

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

James H. Rankin, Esq., has been appointed by the Court as auditor to audit the accounts of the Prothonotary, Register and Recorder of Centre county with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the year 1941.

The knitting factory at Millheim which has been untenanted for several years, we have been informed by a reliable party, has been rented to a party in Howard for the purpose of manufacturing handles, and is expected will give employment to a number of men. The knitting factory was the source of much loss to the business men of Millheim who invested their money in it and never received any return.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: George W. Reed, Milroy, and Annie M. Havice, Sugarville; O. T. Stover, Haines township, and Annie M. Spangler, Miles township; A. M. Nearly everybody in Centre county is familiar with or has had some dealings with Mr. Simon Loeb, who for many years has been engaged in the mercantile business in Bellefonte. On Monday Mr. Loeb informed the writer that he will soon move with his family to Philadelphia, where he expects to engage in other business. Mr. Loeb is what we term an enterprising merchant and always was an active citizen in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the community.

The iron mail box in front of Bunnell & Alkins store by some means became attached to an electric wire of the incandescent street line. When John Bair, the obliging mail carrier, was making his usual round collecting mail a genuine surprise greeted him when he reached this letter box. When he stepped up and caught hold of the brass lock he began to tremble and quiver, then he wrenched a bit, gave the lock a bang and went backwards. With great difficulty he managed to open the lock and obtain the mail, but sparks flew around him. The mail box is attached to an iron post with an electric light at the top and by some means the wires in the post became connected, highly charging it with the infernal electricity.

Montie Ward, formerly a Bellefonte boy, now a famous base ball player will play second base and captain on the Brooklyn team next year. . . . If the rents in Bellefonte were reduced to a decent figure there would not be so many vacant houses and empty store rooms in town. . . . The new electric light station is about completed. . . . Gen. Hastings spent the past week in Bellefonte. Although this is his home, he is away most of the time. . . . Mrs. D. H. Hastings has been quite ill with bilious fever during the past week at her home on Allegheny street. . . . An interesting suit will come before the court this week from Phillipsburg. It is a claim of $5000 for damages received from a bad boardwalk. The result of the case will be worth noting.

While hunting small game Gilbert Hot, of Julian, was accidentally shot in the leg by his own revolver. The ball entered the fleshy part of the leg above the knee and took a downward course, lodging in the ankle. A physician was summoned to extract the bullet and dress the wound.

After 41 hours of deliberation the 7 men and 5 women on the jury which tried Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle at San Francisco on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, announced the vote stood ten to two, but did not say whether the majority favored acquittal or conviction.

William Crawshaw, a telephone lineman employed by the Commercial Telephone Company, was admitted to the Bellefonte Hospital for treatment of injuries received when a pole on which he was working broke and fell to the ground. The accident happened near the Chemical Lime Company plant in Buffalo Run Valley. The weight of the pole fell on the fleshy part of the man's leg.

Miss Mary Cooney, who had been ill for some weeks, underwent an operation at the University Hospital, Philadelphia, during the course of which it was discovered that she was suffering from an abscess on the right side which developed from injuries received when she was struck by an automobile near the chain works. The operation, performed by Dr. Frazier, noted surgeon, was a success and the patient was recuperating rapidly.

Ralph Smith, local editor, and George Derr, job printer at the Centre Democrat office, were off duty because of attacks of grippe.

Bellefonters were watching with glee a tiff between Borough Manager James Seibert and F. E. Nagley, over a disputed water tax claim. Seibert twice turned off the water to Nagley's home, but Nagley promptly turned it on again. Finally the gentlemen effected a compromise and buried the hatchet.

The following applications for liquor license in Centre county had been received by the court: William Bowser, Joseph Dugan, F. W. and William Grebe, Kondrat Juschick, G. W. After many trials and tribulations, James R. Hughes, headmaster of the Bellefonte Academy, was assured an ample and independent supply of water for his swimming pool at the Academy athletic field. Dullness had been at work for several weeks struck water at a depth of 161 feet. The water rose 26 feet in the well and after an electric pump had been installed it was believed that an entirely adequate supply of water would be available. During the winter months the pool is expected to be used for skating and also for cutting ice for the community.

W. L. Campbell, station agent at Coburn, was in the act of completing the cleaning and oiling of his automatic revolver when his daughter ran into the room and asked to see how the gun worked. Believing the weapon unloaded, Mr. Campbell pulled the trigger. To his great surprise the gun discharged, the bullet entering a table top beside the child's hand, and went through the top, embedding itself in the table leg. The concussion from the shot extinguished a lamp on the table and was some time before the badly frightened man could learn whether or not the child had been struck.

