YOUTHS SENTENCED FOR BURGLARIES

Believe Series of Petty Crimes Solved

William Bryan, 20, Draws 3 to 6 Years in Western Penitentiary
COUSIN, 16, SENT TO STATE SCHOOL
Effective Police Work Climaxes Long List of Offenses

Two Belleville youths who during the weekend admitted a series of 14 burglaries and two forgeries in this area since January 30, yesterday morning appeared before Judge Ivan Walker at a special session of court, pleaded guilty to four charges, and were sentenced.

William Bryan, 20, of South Spring street, was given four terms of from 3 to 6 years in the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, three of the sentences running concurrently with the fourth, making his actual sentence 3 to 6 years.

His cousin and accomplice, Gilbert Bryan, 16, of Halfmoon Hill, was committed to the State Industrial School at Camp Hill for an indeterminate term.

In court yesterday, both boys refused the aid of an attorney offered by the court and declared that neither of them was a "ring-leader." William, the older of the pair, served time two years ago for the larceny of two automobiles, and had been advised to join the Army. He told the court he had tried to join the Marines, but that his mother failed to sign the necessary release papers.

The crimes to which the two pleaded guilty yesterday were: February 11, Centre Oil and Gas Company warehouse robbery, and January 30, robbery of Belleville Y. M. C. A. Chief of Police Dukeman was prosecutor in these cases. Other crimes upon which they received sentence were: February 11, robbery of John Junious, Elmer Watkins, and Harrison Dukeman homes in Boggs township; and February 21, entering the cottages of Harry Rossmann.

Newspaper Editor Enlists in U. S. Navy

Charles A. Mensch, of North Allegheny street, for the past 12 years editor of The Keystone Gazette, and who recently was elected a member of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, has enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserves and expects to receive a call for service in the near future.

Mr. Mensch was graduated from the Belleville High School in the class of 1926, and from Penn State College, class of 1930. Since then he has been editor of The Gazette. He is well known and held in high esteem throughout the county.

"Charlie" is the first Belleville newspaperman to enter the armed forces in the present war. He is vice-president of the Centre County News Writers' Association, organization of county newsmen.

Youth Injured While Skiing

Centre Hall Student Saves Own Life by Checking Flow of Blood

A Centre Hall-Potter Township High School student, injured while skiing on the mountain near his home last Thursday afternoon, saved himself from probable death through intelligent first-aid he administered himself.

The youth, Harry McClanahan, Jr., 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClanahan, residing east of Centre Hall, fell while skiing down a steep slope about one-fourth of a mile from his home. In falling he struck a stone, inflicting deep lacerations of the right hip and knee.

The youth started to walk home but fainted three times. Realizing that the flow of blood was rapidly weakening him, he ripped off his shirt and from it improvised bandages to check the blood.

He managed to struggle home in an exhausted condition and was brought immediately to the Centre County Hospital where the wounds were treated. He remained at the institution until Saturday when he was permitted to return home. The hip laceration is reported to have been about three inches in depth and physicians expressed amazement that he was able to get home unaided.

Latest reports from the residence are that he is recovering satisfactorily, although he will be required to remain in bed until there is no danger of infection or of reopening the wounds.

Two School Districts Get Defense Funds

State Treasurer Harold G. Wagner yesterday announced that checks have been mailed to two Centre county school districts to pay for courses in vocational education for defense.

The check for the Belleville school district was for $468.80, and one for the Spring Township school district was for $1,907. Mr. Wagner reported.

Public Speaking to be Topic of PTA Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Sunday school room of the Reformed church, Tuesday, February 24, at 7:45 p. m.

An unusual program is being planned by the public speaking department of the high school, under the direction of John S. Dubois.

Public speaking is a relatively new field in secondary education. The aims and objectives of the work will be stressed in the course of this program and demonstration.

All citizens interested in the school and its work are urged to be present whether or not they are members of the P. T. A.

