Seek Volunteers For Defense Work

Dean A. D. Warnock, dean of men at Penn State and chairman of the American United Committee in the county, sketched the county program and stressed the need for good morale among workers. He declared that in times of emergency public confidence in officials in charge of restoring order or carrying out salvage or relief work is of the greatest importance.

Declaring that civil defense work in England has been one of the greatest factors in maintaining that nation's morale and in keeping that country free from invasion attempts, Charles Freeman, county co-ordinator, related in brief some of the steps expected to be taken soon in Centre County in preparation for any possible emergency.

Samuel D. Rhinesmith, chairman of the local Air Raid Warning Service, outlined the local set-up for that important phase of defense and declared that a test, similar to the one held in the east last week, is expected to be conducted here in the near future.

Centre County Sheriff Edward R. Miller, who recently attended a meeting in Williamsport conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, offered the services of his office in investigating any possible un-American activities in this section. He said the F. B. I. requested that such information be furnished the Federal Bureau through the county sheriff.

Mrs. Robert Eckenrode, president of the Bellefonte Woman's Club pledged the co-operation of the club to the Civil Defense program and Chairman Leitzeil to send a representation to a club meeting to explain the work.

James J. Leitzeil, of Milesburg, officer of Jackson-Crisman-Saylor Post Veterans of Foreign Wars, offered that group's co-operation in the program, and Edward L. Miller, commander of Brook Post American Legion, invited the Defense Committee to call upon Legionnaires.

Work of the defense group to date has been in charge of the following persons: Arthur Boob, Philip Saylor, Capt. Herbert M. Beezer, Dr. E. H. Adams, A. L. Francis, J. H. Cason, Arthur C. Hewitt, Earl K. Stock, H. A. Brockerhoff, Fred Warner, Edward Kofman, Roy Adams, Thomas Williams and John Miller.

The next meeting of the Bellefonte committee will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday, October 29 at the Logan Fire House.

Unique Girls' Drill Team at B. H. S.

(Continued from page one) education training during school hours, the group holds its team drills on the members' own time. Weeks when there is no home game the team drills only once, but during the week before a home game the team drills twice after school and again on the morning of the game.

Games mean a lot of hard work, for Miss Billow's policy is to have an entirely new drill to present to spectators at each game.

What's the future of the organization? Well, members are having plenty of fun as it is, and perhaps in the future they may be taken on some out-of-town trips. Perhaps the drill team will become a permanent branch of the Bellefonte High School Band, to march with the band and perform routines on occasions other than football games.

But even if the organization does not expand its activities, the members are receiving physical benefits from the drills and from the discipline maintained, and they're finding a new interest in sports and high school activities.

While the group is too young for any considerable public reaction to be felt at this time, the new outfit is something different, and there's always a premium for new ideas.

Most of those who have seen the outfit in action report that they like the team. They contend that it has something original, and predict that it will have a long, happy, and successful life.

If you haven't been to a home game this year, plan to attend the Lock Haven game here on November 7. The new drill team will be on hand for a between-halves exhibition.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Koch Funeral Home in State College, with the Rev. Homer E. Gauntt, former pastor of the Houseville United Brethren church, and Rev. O. A. Womer officiating.

Pvt. Snyder had arrived home on Saturday for a weekend leave, and is reported to have told his parents that he "wasn't going back." He did not further explain that statement, officials said.

Parking Meter Revenue, $1,262

(Continued from page one) that under the fire zone regulations only stone or brick may be used in new construction. To permit construction of a frame house, it was explained, would expose property owners in the business area of town to a possible increase of more than two cents a hundred on fire insurance.

The police report submitted by Chief of Police Harry Dukeman revealed that 167 parking violation tags had been issued; 2 larceny investigations made; 8 auto accidents investigated, and 10 transients given lodging in the lock-up. The Fire and Police committee report showed collection of $56 for fines.

Health Officer W. W. Bickett is to be instructed to collect milk permit fees from dealers trading in Bellefonte. The fee is fixed according to the volume of business of the individual dealer.

When it was reported that Dr. J. C. Rogers is continuing to park his car in the alley at the side of his offices on South Spring street, instead of in the parking space in front specially constructed for him, Council gave orders that future violations should be turned over to a Justice of the Peace for prosecution.

The Fire and Police committee was given power to employ Walter Seull as fireman at the Logan Fire House.

The Street committee reported that Dunlap Brothers have been given the contract for relocating curbs at Allegheny and Linn streets and Allegheny and Burrows streets and that work on the projects has begun.

The committee also reported that Wilson street, North Water street, and the road leading to Sunnyside near the American Lime and Stone Company plant had been graded and will be rolled as a temporary road.

pair to those streets. Councilman Henry A. Brockerhoff complained that traffic passing over a manhole cover at the corner of Spring and Bi-top streets causes the metal to clang loudly. The cover is to be replaced. The secretary was instructed to notify Mrs. E. R. Owens to replace the sidewalk on South Allegheny street which was damaged while new sewer lines were being extended into the Owens building.

The West Penn Power Company is to be reminded of its agreement to revamp Bellefonte's ornamental street lighting system. Council approved the proposed changes some weeks ago, but work has not begun on the project.

Health Officer Bickett reported issuing 15 health certificates, inspecting three eating places and inspecting five stores.

W. W. Sieg, president of the borough authority, reported total collections for sewage rents for the three years since the authority was
