

Modern Etiquette

- 1. Should a person avoid using slang in conversation?
2. Isn't it all right to send out handwritten wedding invitations?
3. When a single man is invited for dinner to the home of married friends, should he take the hostess a box of candy or flowers?
4. When a woman is standing talking with a man and drops some article, should she say, 'I'll get it?'
5. When a hostess wishes to give a cocktail party and has no maid, how should she proceed?
6. When passing a salt or a pepper shaker should one place it on the table or hand it directly to the person who asked for it?
7. What advances should be made by the two families of a man and a woman when a wedding engagement has become known?
8. Should the plates of the dinner service be of a certain dimension?
9. What is the symbolism of violets?
10. When introducing two persons, is it all right to say, 'Mrs. Davis, this is Mr. Norton; Mr. Norton, Mrs. Davis?'
11. What color should be chosen for the baby's christening clothes?
12. Should one use a fork to place butter on a piece of bread or biscuit?

Answers to Modern Etiquette

- 1. Yes. One should use as good English as he is capable. The English language contains a larger vocabulary than any other language in existence, and it is really unnecessary to intersperse every sentence with some slang expression.
2. Yes. Informal notes, written on one's personal stationery, are all right, but engraved invitations and announcements are in better form.
3. This is a thoughtful thing to do, particularly if the man is not in position to return the invitation.
4. No. She should allow the man to pick it up for her.
5. She may ask one of the men guests to help her make the cocktails, or she may have all the necessary things on a tray or table, and have each guest mix his own.
6. It is less awkward to put it down on the table and let the person pick it up, than to hand it directly to him.
7. The mother and sisters of the man should call immediately on the girl and her family. Then, within a few days the girl and her family return the call.
8. No; the precise dimensions of the plates cannot be given, as they vary somewhat with the make of china.
9. Blue violets are symbolical of faithfulness, white violets of modesty.
10. No. It is altogether unnecessary to mention the names twice.
11. At the christening everything the baby wears should be white.
12. No; the knife is always used for this purpose.

Lessons In English

Words Often Misused
Do not say, 'How did you come to do that?' Say, 'How did you happen to do that?'
Do not say, 'We expect to finish the work inside of a week.' Say, 'within a week.'
Do not say, 'I shall now fix breakfast.' Say, 'prepare breakfast.'
Do not say, 'The company has decided to desert the project.' Say, 'to abandon the project.'
Do not say, 'Never mind what he says.' Say, 'Don't mind what he says.'
Do not say, 'Let us refer back to the preceding paragraph.' Omit back; refer is sufficient.
Words Often Mispronounced
Homage. Pronounce hom-i-j, or as in (not as in home) i, or as in (not as in) age.
Ivory. Pronounce i-vo-ri, or as in (not as in) vry.
Ignoramus. Pronounce ig-no-ra-mus, i as in big, o as in no, a as in ray (not as in ram), accent third syllable.
Humble. Pronounce hum-b'l, not um-b'l.
Pathos. Pronounce pa-thos, a as in pay, o as in (not as in) as, accent first syllable.
Calliope. (Musical instrument). Pronounce ka-li-o-pe, a as in at, un-stressed, i as in lie, o as in obey, e as in un-stressed, accent second syllable.
Words Often Misspelled
Obesance; observe the bet, though pronounced bay. Religious, lous; gorgeous, eous. Plum (a fruit); plumb (a weight to indicate vertical direction). Annoy; note (a small particle). Stair (a flight of steps); stare (to gaze fixedly).

HOUSEHOLD SCRAPBOOK

Paperhanger's Paste
To mix paste for paperhanging, add one tablespoon of powdered alum to one quart of water. Sift flour into the water, stirring continuously, until it has the consistency of dough. Then pour in boiling water until the paste turns, after which dilute to the desired consistency.
Broken Window
When replacing a broken window pane, pass a red-hot poker slowly over the old putty, and it will greatly facilitate the removal of the pane.
Honey
Strained honey, mixed with soft butter, makes a delicious topping for hot cinnamon toast. It is also good on other hot breads.

