CHRISTIAN LOVE

International Sunday School Lesson for November 30, 1941.

Golden Text: "We love him, because he first loved us."—I John 4: 19

Lesson Text: John 13-34, 35; I Cor. 13: 1-13.

The present condition of the world is a matter of great concern to many Christians. Some are asking how or why God permits these things to happen. We venture the statement that it is not God who permits these terrible things to happen, but the responsibility rests solely on man. It is, as the poet Burns said, "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Christians need to face the fact that one of the most important, if not the only cause, of the present world condition is the lack of love—love of God and love of one's fellow-men. The Christian religion is unique in its emphasis upon love. No other religion has a God whose nature is love and grace. No other religion has been able to make its supreme appeal for acceptance and loyalty on the ground of voluntary love.

One of the sorest needs of the world today is for a demonstration of Christian love. The world should be able, rightfully, to look to the followers of Jesus Christ for examples of the love way of life. If Christians the world over, would exemplify the Saviour's love for all men everywhere and apply His principles of love in all the relations of life, the effects would be felt throughout the world.

A clever lawyer, hoping to confuse the Master, asked him the question, "Which is the great commandment in the law?" Jesus unhesitatingly quoted Deut. 6: 5, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind." And then he added, "This is the first and great commandment." However, realizing that one could demonstrate his love for God in only one way, Jesus then stated, "And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbors as thyself."

What did Jesus mean when he added this second commandment? Simply, that if one truly loves God, he is bound to love others. Therefore, one's protestation that he truly loves God which is not demonstrated in a life of loving service to others will hardly carry conviction. A love-filled heart will be an unselfish heart, a compassionate heart, a helpful heart.

"Love finds no rejoicing in unrighteousness. There is no pleasure in the faults and failures of others. Rather it rejoices in truth, its highest thrill comes from the triumph of goodness. Love bears with the faults of others. It has confidence in people and faith in those under suspicion. It is given to hopeful optimism, rather than despair. It endures all things and carries on undaunted, undiscouraged never wavering with courageous perseverance."

And, one of the finest statements which Paul makes about love is that it never faileth. Other things may pass away, but love abideth for ever. Faith, hope, and love are imperishable, but of these three, the greatest is love.

When Christians come to the realization that the world is in its present condition today through its ignorance of our gospel of love, then surely they will be constrained to immediate action to tell the story of God's redeeming love to the whole wide world.