Belleville Furnished First American Flag to Float Over Philippine School

Today as we thrill to the gallant defense of the American flag in the Philippines, Belleville can assume considerable satisfaction on the part of its citizens in the prominent event connected with the first national emblem in the far-off Pacific Islands. For not only did some of her soldiers aid in the war of liberation that led to the newer life to follow under the American Standard, but can feel a justifiable pride in the almost forgotten fact that a citizen of the town furnished the first American flag to float over a Philippine school.

The historic incident which occurred during the Spanish-American War of more than forty years ago, was fostered by Prof. James R. Hughes, principal of the Belleville Academy, which at the time was prospering under the able leadership of his father, the late Rev. James P. Hughes.

It was quite by accident, Professor Hughes mused in looking back to recall the event, that while reading a Pittsburgh newspaper he ran across a dispatch from Manila which referred to an Academy at Cavite. It occurred to him that he had a patriotic privilege, as the executive principal of the historic Belleville Academy—which, by the way, was one of the oldest and most successful preparatory schools in the United States—to present the first Academy in the Philippines to come under American control, a large and beautiful American flag.

Resolving his patriotic impulse to action, Mr. Hughes wrote to President McKinley and announced his desire to make such a presentation, offering, at the same time, to purchase the flag from the United States Government.

Stock 'Juggler' May Be Tried In Court Here

Liquor Board Seeks Extradition of Man in Washington, D. C.
STATE COLLEGE MAN ALLEGED "VICTIM"
Claim Warehouse Certificates Traded For Worthless Stock

Two agents of the State Liquor Control Board's Altoona office were in Washington, D. C. yesterday seeking for the first time since the establishment of the Board about 8 years ago to extradite a violator of its laws.

The case centers around Lynn Glover of Washington, D. C., who, according to the Centre County District Attorney is charged with operating as a warehouse certificate broker without a license and without an agent's credentials.

The reported victim in the case is John Krumrine of State College. Krumrine owned a number of warehouse certificates until Glover allegedly got possession of them on claims that they were of no value and exchanging them for distillery stock which was represented to be "gilt-edged." The distillery stock, it is claimed, proved to be worthless.

Local authorities claim prosecution has been entered here only because Glover acted without proper credentials.

Through cooperation of the metropolitan police of Washington who located Glover, the fugitive was apprehended and faced an extradition hearing yesterday. Governor James signed an extradition warrant for Glover's return to Centre county, the board reported.

The Altoona agents, accompanied by several of Glover's victims who went along to identify him, were to bring the prisoner directly to Centre county prison in Belleville to await court action.

The Grand Jury found a true bill against Glover, and he is scheduled to go on trial here next week—if authorities are successful in bringing him here.

Illness Fatal to W. S. Chambers

Was Retired Belleville Assistant Postmaster; Funeral This Afternoon

William Staples Chambers, retired assistant postmaster of Belleville, died at 6:40 o'clock Tuesday morning, February 17, 1942, at his home on East Curtin street, of a heart ailment from which he had suffered for several years. His condition had been serious since Sunday, when he suffered an unusually severe attack.

Mr. Chambers lived in Belleville for more than 50 years and entered the employ of the local postoffice about the beginning of the present century. He was retired a number of years ago after having served as assistant postmaster for some time.

The deceased was a son of Elijah and Maryanna Staples Chambers and was born at State College August 1, 1861, making his age at time of death 80 years, 6 months, and 16 days.

His wife, the former Eva Priscilla Bell, and two daughters, Miss Mary Bell Chambers, of New York City, and Mrs. J. S. Clinegar, of St. Louis, Mo., survive. Mr. Chambers was the last member of his immediate family. He was a member of the Belleville Post Office.

Widowson Receives New Funeral Car

A modern new funeral car, the latest word in funeral car design, was received here Tuesday by the E. E. Widowson Funeral Home, on North Allegheny street.

Mounted on a special Cadillac chassis and powered by the largest Cadillac motor made, the machine is the first new car for which a release was granted by the local rationing board since the government imposed rigid restrictions upon the sale of cars. The car was ordered last November before production was restricted.

