

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

Last week B. A. Noll & Co. opened their new store at Zion, and there was a general rush from the sections to see the new store and inspect the new goods just received.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: David R. Wilson and Emma T. Johnson, both of Beech Creek; John S. Lambert and Erby M. Houser, both of Bellefonte; Edward Robinson, Corrington, Ky., and Lettie Crowl, of Coburn; William E. Johnson, State College, and Mary C. Wilson, Massysburg.

The young lady telegraph operator at Howard station on the western division of the P. & E. railroad, while handing a message over to the engineer of Niagara Express on Tuesday of last week was struck by the caboose of the approaching train and knocked down. The wheels of the caboose passed over one of her legs, tearing off the heel. The young lady was removed to her home in Watsontown.

Fred Dunham's pony express brought the paper to the western division of the P. & E. railroad, while handing a message over to the engineer of Niagara Express on Tuesday of last week was struck by the caboose of the approaching train and knocked down.

F. E. Naginety, the Bishop street furniture dealer and undertaker, left this week to attend the meeting of undertakers of this state, in Pittsburgh. While there he expects to attend a course of instructions given for the benefit of those of his profession. Mr. Naginety is wide awake and keeps posted in all the modern improvements pertaining to the business of an undertaker.

On Saturday afternoon Hon. Daniel Rhoads took suddenly ill while in the coal office of his son, Edward, near the railroad station. He was about during the day and showed no signs of recovery. His sickness began with vomiting spells which continued that evening. On Sunday he was unconscious most of the time but since then he has improved some. Being well advanced in years his illness may at any moment take an unfavorable turn.

Prof. D. M. Lieb, of whose serious illness was made mention last week, died at 2 o'clock Friday morning of consumption. He was aged 36 years. He leaves two brothers and a sister to mourn his sad and early death. Prof. Lieb became ill with a bronchial affection and could not attend to his duties as principal of our schools last winter. Since then he had been under the care of a physician, but it was of no avail. He realized but a few weeks ago that he could not survive and he calmly and peacefully awaited the summons.

Prof. Lieb was an ideal man in many ways. Always of a pleasant, cheerful disposition, with a kind word and a smile for all, he had no enemies. He lived a true Christian life to the best of his ability. As principal of our schools for the past twenty years he was a superior man for the place and for his duties as principal of our schools. His death is a sad loss to our community. The funeral services occurred on Monday morning with services in the M. E. church. The public schools and board of education were present. Many beautiful floral tributes were sent from pupils and instructors of the public schools and other organizations with which he was identified surrounded the casket. The services were conducted by Rev. D. M. Wolf, Dr. Laurie and Rev. Houck, who delivered the sermon.

Twenty Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Miller of Pittsburgh, former well known residents of Bellefonte, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home. Jack Shope, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Shope, suffered a compound fracture of the right arm while playing with some other second grade school pupils at the Bishop street school. Jack was injured when one of his playmates pushed him, causing him to fall. A local physician reduced the fracture.

Mrs. Ernest Griffin, of Johnstown, dropped dead at Centre Hall while leaving the home where she and her husband and several friends had spent the night. She was about 42 years old and her death was attributed to a heart condition. The body was taken to the Goodhart funeral home and later was sent to Johnstown for burial.

The Bellefonte Elks lodge was preparing to hold its third annual Halloween parade and carnival, and early reports on the contest for the selection of "Miss Bellefonte" showed Helen Smith leading with 520 votes. Second was Anna Eckel, with 245 votes, and third Mary Pickel. The voting had been under way only several days when these totals were announced.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hosterman of Centre Hall, had returned home from an extended motor tour of the middle west. William Matis, of Millheim, who for some time conducted a shoe repair shop in the Duck building at that city, sold the shop to Roy L. Bartley, of Spring Mills. Mr. Matis expected to sail for Italy and when he returned to the U. S. he is expected to bring with him his wife and two children.

What was to be known as the Penns Valley Game and Fish Protective Association was organized at Coburn. A large tract of land had been leased and no hunting or fishing was to be permitted except by members of the association. The officers were: W. C. Crader, president; A. M. Harter, vice president; C. N. Baileys, secretary; W. J. Harter, treasurer, and S. W. Gramley, L. Weaver, J. C. Musser, A. B. Meyer and R. J. Eisenhuth, all directors.

