

PINE GROVE MILLS

(From Last Week)
Farmer Eugene M. Irvine was an important business caller Thursday at State College.

Supervising Principal of our schools, Prof. Henry S. Illingworth, was off duty a few days the past week on account of the grippe, but is back this week at his desk as usual.

Charles Jonas, popular Lemont butcher, was among our farmers last Friday in quest of fat stuff for his block.

The floral tributes at the J. H. Gilliland funeral last Wednesday were profuse, and one of the largest funerals in our valley for some time. Many friends from a distance paid tribute to Joe, who will be missed greatly by a host of friends. Friends from Hollidaysburg, Petersburg, Harrisburg, Altoona and other towns were present.

The Misses Myra Miller and Aina Jane Musser were in Pittsburgh over the past weekend, guests at a fashionable wedding Saturday p. m. The bride was a niece of Miss Miller. Now we are wondering if these young ladies might follow suit.

The George Deibler family flitted Tuesday from the Robert Reed house to the Miller Kepler potato farm.

Daniel R. Stover is now boss farmer for the Haugh brothers at their stock farm near Scotia. Dan recently resigned at the Paul Henry farm.

Mrs. Mary Sauerman is now a patient at the Altoona Hospital. Mrs. Sauerman, a guest of the Hollidaysburg Presbyterian Home the past few years, has a host of friends who hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Mary Kepler Coombs of New York City, spent several days recently with her parents on W. Main street. Hon. and Mrs. J. Will Kepler, Mary holds a nice clerical position in that city.

A large crowd did brisk bidding at the Mrs. Dora Cottle sale last Saturday. Farmer and barber Mr. J. Harry McCracken, purchased the home on E. Main street at $1575.

The Hugh C. Dale family of the Branch, were Sunday visitors among their friends here in town. Next Monday, Mar. 16, the Dales will have one of the largest farm equipment sales of the season, the first sale at the well known Dale farm in the past 10 years. They will move to Chester county, near Oxford, in the near future, where one of the best 20-acre farms in that section has been purchased. Their many friends wish them the best that goes with tilling the soil.

Retired farmer John Neidigh is now employed at Niagara Falls.

The Dean brothers of Baltimore, Md. were over the past weekend visiting at their parental home on East Main street, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dean. The boys have nice positions in the Queen Maria state.

Miss Mary Dreibleis is somewhat improved from a recent illness at her home, though still under her doctor's care.

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Donald Grubb are now nicely fixed at their first housekeeping lesson on the H. A. Grubb farm, better known as the Fry farm near Pine Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith have vacated the George P. Irvine house on West street and moved to State College.

The L. G. Peters family attended the Harry Wagner funeral last Wednesday at Oak Hill, Harry, a well known farmer and carpenter, died suddenly at his home.

One of our former farmers, A. J. Laird, now of Dunbar, spent two weeks recently with his daughter and family, Mrs. Mahlon Campbell, on the Wiltmer farm just west of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh C. Fry of Smethport, motored down Friday to spend the weekend at the Fry home in Rock Springs. They returned home Sunday evening.

The interior of the D. S. Peterson farm home is being redecorated with paper and paint, Jack Johnston, being the contractor.

E. M. Porter and daughter Ruth were Saturday business callers in Lewisport, also calling on some of their close friends.

Committee meeting Thursday, Mar. 12, at 8 p. m., in Baileyville Hall, to hear report of trustees and election of new trustees for the ensuing year. A good attendance is desired.

WINGATE

There will be preaching service in the Evangelical church on Sunday afternoon of March 29, at 2:30 by Rev. R. L. Freas. The Easter Communion will be observed at this service. Come, the public is welcome to worship with us.

On Tuesday, March 10, some friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Irwin Lucas to celebrate her fifty-sixth birthday anniversary. They spent the day in quilting. At 11 o'clock a delicious birthday dinner was served with all the trimmings. # Some Things I Like

There are so very many things I like in this old world. I believe I'll try to name some if you think I'm not too bold.

I like the birds that come each day to feed at my back door; I keep some crumbs and sure they'll come back for more.

I like the horses, cows and sheep, the pigs, the mules that bray; I like the hens, especially when they begin to lay!

I like the kittens at their play, their mothers, catching rats; But I'd not give my dog for all your kittens and your cats.

I like to hunt, to walk thru woods along some grassy trail And watch a deer, a turkey or a covey of small quail.

I like the green of trees and grass, the study of the soil; The lasting pleasure I derive from a day of honest toil.

I like to spend a moment's time in sunset's golden glow And watch the beauty of this earth, like heaven here below.

I like to garden, gather fruit, make hay and harvest grain, Enjoy the sunshine, snow and ice and, yes, I like the rain.

I like to paper, plaster, too; to paint and make repairs; I like to can a lot of things to take to our Grange Fair!

