to-six feet high stone retaining wall along the south bank of the stream; he laboriously deepened and straightened the channel of the stream; he hauled earth and stones by wheelbarrow to fill in gullies washed by floods and to level off the front yard between the retaining wall and house. He leveled up a sizeable section of adjoining land and now has it planted in garden produce. He built a set of stone steps in the retaining wall so he could get water for washing purposes from Logan Branch. He has to carry drinking water from other sources, but he's planning now to improve that situation. He built a substantial and picturesque footbridge across the stream so he can reach his home from the highway.

And he's just getting started, he'll tell you. He plans more walks, more landscaping, more improvements. Mr. Ring explains that when he came here he was out of work much of the time and in poor health. So he went to work to keep from worrying about himself and his troubles. After he got well started in his task his health and the appearance of his property improved together.

Mr. Ring is 61 years old and has a wife and five children. Two daughters live in the northern part of the State, a son, Fred, is in U. S. Army training camp in South Carolina and two other sons, William and Charles, are in the automobile parts business near Axemann.

got in conversation with a group of boys. The court asked him whether he hadn't told the boys in reference to his attack on the girl: "If I had it to do over I'd do the same thing," or words to that effect. Snyder denied he had made such a statement. The sentence for the charge of statutory rape was 7 1/2 to 15 years in prison, and the penalty for the sodomy charge was 2 1/2 to 5 years, to be served at the expiration of the first term.

to charges of selling beer and whiskey to minors. J. W. Barefoot, of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, prosecutor in the case, said that he and fellow officers visited the Markland in May and found beer and whiskey being sold to minors. John G. Love, attorney for the defendants, said that on the day of the alleged violation, there were about 70 persons in the establishment and that the employees were rushed. He said that because of the rush they overlooked the fact that some of the customers might have been minors.

Matthews, who was charged with three counts, was sentenced to pay the costs and a fine of $300 or in default of the fine, serve three months in the county jail. Irvin, charged with one count, was directed to pay the costs and a fine of $100 or serve one month in the county jail.

Peter Vozniak and Casimer Swancar, of Clarence, employed by the Young Democratic Club of Clarence, entered pleas of guilty to non-members of the club. Both men had appeared in court on previous occasions on the same charge.

Both were sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $300 each and serve three months in the county jail. The prosecutor in the case was R. E. Hoenstine, of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, who said he and fellow officers had purchased drinks at the Clarence Democratic Club on various occasions.

Willard Eugene Gentzel, Bellefonte restaurant employe, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a car after his license had been suspended and was sentenced to pay the costs and serve 60 days in the county jail.

Gentzel has been a persistent violator of the motor code and has served time in Glen Mills and in jail for violations of the motor laws. It was reported in court P. R. J. Crozier, of the State Motor Police at Pleasant Gap, was the prosecutor.

Merrill B. Frantz, of Buffalo Run Valley, charged with operating a car while his license was suspended, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay the costs and serve 15 days in jail. Officer C. E. Smith, of the State Motor Police at Pleasant Gap said Frantz was stopped while driving a car which didn't bear an inspection sticker. He produced operator's and registration cards issued to Matthew Frantz (his brother). Investigation revealed that his own license had been suspended.

Clark Carson, Bellefonte, charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants, was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail. Jack Butterworth, 23, of Snow Shoe township, brought into court on a charge of failing to provide for the support of an illegitimate child, was directed to pay $150 a week until further direction from the court, and was required to post a bond of $500.

Introduced by Henry A. Brockhoff, Bellefonte, treasurer of the State Democratic party, Judge Ladner began his speech with praise for the beauties of Centre county and a warning to voters on apathy brought about by the war.

Other speakers at the rally which ended barely a minute before a torrential downpour drove listeners to shelter, were Howard J. Thompson of Curwensville, state senatorial candidate, and Mrs. Edith B. DeWitt, vice chairman of the Democratic state committee.

The program was in charge of Russell Spangler of Bellefonte, county chairman, and Miss Maude Miller of Ferguson township, county vice chairman. The Centre Hall-Potter Township High School Band led the march to the platform and played several numbers before the program began.

by the Red Cross for vehicles of that type. Mounted on a new 1942 Chevrolet chassis, with a 134 1/2 inch wheelbase, the ambulance has an extra long panel type body. The machine is in the paint shop at the County Chevrolet Garage where it is being painted in the Logan color, red, to match the company's new pumpers.

The truck will carry either two stretchers, or a stretcher and folding litter. Many other items of first aid equipment are expected to be carried in the ambulance, officials said yesterday. Officials emphasized that the new unit is not at the call of the public, unless other ambulances in the area are not available. It will not be permitted to answer calls to private homes, or to the scene of accidents unless there is a clear demand for more ambulances than are now available. In such emergencies the ambulance will be permitted to respond only upon the call of some person in established authority.

Effective August 15, the blue and white Minute Man flag ceased to represent 90 per cent payroll savings alone and became the symbol of plants having 90 per cent employee or member participation plus 10 per cent average allotment of earnings by participants. Mr. Aikens reported.

Reports yesterday from the Titan Metal Company were to the effect that because of vacations a few employees have not been signed for 10 per cent payroll allotments; but that when vacations are over it is believed every employe of that industry will pledge ten per cent of his earnings to the purchase of War Bonds and Stamps.

The standing of the various industries on the ten per cent plan yesterday was reported as follows: the American Lime & Stone Co., all but 12 employees signed; Sutton Engineering Co., 100 per cent of employees signed for a total of 12 per cent of the gross payroll; Universal Match Co., 100 per cent for 10 per cent of payroll; West Penn Power Co., about time it is estimated that 11,000,000 Americans will participate in the Salute. In some cities mayors and civic officials are going to issue proclamations calling on the entire public to halt, come to attention and give three cheers no matter where they are or what they are doing.

90 per cent for 10 per cent; Bell Telephone Co., 100 per cent for 10 per cent. The Bellefonte Central Railroad is nearing the 100 per cent mark as are other industries in the area.

Centre County theatres are planning programs for the 9 o'clock salute—programs which will last four or five minutes in most cases, a survey yesterday revealed.

Congress has actually appropriated $205,000,000 for defense and war but we will only expend half of it by next July.

When it comes to the war the average man can ask the question that all experts in the world can't answer—to his satisfaction.