Six Bellefonte Academy students in a touring car stopped at a farm on the Island below Lock Haven, helped themselves to apples in an orchard, then began throwing apples through the windows of the farmhouse. When the farmer appeared to remonstrate, they pelted him with apples. The boys then got in their car and sped away. The farmer called Lock Haven police and the car was halted near Lamar. The six paid $25 to cover damages. No charges were brought against them.

Over the County News

Announcements were received in Bellefonte last week of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Park Doing of Garden City, L. I. The infant, the second child and first son, was born last week at Prospect Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Doing is the former Mary Houser, daughter of the late John Houser, of State College, and Bellefonte, and Mrs. Houser, now living in Long Island City, N. Y.

O. E. Maehorn, of South Atherton street, was installed as noble grand of the State College Lodge No. 1032 I. O. O. F., last Monday evening. District Deputy Charles B. Musser and his staff of Bellefonte had charge of the installation. Other officers installed were S. H. Tate, vice-grand, W. S. Jackson, secretary, and Carl Hoenstine, treasurer. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

URGES FARMERS TO GIVE MORE SCRAP
J. H. Wood, Regional Director of the Farm Security Administration, declared that many farmers give scrap metal for sentimental reasons, and urged them to give it to the Government "for the most sentimental and most practical reason in the world—to preserve our free way of life."

"It would be constructively sentimental for women to dedicate that old iron baby carriage and for men to contribute that ancient jalopy, vintage 1910, to the winning of the war than to keep them in attics and barns," he told county supervisors throughout the Maine-throughout-the-region. "Right now our American ideals are threatened by an enemy who has no sentiment and who is turning every bit of scrap into bullets with which he hopes to destroy us and our Democracy."

Wood urged Oakley S. Havens, FSA Supervisor for Blair and Centre counties, to cooperate with newspaper publishers who are sponsoring the scrap drive. "Advise all our farmers to bring their buildings and lands for scrap," Wood said. "Many farms can yield a ton or more of the metal the Government so badly needs."

"Ask the farmers to start in their cellars and search, inch by inch to their attics. Ask them to go into the woods and find those old scrap heaps, to look under their barns and houses for discarded parts, to comb scrap metal along the roads for broken discs and worn-out plow points. The meadow may prove to be a scrap iron mine. Folks should clean up their farms, anyway; and this is a fine way and a fine time to do it."

"It's time to use those irreparable, broken-down machines—on our enemies. Leaky iron rails, old pots and pans and kitchen implements, that bundle of old curtain rods and discarded stoves will make good grenades for our boys in fox holes. That iron baby bed can still be of use to 'baby,' who probably is in the army now. And Grand Dad, who died years ago, would like to see his old iron bedstead turned into weapons with which we can preserve his ideals. The old dinner bell, unused for years, can ring in a new era of peace and decency—if we'll let the Government have it."

PINE GROVE MILLS

Our townsman Arthur Burwell is now manager of the new bowling alley in State College. Art recently resigned his position in the Robert Struble Clover Farm store.

Capt. James Reed of the U. S. armed forces, with his wife spent the past week in our village with his relatives. The Captain is a veteran of the World War, and has served in France and the Philippines. He is now stationed in the Philippines. They had, however, received several cablegrams from him, the first arrived last Easter. In his letter, Carl stated that he has been advanced to Staff Sergeant and is well, but that the experience he went through have been harrowing, to put it mildly. He also asked to be remembered to his friends and former high school classmates.

MILESBURG

Harold Bittner, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Eckenroth, who recently enlisted in the army, is located at Camp Atterburg, Ind. This camp was recently opened and has accommodations for about four thousand officers and men.

Mr. William Bottorff and daughter Susan, returned Tuesday of last week to their home in Pasadena, Calif., after a pleasant two months' visit with the former's mother, Mrs. F. L. Wetzler.

We got our first real glimpse of what army equipment really looks like, when a train of about 50 cars passed through here this a. m.
Mrs. Gertrude Gingham had the misfortune to fall last Friday and injure her ankle quite badly. It had not been determined if any bones were broken at this writing.

