First Birth at Hospital Patricia Molly Erway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Erway of Wellsboro, born at the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hospital last Wednesday, was presented with $50 in War Bonds by the Tioga County Savings and Trust Company and the First National Bank of Wellsboro. She was the first baby born in the new institution.

Modern Etiquette

1. Is it correct for an employer to introduce his secretary to a caller by saying, "Mr. Jones, this is my secretary, Miss Brown," or shouldn't he give the woman's name first, "Miss Brown, this is Mr. Jones?" 2. What should be done with the knife after using it for cutting food? 3. Should a guest ever join in a family argument? 4. Is it absolutely required that a person give the reason for declining an invitation? 5. Is it proper for a man to smoke a pipe at a formal affair? 6. What is the meaning of "elite," and how is it pronounced? 7. What is really the purpose of a tuxedo, and what is the origin of the word? 8. When a marriage engagement has been broken, is a girl entitled to consider the gifts and engagement ring the man has given her as belonging to her? 9. What kind of invitations are issued for a cocktail party? 10. Should a girl ever send a gift to a man whom she likes? 11. Isn't an envious person unpopular? 12. Who usually acts as hostess when a woman's club gives a luncheon party?

Answers to Modern Etiquette

1. In the business world, the most important person is mentioned first, regardless of sex. 2. Place the knife at the upper right-hand edge of the plate, and on the plate, never with the handle resting on the table. 3. Never. The guest must not take sides, and if he can do so quietly and without notice, he should leave the room or walk away. 4. It is not obligatory that one do so, but unless it is a very intimate reason, one should explain why, and with regret. Otherwise, the hostess might resent a "Sorry, I cannot accept." 5. This is sometimes done, but it cannot be called good form. 6. "Elite" is a noun, meaning the choice or select part, especially a group or body considered or treated as socially superior. Pronounce a-let, a as in ate, e as in me, accent last syllable. 7. It is an evening dress for men's wear on occasions not requiring a formal full dress suit. It comes from the name of a country club at Tuxedo Park, in southeastern New York. 8. No; she should return all these. 9. These invitations are usually extended over the telephone or by personal contact. 10. Not unless she is engaged to be married to this man, and then the only gifts necessary are at Christmas and on his birthday. 11. Yes, always. An old Latin proverb says, "He who envies another admits his own inferiority." And of course it is difficult for an inferior person to become popular. 12. The president of the club.

Words Often Misused Do not say, "She was very disturbed by the noise." Say "very much disturbed." Do not say, "He gave the money to you and I." Say "to you and me." Do not say, "Between each row of bushes was a gravel walk." Say "Between every two rows of bushes was a gravel walk." Do not say, "Each of the boys have a car." Say "Each of the boys has a car." Each is the singular subject. Do not say, "Beat up three eggs." Say "Whip three eggs." Do not say, "Us girls are going." Say "We girls are going." Words Often Mispronounced Alienate. Pronounce al-yen-at, both a's as in at, a as in men unstressed, accent first syllable. Endive. Pronounce the i as in dive or as in live, accent syllable. Amenable. Pronounce a-me-na-ble, both a's as in ask unstressed, e as in me, accent second syllable. Hostage. Pronounce hos-tij, o as in of (not as in host), i as in it, accent first syllable. Pneumonia. Pronounce nu-mo-ni-a, four syllables, and not nu-mo-ny-a. Gondola. Pronounce gon-do-la, first o as in on, second o as in obey, a as in ask unstressed, accent first syllable, not the second. HOUSEHOLD SCRAPBOOK

Red Ants Red ants can be driven away by pouring liquid carbolic sublimate on pieces of cotton and laying the cotton where the ants are likely to travel. Another effective remedy is alum dissolved in boiling water and applied with a brush.

Cooking Preserves When cooking preserves, place an asbestos mat directly over the burner and under the preserving vessel. The housewife can then do her other work and know that her preserves will not stick and burn.

A Secure Hem When hemming a skirt, take a double stitch every inch or so. This will make a firm hem that if you rip a few stitches, the rip will not extend for more than an inch.

Rusted Bread Box It is rather difficult to remove rust from the inside of a bread box. The best thing to do is to paint it. Two coats of flat paint should be used with one coat of enamel. Allow it to dry thoroughly before using.

Berries Berries will keep fresh if they are placed, unwashed in a jar and the lid screwed on tightly. Place in the coldest part of the refrigerator. The berries will remain fresh for several days.

