Defense Scrap: Notice has been given in regard to the scrap material which is being gathered up for defense, one drive having already been made and about one and one-half tons of material secured. The persons purchasing the same will not come for it until between three and four tons are ready, so it has been announced that another drive will be made this coming Saturday, March 14th, for all paper, magazines, scrap paper, cans, old tires, scrap metal, including aluminum. The papers must be tied in bundles as well as the magazines and rags put in bags, and scrap aluminum put in boxes. A truck belonging to G. W. Holt and son will call for the material some time Saturday, so clean out your attics and have as much material ready as can be gotten so the desired amount will be ready for the truck this time, and the material will be taken to the grist mill for packing. Also, an additional drive will be made on Wednesday, April 1st, for all old license plates. Some have old ones from past years which should be collected and turned in for defense. Fugitive Found at Frenchville

swept rural road and came upon a house and a shanty on the edge of a wooded area. A short distance from the two buildings, the officer, unable to drive any farther, started on foot for the cabin.

Just as he was about 35 feet from the place, the detective turned to see a figure he at once recognized as Bergey come out of the woods some distance away. The policeman gripped the gun in his hunting coat pocket and yelled to Bergey:

"All right Bergey." The escaped prisoner submitted to arrest and captive went to the shanty residence nearby. As they opened the door, Bergey's wife, who had been waiting for her husband to return, faintly.

Rented House

Captain Schmucker reports that Bergey told natives of the section he could neither read nor write. He leased the shanty from a widow who lived in a house nearby and for whom Bergey cut wood. Bergey also worked for a man in the section helping him cut mine props.

Both Bergey and his wife were taken back to Williamsport, arriving early Tuesday. When questioned about the escape and who furnished him with the saw to cut the jail bars, the captain reports Bergey said he heard a tap on his cell window one night and the saw was found when he opened the window.

When asked about Bergey's accomplice in the escape, Captain Schmucker said the identity of the person is known and declined to comment further about it.

Needs Medical Care

Bergey's wife, cold and in need of medical attention, was turned over to her relatives in Williamsport. She had gone to her husband just three weeks ago by bus to Clearfield where Bergey met her with a car he had borrowed from his employer.

Bergey told Captain Schmucker he cut the bars from his cell window himself. The break last October was engineered on a Monday night or early Tuesday, but was not made public until Thursday afternoon of the same week.

Questioning brought out that Bergey hitch-hiked from Williamsport, stayed with relatives in the Clearfield county section and just a month ago took up residence in the sparsely furnished one-room cabin in the Snow Shoe Mountains.

Cells Checked

Following the escape, Mayor Leo C. Williamson said he was disturbed over the matter. Since then a check has been made of the lockup cells every four hours to check the habits and conditions of the prisoners.

Bergey originally was arrested on a Saturday morning, October 25 when he was caught in the garage of a Newberry resident. He was booked on a burglary charge and said he escaped because he did not want to face another jail term. The young man has a previous record of petty larceny of bicycles, motor code violations and has served a number of months in jail.
