Several persons in the community have been allowing their chickens to run at large and destroy their neighbor's gardens. We have been urged, through the government, to make all the gardens we can during these war times and it is very discouraging when our efforts are all shot through some neighbor's chickens digging up what has been planted. Let everyone act kindly and try to help rather than to hinder and, if it is necessary to leave the chickens out at any time, be on hand and see that they stay on their own premises.