An amusing incident happened at the Court House last week. A Bellefonte young man and his fiancée were applying for a marriage license. When asked what his occupation was, the young man replied, I fix bodies. Oh, said the clerk, you are an undertaker. No, replied the young man, I mean automobile bodies.
Mrs. Carrie Lettermann received three letters the past week from her son, Bob Miller, who is one of our fighting Marines in the Solomon Islands. Bob says they see plenty of action, and that he is O. K. He states that the rainy season will soon start there and that when it rains it pours. Bob is a graduate of Bellefonte High, class of 1938, and was a member of the football team, and therefore is well known. He wants to say hello to all his friends in this area and elsewhere. Bob has one thought uppermost in his mind, and that is to be able to come home soon. And we echo that wish, and hope the war will soon end so that all our boys can return to their homes and loved ones.

Reuben Mitchell is still a patient in the Centre County Hospital. He was more seriously injured than was at first determined.
Mrs. Bruce Sheekler of Baltimore, Md., is expected to arrive here this week to make her home with Coroner and Mrs. Charles Sheekler, while Bruce is in the army.

We thought perhaps politics would not play an important part in this election, due to war conditions, but it seems there has been the usual conflict between candidates with mud-slinging and name-calling. Sort of reminds us when we were small, a favorite expression in a quarrel was "Sticks and stones will break my bones, but names will never hurt me."
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fochler and two sons of Bradford, were weekend guests at the M. H. Hall home. A Sunday guest was Mrs. W. K. Kuehara and daughter of Bellefonte.

Miss Mary Adams spent three days last week in Philadelphia.
Mrs. Harriet Dunkle was taken ill on Friday of last week with a heart attack. She is better at this writing.
Charles Flax, who is employed in Ohio, returns to work Saturday to dispose of his house and household goods, and will make his future home in Ohio.

Coroner Charles Sheekler has been confined to his bed for the past two weeks. He is some better at this writing.
FOLLOW THE LIGHT
Don't be led by others, Turn neither left or right; But keep the straight And narrow path. Always follow the light. The light that leads To your father's house, Where many mansions be. A light to guide our footsteps To a home for you and me. There the sun is always shining; There's no pain, or care, or strife; There's everyone happy. With those gone before, In that home of Eternal Life.

PLEASANT VALLEY (Boggs Twp.)
Mrs. Nancy Packer is on the sick list. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Sunday School Lesson

GROWTH IN CHRIST

International Sunday School Lesson for October 18, 1942.
Golden Text: "Grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."—Peter and Savior Jesus Christ.—II Peter 3: 18.
Lesson Text: Luke 2: 40-52; Hebrews 5: 11-14; II Peter 1: 1-18.

While growth is natural as long as immaturity continues, the rapidity of that growth depends on whether or not the conditions of growth have been met.
It is natural, in a lesson on this subject, that our minds are turned to the growth of the boy Jesus. While we know very little of the childhood of Jesus from the time of his being taken to the Temple by his parents in his infancy until the time of his visit with his parents at the age of twelve. Luke records that "the child grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him; and Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man."

The main point in both of these verses is that Jesus grew as a normal child. While he was God, he was also man, and in employing himself, he voluntarily accepted many of the limitations of human flesh. Everyone should seek, in their lives, the well-balanced growth that characterized the life of Jesus. Physical and mental growth and health, and the development of a well-rounded personality will contribute to spiritual vitality and health. Every thinking person agrees on those things which are necessary to proper physical growth—food, exercise and rest. Mothers, interested in the welfare of their families, see to it that all of these elements are supplied in proper proportion. Very often, however, these same mothers are not as interested in seeing that their families develop the other facets of their personalities. They do not encourage the social natures of their children, nor do they do what they should do to see that the spiritual growth keeps up with physical growth.
What must we do if we are to grow spiritually, or "Grow in Christ?" We should certainly feed our souls the proper spiritual food, the Bread of Life, which is the word of God. Bible study should have a more prominent place in our lives, if we would cultivate the spirit of meditation, or relaxation when we can let our minds think of God and can listen to Him, in the guidance of spiritual renewal and strength to our souls. We should also exercise ourselves in doing the work of the Lord. The soul needs to be fed, needs to be guided, and it also needs to use the strength that is gained for the Lord and to serve our fellow man.