Some over-anxious nimbrod could not wait for the opening of the deer season. Shortly after 5 o'clock last Sunday morning a shot fell along the mountains near Millheim. About an hour and a half later, two more shots rang out in the same locality and your guess is as good as anybody's as to what happened. Several does were found in the mountains above Millheim indicating that somebody didn't have or take much time to make up his mind. Another report is that one hunter saw another with a freshly killed doe—and handed out the advice that he should dress out the carcass and hang it up before leaving it.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION BY W. W. REID

Reports reaching the United States from various European sources indicate that the various denominations of various Christians within Norway are coming closer together because of the "common danger" that confronts them under their political masters. Something of this unity was demonstrated on a recent Sunday when "almost everyone" was in his church at 9 a. m. and common prayer was raised for the nation and people. The state church (Lutheran) and the various minority groups have formed a new "religious front" which takes in practically the entire nation. Bishop Eivind Berggrav and Prof. C. O. Hallesby, representing the two groups of the Lutheran Norwegian state church, and the Rev. Jacob A. Oehm, a leader of the Baptist denomination, are the heads of this new united front.

The new problems faced by the Christian workers and missionaries in every state in the Union because of the war situation and the shifting of populations to industrial communities and war camps, will be among the matters considered for four days when the Home Missions Council of North America holds its annual meeting in Trenton, New Jersey, January 4 to 12. The Council represents the major Protestant denominations in the United States, and most of the problems are shared by them in common. The Rev. Geo. Pitt Beers, a leading Baptist clergyman, is president of the Council; and the executive secretaries are Dr. Mark A. Dawber and Miss Edith E. Lowry.

A statement issued recently by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, on behalf of the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, said: "Our sympathy goes out again to the peoples of those countries who have been crushed under the heel of the invader; and indeed, to all upon whom war has imposed so heavy a burden of suffering and sacrifice. We cannot too strongly condemn the inhuman treatment to which the Jewish people have been subjected in many countries. In this hour of cruel torture, we are mindful daily at God's altar, of all the innocent victims of the war, of the homeless, the exiled, the impoverished, and all who are suffering because of hunger or disease. We ask the faithful to unite with us in offering daily prayers and sacrifice in their behalf."

Believing that if patients are busy their disease will be less burdensome than if they sit idle, the Protestant Leper Home, Bethesda, Dutch Guiana, tries to keep all lepers employed. "Those who can use their hands," says Superintendent H. R. Fischer, "make useful instruments or carved boxes or furniture. Others have gardens where they raise fruit. One has made bricks for our new paths. The homes of the women are models of cleanliness, and flower-beds and well-kept yards are always picturesque. Three runaway youths about 16 or 16 years of age, were picked up in State College last Tuesday night by Police Officer Grant N. Kough. It was reported. The youths were from Bedford, Great Bend, and Kirkwood, N. Y. The Bedford boys' parents came to State College to take him home, while messages from parents of the other two asked that they be sent home. The two were sent on their way the next morning.

Miss Clara S. McClellan, State College school nurse, is testing the hearing of approximately 500 children in upper elementary and junior high grades of the community schools. Equipment being used was borrowed from the State Department of Public Instruction with the cooperation of the speech department at the College. Parents of children with hearing defects will be notified later in the year after a second check is made. It was announced by school authorities.

It is reported authoritatively that the National Hotel at Millheim, closed since last February, has been purchased by S. Walker Henninger of State College, proprietor of Henry's Restaurant in the college town. The purchase price has not been made known. Mr. Henninger is expected to remodel the building for opening on or about January 1st. At that time, it is stated, he will be in a position to render hotel accommodations and a complete food service. The Henninger family, Mr. and Mrs. and their son, will have an apartment in the building and become residents of Millheim. Inasmuch as the community has not afforded real hotel accommodations for a number of years past, the move is one that will probably meet with the approval of the traveling public as well as the business interests of the community.

Projects in the translation of the Bible or portions of it, under the auspices of the American Bible Society, are going on today in some of the little-known languages of primitive peoples in Mexico, Central America, the Philippines, South America, Africa, Siam (Thailand), and various islands of the Pacific Ocean.

Statistics of the Roman Catholic church have estimated that the communion now has from 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 members within the United States. This is a rise of about 50 per cent within the last fifteen years. The higher figure is based on the fact that 31 per cent of the draft registrants have expressed a preference for the Catholic church. The lower figure of 30,000,000 is based on a survey made by the church authorities in 1920. It had been estimated that there were 20,000,000 members of the church.