Scratched Silverware
If the table silver ware has become scratched, buy a small amount of putty powder and put into a saucer with enough olive oil to form a paste. Then, with a soft rag rub this paste into the silver and polish with a chamois. The scratches will no longer be visible.
Over-Whipped Cream
Frequently the cream that has been whipped too much can be brought back to its smooth state by pouring a small amount of cold sweet milk into the cream. Stir very gently until the cream is smoothed out again.
Clear Floors
Shellac is a great aid to the hardwood floor, but care must be taken that all the stains on the wood are removed or polished surface will show them up even plainer than before varnishing.

The Sewing Machine
When one's sewing machine begins to drop stitches, try giving it a thorough oiling before attempting to adjust the tension of the machine. Frequently, oiling will remedy the trouble.
Wax on Floors
Try not to use too much wax on the floors, as this not only makes the floors too slippery and therefore dangerous, but causes dust to collect much more readily.
Left-Over Ham
To make use of left-over ham, mince it, then mix with chopped cooked spinach, cream sauce, and a little nutmeg. Mold into croquets.
The Piano Keys
The piano keys can be prevented from yellowing if they are wiped off a month with either peroxide, alcohol, or lemon juice, followed by plain water. If the keys are yellowed all the way through, it is impossible to remedy them; so, it is well to take a preventive measure regularly.

YOUR HEALTH
Sore throats are dire threats. They are often forerunners of serious illness.
With so many children going to school for the first time, the possibilities of getting a contagious disease are increased.
If a child complains that it hurts him to swallow, he likely has a sore throat.
When his throat is sensitive under pressure and the inside looks red and inflamed, it may be infected.
He should be put to bed even though he has no fever and does not feel very sick.
It may be the start of tonsillitis or diphtheria.
Or, it may be the first symptom of scarlet fever.
On the other hand, it may be nothing else but a sore throat.
A sore throat may mean an infection, and with it, a child should be put to bed and other people kept away from him.
Young infants may have a sore throat without the mother being aware of it.
They should be watched for difficulty in swallowing, restlessness, irritability, sleeplessness and loss of appetite.
If the throat is very painful it may be relieved by various methods while waiting for the doctor.
An ice-bag or a small towel wrung out with cold water will often furnish relief.
In case of sore throat or coughs and colds in the head, the child should be promptly put to bed.
Others should be kept away from him until it is definitely known what is developing.
In many instances, there will be no serious trouble.
But it is far better to be fooled a number of times if in the one instance you have anticipated an infection which is serious.

DO YOU KNOW
The tuberculosis death rate among unskilled workers is seven times higher than among professional workers.
Dale Nichols, famous for his red barn paintings, designed this year's tuberculosis Christmas Seal.
The attack upon sin has been vigorously pressed for hundreds of years, but for some reason, sinners continue to perplex the philosophers.

Born With Tooth
Bonnie Carole Falcone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Falcone, of Berwick, is able to flash a real tooth when she smiles. The child, born in Berwick Hospital, has an incisor tooth protruding from her lower gum. This is the first in the history of Berwick Hospital when a child has had a tooth cut at birth.
Rumors that circulate during war time test the intelligence of those who hear them and expose the stupidity of many who repeat them.

Some Helps For Those Who Suffer From Insomnia
The physicians hear many complaints from patients about their inability to sleep. Most of these sufferers demand drugs with which to overcome the difficulty. But the matter is not so simple.
There is always an underlying cause for insomnia, worry, want of exercise, a disturbed digestion, are only a few things that might be mentioned. Fear and worry are perhaps the commonest of all causes for sleeplessness. Perhaps too much has been said and written about the value of sleep for the peace of mind of many individuals who fear that they will be injured unless they sleep all night. Most people sleep more than they realize.
Sleep is very valuable because it gives us rest and cessation from working cares. The processes of the body must go on working but more slowly than during waking hours. The breathing slows down, the blood pressure lowers, the heart beats less rapidly, even the temperature falls.
This allows the body to build energy. It may be compared to recharging the battery of your automobile. You can readily see why slumber is so valuable to the system.
In order to sleep you must relax. If you should sleep only three hours at night, and lie completely relaxed for three or four more, you could get along quite well. However, no one likes to stay awake at night.
Remember that worry is one of the greatest enemies of mental and physical health. Recently a patient who complained to the writer of inability to sleep, admitted, upon being questioned, that she always went to bed fearing that she was not going to sleep and lay awake worrying about not sleeping. Many people like this patient are kept awake by thoughts. Some of these worriers do not get enough physical exercise to cause them to become reasonably tired before retiring.

