STARTLING DEMONSTRATION OF HYPNOTISM IS GIVEN

Shivering as though at the North Pole, crying hysterically over a sad story, swatting imaginary mosquitoes and angling for the elusive trout, all these and more were the dramatics enacted by a group of young people who were the subjects for the public hypnotism demonstration given in the Centre Hall-Potter school building Monday evening by D. K. Ernst, psychologist from Stony Creek Mills.

Before the demonstration Mr. Ernst explained hypnotism briefly to the audience, emphasizing the scientific explanation of concentration, and entirely disclaiming any mystic or occult power.

He explained that the average person normally uses only about ten per cent of his potential mentality and twenty-five per cent of his potential physical ability. By hypnosis all distractions are removed and the individual can perform apparently uncanny feats of mental and physical prowess.

Of about twenty-five persons who offered to be subjects, only about a dozen concentrated sufficiently to be hypnotized. The glibly way all of these subjects apparently in "spell" of the hypnotist, obeyed directions and responded to suggestions caused hilarity, and amazement too, among the audience of about two hundred persons.

One subject, Clara Lou Wetzel, was able to recall in her hypnotic sleep, her fourth Christmas in remarkable detail including guests, dinner menu, and gifts. Another one, Edwin Crawford, sold imaginary candy and peanuts through the audience, and C. William Booser, Jr., piloting a visionary plane sank single-handed a Jap ship in a realistic manner.

James Bitner, when told to make his muscles rigid, complied so well that his body, suspended horizontally between two chairs, carried the weight of the hypnotist.

At the end of the demonstration, Janet Runkle, brought suddenly out of her hypnotic state, was amazed to find herself leading the audience in the singing of "God Bless America."

When Mr. Ernst closed his performance, the subjects were a sheepish looking group coming-to on the stage, and the audience appeared confounded and impressed by this old, yet imperfectly understood science.

Tickets are on sale for the annual firemen's dance tomorrow (Friday) evening in the Centre Hall-Potter gymnasium, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Donald Shope, chairman, announces that Bob Lyons' orchestra will play for square and round dancing. Victory's and a red, white and blue color scheme will be used in the decorations according to Reuben S. Rickert, chairman of the decorating committee.

Tickets are priced at fifty cents each, including tax.

PERSONALS

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Max Kirkpatrick, Mrs. F. V. Goodhart and Mrs. Edna Noll of Pleasant Gap, left Monday morning for Florida, where they will spend about a month. Mrs. Goodhart plans to visit her brother and sister-in-law in Fort Lauderdale.

Word has been received of the arrest by the Japanese of the Rev. and Mrs. Woodrow Barges, who arrived recently in the Philippines enroute to an Evangelical missionary post in China. The Rev. Mr. Barges is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Windom Barges of Millheim, former residents of Centre Hall. The young Mrs. Barges was, before her marriage, Miss Sarah Shilling of Lewistown. The young couple left a pastorate in Nescopeck to become missionaries.