The College of Agriculture and Forestry of the University of Nanjing, supported by North American missionary agencies, reports that during the year there were distributed to Chinese farmers 598,744 pounds of improved wheat, millet and cotton seed—perhaps the greatest single contribution made by anybody to the food supply of that nation.

Sunday School Lesson

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

International Sunday School Lesson for December 14, 1941.

Golden Text: "It is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful."—1 Cor. 4: 2.

Lesson Text: Cor. 8: 1-9; 9: 6, 7.

When Christian people generally come to a full realization of the meaning of stewardship or the implications, putting its teachings into practice in their own lives, the Christian church will show such an advance that it will amaze even the most optimistic.

Just what is a steward? A glance into a dictionary reveals that a "steward is one who manages the affairs, or possessions, of another." The steward is not the owner of the possessions, he is the care-taker, responsible to the real owner. This is true of a ship's steward—he does not own the ship nor even the materials with which he works or for which he is responsible. He must make an accounting to the owner, however, for the manner in which he performs his duties or cares for the possessions of the ship-owner.

When we speak of Christian stewardship, the idea is the same. We acknowledge that God is the owner of everything, by right of creation and that he lets us hold and use that is really his, for a time and that, eventually, everything that we have, or own, really goes back to the Heavenly Father in some way.

The Psalmist declared: "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, of the world and they that dwell therein." Time, which we may use or misuse, was given to us by God. Our talents and abilities, which if properly developed may help us to attain success in living, are given to us by God. God is the source and owner of all things and man is just a tenant of his, allowed through God's goodness and generosity to use and possess what really belongs to Him.

Acknowledging the above to be true, what return shall we make to Him?

Arthur P. Stephens, et ux, to C. Edgar Book, et ux, of State College, tract in State College, $1.

Centre County Treasurer to W. F. Patton, of Tyrone, tract in Port Matilda, $796.

ROMOLA

There were 22 present at Sunday school Sunday morning.

The Royal class will meet at the home of Mrs. Miles Lucas Friday evening, Dec. 13, for the monthly meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shank of Orviston, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Heichel spent Sunday afternoon in Clearfield visiting Mrs. Prudence.

God for the use of His possessions? If we rent an apartment, a store building or a farm from another, we naturally expect to pay rent, a certain stipulated sum, for the use of the property rented. Yet, when some one—be it preacher, Sunday school teacher or worker—mentions that one should set aside a certain stipulated sum out of one's earnings, as holy unto the Lord, most people hold up their hands in horror and say that the one thing they don't like about the church and its workers is their everlasting emphasis upon giving money. They are not stewards or they would not have that attitude.

However, giving is only a small part of Christian stewardship. Paul, in writing to the Corinthians, praised the Macedonian Christians for their liberality and generosity in giving to the unfortunate believers in Judea and called attention to a very important factor, when he said that these Christians, "first gave their own selves to the Lord." When Christians dedicate "their own selves to the Lord" there will be no question about their generosity, their service or their living.

A consecrated steward realizes that God is dependent on his servants even as each of his servants is dependent on Him. The way he has chosen of getting his work done in the world, of serving men and women everywhere, of saving lost souls, is through every Christian man and woman, boy and girl in every country throughout the world. He wants more than a small portion of your money. He wants part of your time, your energy, your talent and your God-given ability used for Him and in His service.

You may not have much money, but there is always something you can give to God of use for God. He doesn't judge us by the size of our gift, the greatness of our task, or the genius of our talent. His only question of us is: "Did you do your best?" Anything less than our best is not a worthy gift to the God who loves us so much that he gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.

What kind of a steward are you?

TRAVELING around town here, you'll find Buicks that are still in service after six, eight, ten or even more years.

It's worth noting that these sturdy old Buicks are still serving faithfully and well, for several reasons.

They have the same basic type of engine as the sleek 1942 Buick—a rugged, long-lived, extra-efficient valve-in-head, though it is now made better by FIREBALL combustion.

They have the same dependable drive—a stout torque tube enclosing a sturdy steel shaft stretching its unbroken length from transmission to rear axle.

Frames are fundamentally the same now as then; brakes, though hydraulic now, use the same, efficient, self-energizing action.

All the factors that make for strength and long life are still present—plus such further advances as all-coil springs, Domite pistons that squeeze more good from gasoline, Compound Carburetion that spells peak economy with unmatched reserve power.

There's more comfort, more convenience, more beauty, more value in these '42 models.

But what counts is that they're still Buicks—tough, rugged and dependable.

Take a look at what your next car is likely to be up against and ask yourself if that isn't the kind of car it's smart to buy right now.