Some take alcohol, tea, coffee and other stimulants that excite the brain and cause sleeplessness. The eating of a heavy meal late in the evening is apt to produce wakefulness and restlessness. On the other hand it is hard to sleep if the stomach is empty. Light refreshments, such as a glass of hot milk at bedtime is a great help in wooing the god Morpheus. If possible the bedroom should be quiet and well ventilated. Light shining in the room at night is disturbing. A long strip of black cloth covering the eyes is a relief to the sensitive. It shuts out all light and is very conducive to sound sleep.
Another cause of wakefulness is stuffs of the colon. The absorption of poisons from this condition disturbs all the processes of the body.
Many diseases cause wakefulness especially frequency of urination at night. Pain prevents the sufferers from sleeping until relieved. The services of a physician are required in all cases where disease is present.
If you would sleep well, keep your conscience clear. Learn to banish worry and to relax. Then the bed should be comfortable. Peace in the heart is the best hypnotic of which we have any knowledge.
Watch a healthy, innocent child asleep. When awake no disturbing thoughts harry him. He plays until he is tired, goes to bed and unconsciously relaxes. We'd sleep more like that if we trusted God more and fretted less. Our outlook upon life would be saner and our health better.

Poets' Corner

"A SOLDIER'S WORLD"
A soldier's world is a lonely world,
A world of uncertainty;
And a world of woe.
From each loved one that may think
While he journeys life's pathway
Of victory or defeat.
But this world which they travel
alone
Can many times be brightened
And made cheery.
By sending letters and best wishes
From each loved one at home.
A soldier's world is a lonely world,
But are we, all laboring and sacrificing?
If not begin at home to do your part.
We must each one appreciate
We know not what each may give up.
Many gave up their homes, loved ones, and pleasures
To fight for a world of peace and freedom for all.
Let us each one share our talents
And time.
And make a soldier's world a world
Of peace and love and joy divine.
—Julia Flick.

MY BOY!
I have only one boy, but who would want more.
For he runs over the porch leaving tracks on the floor;
And the first words spoken ere he enters the room
Are "My shoes are so dirty, please hand me the broom."
So he sweeps and he cleans until things look quite neat.
But the next words to follow are:
"When do we eat?"
For he's always near famished, tho' the time of day is yet for his meals several hours away.
He whistles and sings (tho' the tune you'd never guess)
When he's sent to his room for dinner;
With the dust at his heels they'll tussle and play.
Since patiently for this hour, I'd waited all day.
Now those were the thoughts and many more of their kind
Would pop each day and flash thru my mind.
But, Oh, for those days how I long to return
To those footprints, much pleasure I'd savor.
How I long that appetite now to appease!
And hear the laughter when his sisters' heads tease;
And for those days what wouldn't I give,
If only that time I again could live.

SEX AS A NAZI WEAPON
Mass production of "Aryans" is just another war production job to the Nazis. With Teutonic thoroughness they have established "breeding camps" for the improvement of the Nordic race, and devised methods for arresting the fecundity of the "undesirable" races. Like the Poles, the Czechs, and the Serbs. An example of sex as a Nazi weapon is made by George W. Herald, a former French newspaper and army man, in the October issue of the Reader's Digest.
Mr. Herald quotes a "scientific" blessing given to this breeding policy in the German Medical Review of March 1941: "Every woman should be examined to determine whether she is worthy of having children. Those who are should be gathered in women's homes. A selection of masculine partners should be presented to them and each should choose one for a marriage limited in time—that is, until she becomes pregnant. The average woman should be able to produce about six children in this way, all of them top-notch Aryans."
In France, the article says, school girls are being pressed into service for this mass production of Aryans. The girls after undergoing rigid health examinations and having their racial background minutely checked are "put at the disposal" of young Nazi officers until they become pregnant. Then the German authorities assume responsibility for medical care and financial aid.
The Nazi policies in this direction, according to Mr. Herald, include a new sex education for "Nordic" young people, built around nudism and used as a short cut to a higher "Nordic" birth rate.