I like to wash, to sweep and dust, to hury now and then; There's nothing I would rather do than cook for hungry men.

I like to count a vast amount of figures, any day, And if accounts were all I had my work would seem like play.

I like to travel, drive a car, see new things on the way, Then come back home as happy as I was to get away.

I like to meet folks, chat with friends, hear other people's views, Then out of all you learn this way—take any view you choose!

I like to take an ugly thing and find some beauty there; And nearly always this is so, there's something there to share.

I like to fight some evil thing I find along the way, For then I know I've fought against old Satan's evil sway.

I like to read, to write a rhyme, to sit awhile and dream; To rest at ease especially by firelight's cosy gleam.

I like to teach, take part in plays, a program to prepare, To play a game with boys and girls and in their fun to share.

I like a twinkle in the eye, a smile, a handclasp strong; It makes one think that after all this world is not all wrong.

I like the study of God's Word, the depth we have to go, That we may catch a vision of the things we ought to know.

I like my husband, like our boys, our brothers, sisters, too; And think that every one of them is of the best, don't you?

I like my boys to bring their friends for visits in our home; I'd rather they would bother me than far away to roam.

I like my neighbors even tho' we do not all agree; Can't they have their opinions just as well as you and me?

I wouldn't be surprised to find that I like even you! Especially if oft we found congenial to do.

But best of all the loveliest is a darling little child; What joy if we could be the same, so gentle, sweet and mild.

Dear God, there are so many things that You have made us here, So beautiful, so wonderful, that serve to help and cheer.

I thank You, too, that Jesus came for me a chance be given That I may live, while here on earth, to have a home in heaven, And so my prayer, my earnest prayer, is that I may live true, To all the beauty, faith and love He has for those who do.

TIMELY TIPS ON KITE FLYING

For VICTORY BUY UNITED STATES WAR BONDS AND STAMPS

Fly your kite in an open field, away from all traffic, trolley wires, electric pole and tower lines.

Avoid kites with metal rib. Use strong cord—no wire or fused twine—and keep it dry. Wet string will conduct electricity—and metal can cause a shock if your kite should land on wires.

Keep a steady pull on the string. If the wind slackens, haul the kite down. Add more tail if the kite darts or dives.

If your kite should land on wires or a pole, climbing after it or trying to knock it down with sticks and stones is dangerous. The kite is sure to be worthless anyway—and you may damage wires, cutting off the electricity from many homes.

World of Religion

Many years of the Rev. and Mrs. H. Dudley Peck, missionaries in the mountain town of Ostumateco, Guatemala, and they were also the translators of the New Testament into Mam.

"Our form of government was devised on principles flowing from deep religious conviction," said former New York City prosecutor, Thomas E. Dewey, in a recent speech. "Every essential of our system, every essential of free society springs from the concept of morality, family life, and duties and faith in the Fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man. Each of these is denied by the materialistic philosophy of totalitarianism. From the religious faith of a people springs the right and concern for the well-being of our fellow men."

Mrs. Roy Spotts received a letter on Monday from her brother, Paul, who has been in the Hawaiian Islands. Word had been received from him some time ago, but none had heard recently from him. He is still in Honolulu and has signed up with the Honolulu police force and expects to make his home there if he passes all exams and gets the job rating of which he was pretty certain of securing at the time of writing.

SCOTIA

(By H. M. Williams)

We were sorry to learn of the death of one of our old residents, Joseph Reacker, who died last Thursday at the home of his son, William at Stormstown. Joe, as he was known to his many friends, moved to Scotia in the early nineteen hundreds and worked there until the works closed down. He has resided in this vicinity practically all the time since he moved away from Scotia, making his home with his sons since the death of his wife a few years ago.

Mrs. Dora Williams returned home last Friday evening after spending about four weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Norma Young of Bush Addition. While there she happened to be grandma again for the sixth time in this family. She reported that mother and babe are getting along fine. Yes, it's a girl!

There isn't much news to report about the operations of the mines at Scotia, as the weather has been very bad each Saturday the last couple of weeks and the reporter didn't get much chance to find out just what is happening up there. What little we do know is just hearsay. But the report is that the officials have been trying to locate and make arrangements for a railroad siding at Waddle to load the ore. We all hope that this is a success as it will be a great boost to our community.

Another great boost to our community that has been in operation since last summer is The Pennsylvania Kaolin Co. whose product is clay. This business is operated by Russell Blair of State College, and seems to be a great success, as each day there are railroad cars being loaded at the siding at Waddle. Several cars of this product are loaded each week, which employs quite a few men in our vicinity. This clay is all loaded at Waddle station, where they have an up-to-date loading system. The clay is trucked from the old Blair bank about two and a half miles west of Scotia to their loading ramp. They also have here a shed built that holds several car-