The exterior of the long, low-slung body is of paneled drapes, while the interior is of the cathedral style, finished in walnut, and in two-tone maroon and gray upholstery. The car was custom built at Belleville, Ohio, and was driven here by Widowson and Frank W. West.

The machine is probably the last new funeral car to appear in Centre County until after the war, for production has ceased and will not be resumed until after war-time restrictions have been lifted.

Council Acts To Reach Compromise On Parking Meter Complaints

Farmers and businessmen, nearly 20 strong, appeared at the regular meeting of Belleville Council Monday night to add their complaints to many others against the almost total metering of High and Allegheny streets in the business area of town.

When fifteen of them had been heard, Council President William W. Sieg, after reviewing the factors which led to Council's installation of parking meters, asked the delegation of citizens to have a committee of three persons named from the Retail Division of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, to sit with the Fire and Police committee of Council in an effort to arrive at some compromise which would be satisfactory to the greatest number of persons.

"Parking meters have solved the parking problem in Belleville—maybe they solved it too well," Mr. Sieg remarked. "I can assure you that everyone is going to have a fair showing in this matter," he added.

Spokesmen from the delegation to Council reviewed some old complaints and introduced some new ones as they lodged their objections to the so-called "mechanical policemen." Nearly all of them, however, indicated that they don't object to parking meters—they object to the nearly one-hundred per cent metering of the business district which compels motorists to pay a fee if they want to park.

Glenn Walker, the first spokesman, explained briefly that the delegation had come not to criticize Council but to explain just how meters work unfairly to those who transact business here.

Clair Hoover, manager of a service station on North Spring street, said motorists constantly ignore signs prohibiting parking in the driveway to his station. He claims they take such measures to escape parking meter fees, and added that the practice is damaging to his business.

H. E. Garbrick, farmer, said he visits town five and six times a week and has business which necessitates his parking in various parts of the business area. He claims that it is an imposition to expect him to pay a penny or nickel every time he stops his car. "You can see trucks parked in metered stalls at any time, and they don't have to pay fees. Is their business more important than mine?" he asked.

Harold Sampell, another farmer, said that before any meters were installed, no one could find a place to park. After the first lot was in operation you could always find a parking space, even if you had to pay. Now he concluded, you can always find a space but you must pay. "The only objection I have," Sampell said, "is that there are too many meters."

Epley White, farmer, said that the present overmetering of the business district is such an inconvenience to farmers that many of them are buying elsewhere. "The free alley parking space is always taken up, and those from out of town are forced to park elsewhere."

Meter Conference To Be Held Friday

A newly-elected parking meter committee of the Retail Division of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will meet with the Fire and Police committee of Belleville Borough Council, at the Chamber of Commerce offices, West High street, at 7:15 o'clock Friday night, it was announced yesterday.

Members of the Retail Division meter committee are: Grover Corman, Ward Fisher, Joseph Wagner, T. S. Guyer and Glenn Walker.

At the session an effort will be made to reach a compromise between Council, which installed the meters, and citizens of town, who have filed scores of protests against the present almost 100 per cent metering of the business area.

Port Matilda Man Finds a Pair of Ancient Handcuffs

A tale of lawlessness, or possibly of an Indian raid, dating back to the Revolutionary War or possibly earlier, could be told by a pair of broken handcuffs in the possession of Doris Adams, of Port Matilda, R. D.

The ancient handcuffs, either of cast or forged iron, were found by Mr. Adams some time ago while he was cultivating a newly-cleared plot of ground on his farm. The iron is badly rusted and pitted by the action of the elements.

Part of one of the bracelets is missing, but the other one is intact, although broken. The cuffs are held together by a stout chain, with a swivel joint in the center.

Instead of the usual ratchet and key arrangement for adjusting and locking the cuffs, as in modern ones, the old pair had a bolt arrangement. The cuffs apparently were placed over the wrist, and the bolt drawn down until they were tight.

Mr. Adams is of the opinion that the broken cuff indicates that whoever was manacled with the handcuffs broke them to effect his liberty.