Grass Stains Grass stains can often be removed from clothing by sponging with ammonia and water.

Kitchen Knives It is very necessary to have good knives in the kitchen. It means better and more economical carving to have a sharp knife. Purchasing the best cutlery always pays in the end, as it can be sharpened and ground indefinitely without injury.

Cleaning Rugs The rugs can be cleaned successfully on the floor if washed with soap suds applied with a brush. Use only suds and as little liquid as possible. Wipe the rug, after washing, with a clean cloth.

Drinking Tubes Sticks of Macaroni will make excellent substitutes for the use of customary glass tubes, for drinking liquids from glass or cup.

Windows A high polish will be given to windows, also to mirrors and picture glass, by using a teaspoon of kerosene in a basin of hot water. A clean cloth, dipped into the water and wrung almost dry, should be used. Wait until the surface is almost dry before polishing with a dry cloth.

As closely as we can observe the voters seem inclined to overlook the importance of electing the right man to public office.

Japs Will Fight Until Utterly Crushed

The idea should not for a moment be entertained that the failure of the Japanese forces in China has discouraged the Japanese people, Grew said. "It has instead served to steel them for still greater sacrifices and to prepare them better for the war of deadly purpose to conquer upon which they have finally embarked."

Speaking of an offensive spirit which permeates all classes of Japanese people, the envoy reported that the Nipponese high command has counted heavily upon the advantage this would give them over less aggressive enemies.

"Weaklings" "They have put great store in what they consider to be the white man's flabbiness," he declared. "They look upon us Americans as constitutional weaklings, demanding our daily comforts and unwilling to make the sacrifices demanded for victory in a war against a military machine which has prepared and trained itself in Spartan simplicity and the hardness and toughness demanded by war."

"They attach great importance to the former dignity in the United States over the war issue and they still count on an appreciable interval before an aroused nation can find itself and develop a fighting spirit of its own. By that time, they feel, Japan will be in complete control of all East Asia."

"When they struck, they made no provision for failure; they left no road open for retreat. They struck with all the force and power at their command. And they will continue to fight in the same manner until they are utterly crushed."

Grew said there was no question in his mind but that Japan would eventually be crushed, but warned that if Americans think "we can continue to lead our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, letting the intensification of our production program take care of itself, we shall unquestionably risk the danger of a stalemate in this war of ours with Japan."

In connection with "cruel and barbaric tortures" to which he said many prisoners had been subjected, Grew related that during the days of waiting in Yokohama for the Gripsholm to sail, "several of those people told me that if the negotiations for our exchange failed they would commit suicide rather than return to their imprisonment in Japan. I know that they would have done so."

Tell of Torture During the voyage, three elderly American missionaries, one of them over 70 years old, gave him a demonstration of the "water-cure" torture which had repeatedly been inflicted on them by the Japanese. Another told of being kicked until a rib was smashed and then how one of the Japanese police looted the broken bone and punched it as hard as he could, Grew said. He mentioned another American, apparently J. B. Powell, editor of the China Weekly Review, "seriously maimed as a result of the gangrene which was caused by the ill treatment that he received in his prison cell."

The Ambassador said they had on shipboard direct evidence of "the horrible atrocities perpetrated in the rape of Nanjing" and at Hong Kong, "when soldiers who had been taken as prisoners of war were bayoneted to death."

"The dying shrieks of those soldiers were heard by a woman, a fellow passenger of ours, who herself told me the terrible story," he said. Grew told of "one of the greatest of all moments," when, on June 25, he awoke to realize the Gripsholm was sailing out of Yokohama and how, 18,000 miles and 70 days later, the passengers stood, "with tears pouring down many a face," as they passed the statue of liberty in New York harbor.

DRIVER TRAINING MAY AID SCHOOL BUS PROBLEM

Teaching driver training and care of vehicle immediately may solve the Pennsylvania school bus problem is the opinion of Dr. Amos E. Neyhart, administrative head of the Institute of Public Safety at the Pennsylvania State College.

With the inability to replace 400 to 500 school buses normally discarded each year from the 4,400 Pennsylvania children, Dr. Neyhart pointed out that teaching a bus driver to operate his machine safely and efficiently might reduce the number of replacements.

Careless operation and lack of care are the two most serious problems now confronting school districts," said Neyhart, road training consultant of the American Automobile Association. "It is possible that by correcting both of these problems, present equipment might be made to last a school district for the duration."