Peter sets a standard for individual Christian growth in his second epistle, given for our consideration. His points are: (1) faith; (2) virtue; (3) knowledge; (4) temperance; (5) patience; (6) godliness; (7) brotherly kindness, and (8) charity, or love. How do you measure up by Peter's standards? Are you a growing Christian, or are you a Christian, like the writer of Hebrews had in mind, when he declared (Heb. 5: 12) "For although from the length of your Christian experience you ought to be teaching others, you actually need someone to teach you over again, the very elements of Christian truth, and you have come to need milk instead of solid food." (Godspeed.)

Let us remember, to be sure, that none of us can reach perfection, that none of us can be like Him, but that the test of the Christian life is not his attainment of the perfect ideal of Jesus, but the constant movement of his life toward that ideal.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION

BY W. W. REID
The United States Navy Department announces that it needs by Jan. 1, 1943, some four hundred additional naval chaplains from eleven communions. Those churches that have not filled their quotas of chaplains are the Roman Catholic, the Baptist, the Methodist, the Congregational-Christian, the Protestant Episcopal, the Disciples of Christ, the Lutheran, the United Brethren, the Unitarian, and the Presbyterian. To be eligible for a navy chaplaincy a minister must be not more than 45 years of age, ordained, and have both a college and a theological seminary training. They are commissioned in the Naval Reserve as lieutenants or lieutenants (junior grade).

General de Gaulle, of the Free French forces in Africa, has given assurance to the Paris Missionary Society that there will be no opposition on the part of his government to the evangelical missions which the French Protestants are carrying on in French Equatorial Africa, as soon as we had finished the occupation of Gabon," he wrote, "we thought of your missions and of their needs and of means of giving them the help they needed, and at the request of the Governor of Gabon, I have decided to place him at his disposal so as to allow him to help, with both money and supplies, the missionary establishments which are in his territory. The local authorities have my instructions to facilitate, as far as possible, the work of these missionaries, and to ever confession in their territories."

Dr. A. Garfield Anderson, of Chicago, who for thirty years was a medical missionary of the Methodist church in Korea—the last decade as superintendent of the United Christian Hospital in Pyenyang—has temporarily withdrawn from Korea because of the war situation in Asia. But he has not been idle. Today he is to be found in Nyadiri, one of the great tribal centers of Southern Rhodesia, Africa, where he has built a new hospital and opened a training class for African girl nurses. This is the first time the British government in Rhodesia has sponsored this type of education for African girls. At the same time the government has asked Dr. Anderson to supervise medical school leavers at a station, seventeen miles from Nyadiri. Hundreds of Europeans are also availing themselves of his medical skill.

Something of the change in ideas and in ideals which has taken place among many thousands in China in recent years may be gleaned from these "Standards for a Christian Home" which have been adopted by the National Christian Council of China and broadcast through the churches and schools. "Both parents should be Christian; the attitude of love should predominate; there should be respect for personality; there should be equal opportunity for both sexes, especially in education; there should be a working fellowship; there should be training in Christianity; the attitude of faith; health and recreation should be available for all; the home should be an educational center; there should be economic security for all in the home."

Dr. D. Spencer Hatch and his wife, Dr. Emily G. Hatch, perhaps the best-known rural life experts serving the outcaste people of India—having been for twenty years in charge of the development of the Martandam Rural Reconstruction Center in South India—have been "loaned" to the Young Men's Christian Association of Mexico to help in development of a program there for the betterment of the poorer rural groups. At the village of Camohmilla ("a place of the sweet potato") they have begun a demonstration center for the rounded reconstruction of village life: improving the soil, demonstrating field crops, fruits and vegetable suitable for village growing, controlling insect pests, selecting and distributing improved breeds of animals and poultry, and erecting a model house.

"Dyanodaya" (meaning "Rise of Knowledge"), a weekly religious paper in both Marathi and English, published in the city of Poona by six denominations, is celebrating its centennial as the oldest Christian journal in all India. Indian, English, Scotch and Americans unite in publishing the paper under the editorship of Dr. B. P. Hivale and the Rev. J. F. Edwards. At the same time, "Minsama Miajeenge" ("Good News of Peace") is celebrating its semi-centennial as the oldest Christian publication of the Belgian Congo. This publication is in the Kikongo language and used by the Swedish Mission at Matadi every month.