Nearly 3000 Register In Centre County

Approximately 1650 From Bellefonte Area; 1200 From State College
TO MAKE SURVEY OF VOCATIONAL ABILITY
Detailed Questionnaire to be Used For Additional Information

Approximately 2850 more Centre County men became eligible for military service Monday, with the close of the third Selective Service registration day, it was announced yesterday by officials of the county's two local boards.

Belleville Board No. 2 reported that approximately 1650 men over 20 and under 45 had registered, while Board No. 1, State College, estimated registrations at about 1200.

The group of registrars, principally teachers from public schools, handled registration without a hitch, board officers said.

Accurate figures on Monday's registration will not be available until all cards of those from other districts who registered locally, and all cards of local persons who registered in other areas have been exchanged and sorted, it was explained.

National Selective Service headquarters announced that it will make an inventory of the vocational experience of all men who have registered but who have not been called into service. There are about 24,500,000 such registrants, including Monday's.

These men will be sent detailed questionnaires to supplement incomplete information contained in previous forms.

Local Board No. 2, yesterday publicly expressed its thanks to registrars who served so capably on Monday.

Local Board No. 1, State College, submits the following report of the third registration:

"Registration day passed off very smoothly for Local Board No. 1 of Centre County. Thanks to the splendid cooperation of Mr. E. K. Elsham and his corps of able assistants on the Campus and the local High School."

The bank will be used for storing blood plasma for use in possible emergencies in this area, and headquarters will be set up at the Centre County Hospital. Authorization has been given for the purchase of necessary equipment.

Approximately $800 will be needed for the blood bank program. To date a fund of $500 has been received through 1100 donations from each of the following organizations: Belleville Rotary Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Belleville Moose Lodge, Undine Fire Company and the American Legion Post. Other groups are considering contributing to the fund, it is reported.

County Farmers Attend Meeting

Session Sponsored by Production Credit Association Well Attended

Centre County farmers and their wives attended the meeting of the Production Credit Association held in the Pleasant Gap Grange Hall last Friday night. Nearly 200 persons were present.

John Runk of Huntingdon, president of the Association, acted as chairman of the meeting.

A report of the board of directors of the financial progress of the Association was given by Director Harry A. Corman, of Spring Mills. Mr. Corman presented charts which showed the increase of membership of each county in the Blair, Bedford, Cambria, Centre, Clearfield and Huntingdon groups. Centre County compared favorably and is now in the lead. He also reported on the progress shown in the Belleville of...

Locate Missing College Student

Anthony Altieri, 20, of Port Chester, N. Y., a freshman at Penn State, reported missing from the College since Tuesday of last week, on Monday walked into a Philadelphia police station, "broke" but unharmed.

Install Safeguards for Town Water Supply

Steps to protect Belleville's water supply from possible sabotage are being taken by Belleville Borough Council.

An eight-foot wire fence, surmounted by two strands of barbed wire, has been erected all around the Big Spring property with the exception of the side facing on Water street. The present fence around the reservoir is to be raised to eight feet and barbed wire strands are to be placed around the top.

The reservoir area will be well lighted for the duration and lights at the spring will be changed to provide a maximum of safety.

The work is being done by borough employees during the slack work periods, officials report.

Cambria County Schools Allow One Hour Religious Instruction Each Week

The first ray of hope for a 15-year-old dream of the Rev. Father J. W. Pauly, rector of St. Michael's Catholic church, Snow Shoe, came last week with the announcement by two Cambria county school districts that pupils in the public schools there are to be granted one hour of school time each week to receive religious instruction in the church or Sunday school of their own choosing.

For the past decade-and-a-half Father Pauly has believed that such a plan would be of great value to youngsters of all denominations, and while he has broached the subject in a small way at various times, there has been no concrete evidence of public acceptance until the announcement from the Cambria county districts.

Under the action of the two districts, public school pupils of the grade schools of Cresson and Bankertown and students of Cresson High School will be excused at 3 o'clock

Sassaman, of Altoona, skidded on a patch of ice on Route 322 just above Pottery Mills, hit a guard rail at one side of the road, then skidded to the opposite side, plunged over a 20-foot embankment and rolled over four times before coming to rest.
