concentrate in 100 gallons of spray. Keep Litter Dry-Use of a proper type of litter in sufficient amount to insulate the broder house floor is recommended by Penn State poultry specialsits for successful brooding of fall and winter chicks. Stir the litter occasionally to keep it dry.

Store Sprayer Safely-Before the sprayer is stored for the winter it should be thoroughly cleaned and drained, remind Penn State agriculmoving parts.

Grow Adapted Peas - Extension demonstrations conducted by the Pennsylvania State College representatives have revealed the best varieties of peas. Ask your county agent before you order seed.

Store Root Crops-To prolong the season of using root crops, they need instances, they may be kept for 3 to 6 months in the cellar or an outdoor storage pit, say vegetable specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Good, sound specimens should be selected for this long-time storage.

Take Care of Harness .- With leather in great demand, it is wise to take good care of farm harnesses. Horse specialists of the Pennsylvania State College point out that new harnesses will be hard to get and. therefore, the old harnesses should be kept in good repair and also be well oiled to preserve the leather.
