out-of-doors. The stove is in operation merely to show passersby how the thing works.

WARNS FARMERS AGAINST GROWING OF HERBS

Herb prices are so attractive at present that farmers and gardeners may be tempted to make plantings, but they should first consider carefully the difficulties involved, G. J. Stout, professor of vegetable gardening at the Pennsylvania State College has warned prospective growers. The production of most herbs involves an enormous amount of hand work. As a result they are grown largely in parts of Europe and Asia where labor is cheap. The demand for many medicinal herbs is so limited that wild supplies are sufficient. Others are so easily grown that the market may be saturated with supplies at any time. Conditions, in general, are more liberally used than medicinal herbs, but the prospective grower should make sure of an outlet for his crop, preferably at a stated price before making any plantings.
