WINTER IS AROUND THE CORNER IN BEAUTIFUL

BRUSH VALLEY

The cold winter is around the corner:

Is getting ready to shake his head,

His solid horns too long for the dehorner;

With his big feet, where please, will tread.

Although, on his back, driver by nature:

Unknown blessings it has in store for us:

Yet many people over it, make little fuss.

It lays the foundation for many sports;

Other times a snow-storm it brings.

Its big horns, snow flakes will break,

Out of the houses very hard to keep;

Unless, to a warmer climate will hike.

The pure white snow on the ground,

With dirt, nature's wind does it stain;

Winter has many blessings in his hands;

Every one seems to want his full share,

The winter has a beautiful ad on his back;

That Santa will come, on back large pack;

To remind anew, all the world, Christ's birth;

So all people unite in annual's Greatest Mirth!

From cold winter no one can hide,

Which is not only an up-to-date fake. With his breath, snow into cornes blow;

It appears important, all secrets to keep

From mountain to mountain his horns reach;

However, the winter, we believe, has its need

It gives the snow-ploughs some special work.

Sometimes it has sunshine under its wings;

When at high speed, goes through the deep.

To the people, his strength wonderfully show.

Through the very smallest cracks it will peep.

Reminds us how our hearts should be found.

So the human heart, from stains, cannot always refraid.

EDWIN S. BIERLY,

Around the big packs of blessings, beautiful bands.

And naturally, all have become, thereto, an heir,

The fresh air will put into man real pluck.

When, we have enough stored away us to feed.

Not particular, who may hear his cold screech.

But entirely different, from any other living creature.

Such as skating, coasting, skeeing, hunting in forests.
