

Echoes From the Past

Fifty Years Ago

Major R. A. Foster, who at one time was editor of The Centre Democrat, but for several years past has been a clerk in the interior department, Harrisburg, was living seriously ill at his home in that city, but is better.

Prof. Cruse & Harris expect to open an Academy of Dancing in Bellefonte, during the coming spring months. Cruse will manipulate the piano and orchestra, while Prof. Harris will be busily engaged in transferring the proper perspective on ideas to those afflicted with tangled feet and unable to keep in unison with the strains of the Prof's music.

The re-organized Bellefonte Band will hold its first meeting this Thursday evening in the Arbitration room at the Court House. The leader of the movement is Prof Spangenberg, who recently became a resident of this place and is at present engaged by H. A. McKee & Bro., hardware dealers. He comes from Savannah, Georgia, and is a fine musician.

J. H. Gross expects to open up a first class merchant tailoring establishment in the Doll building, on Bishop Street, about April 1. Mr. Gross has had the necessary experience and will be able to please those who call on him. Landlord Mueser and Phillip Tobias, both of Millheim, were in town on Monday. The one came to lift his license and the other has an eye on the postoffice at Millheim.

An oak tree thirty inches in diameter was recently cut down in Hares Valley, Huntingdon county. S. B. Green blocked the tree and with the aid of a glass saw, cut it yearly growth. It was found that it was 436 years old. As this tree was alive during the life of Columbus and thirty-five years before he discovered America, a section may be taken to Chicago for exhibition at the Columbian Exposition.

The Undine Fire Company expects its new engine here in the course of a week. They promise the public a surprise when it arrives. They claim it will be the handsomest and best engine in Centre, Pennsylvania. H. C. Yeager, who will succeed Mr. Brown as proprietor of the present "Fountain House" this place, is making arrangements for the opening on April 1. We hear that the name will be changed and in the future it will be known as the "Brant House."

Hon. Daniel Rhoades, associate judge of Centre County, died at his home on Linn Street as the result of a sudden illness. He was 71 years old. Judge Rhoades, a native of Philadelphia, came to this county in 1854, engaged in the lumber business in Burnside township and later became superintendent of the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe Railroad, serving in the latter position until the road was sold in 1887. Then he engaged in the ore mining business in Halfmoon Valley, near Lovellville. During the last four years of his life Judge Rhoades was sole trustee of the enormous Thomas estates. In 1887 he was appointed by the governor as associate judge to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Smith, who died while in office. Survivors include his wife, a daughter, Rebecca, and three sons, Edward K. Bellefonte, Joseph, Altoona, and Francis S., of Philadelphia.

Twenty Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. George Stine, of Buffalo Run Valley, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brickley, of Marsh Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Dauberman, of Kaneville, Ill., former residents of Centre County, celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries during the week.

The Undine Fire Company's steamer was returned to Bellefonte after having seen duty in Lock Haven where it was used to pump out the ice when the Susquehanna River overran its banks. The steamer was hauled to Lock Haven and back on a motor truck.

Bellefonte homes placed under quarantine during the week were as follows, according to officer George Glenn: John Richards, Bishop Street, chicken pox; Rev. David O. Evans, Spring Street, mumps; Blain Loveland, Bush Addition, mumps; H. C. Yeager, Spring Street, mumps.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: George B. Thomas, State College, and Christine M. Spicer, of Bellefonte; Arthur Cassidy and Bessie Treasure, both of Sandy Ridge; John M. Burns, Bellefonte, and Anna M. Snook, Pleasant Gap; Ambert Fye, Moshannon, and Sara Redinger, Wilburne.

James Ambrose Shook, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Shook, deceased, former resident of Bellefonte, was appointed principal of the New North-east Junior High School at Reading. Shook was born in Bellefonte and was graduated from the Bellefonte High School in the class of 1900, and had been a member of the Reading school faculty for a number of years.

Fred Osman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Osman, of Bellefonte, returned from a journey on foot to California. Osman, honorably discharged from the U. S. Army in 1921, started on a hike to California, the trip west requiring about two months. After a short stay there he began the return trip, encountering many interesting experiences on the way.

Approximately 1700 persons attended the Centre County Auto Show held in the Armory building, North Spring Street, from March 7 to 10. Prizes were awarded as follows: William Rowe, manager of the show, first prize, $50, Miss Ottilie Hughes, Bellefonte; second prize, $25, to Miss Polly Snyder, State College; third prize, $15, to Miss Margaret Emery, Centre Hall, and fourth prize, $10 to Miss Louise McClure, of Bellefonte.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Durfee, of Milesburg, were the parents of a son born in the Lock Haven Hospital.

Ralph Haag, who had been employed as driver of the Cleveland bakery delivery truck, had resigned to accept a position with the new Bellefonte Baking Company.

Carl Shavely, who had been turning out championship football teams at Klaki, had announced his decision to become athletic coach at the Bellefonte Academy during the 1923-34 term.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Casebeer, who occupied an apartment at the Brookhoff Hotel, had leased the R. W. Funk bungalow on East Curtin Street and expected to move into the dwelling about June 1. Mr. and Mrs. Funk and two children were to move to Detroit, Mich., where Mr. Funk was engaged in manufacturing.

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poorman, of Howard Street, gathered at the Poorman home in honor of Mrs. Poorman's birthday anniversary. Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. W. S. White and son, Curtis, and his wife and three children, Mr. and Mrs. James Sommers, Clayton Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Woomer, Mr. and Mrs. Epley White, Miss Haagen and Mrs. Neff, all of Axe Mann; Mr. and Mrs. John Stover and two children, Mrs. John White and granddaughter, Miss Verna Schank, and Ruth Behers, of Bellefonte; Samuel Ginterich and Miss Potter, of Centre Hall.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the George Ingram dwelling on East Lamb Street, Bellefonte, shortly after midnight, Saturday, causing damage estimated at about $1500. Mr. Ingram was aroused from sleep by the odor of smoke in the house and he immediately turned in an alarm. Flames spread to the Mrs. Thomas Hazel residence next door, which at the time was unoccupied. Firemen saved the Hazel home from destruction although damage was estimated at about $200. The Ingram loss was partly covered by insurance. Edmund Eberhart, a member of the Logan Fire Company, suffered a painful laceration of the foot when he stepped on a piece of broken glass while fighting the fire. His injury necessitated his absence from his work as driver of the Herr & Heverly grocery truck for several days.

SNOW SHOE

Over the County News

Workmen of the State Highway Department last week started to repair the bridge over the race on West High street, Bellefonte. The condition of the bridge is such that many of the steel beams supporting the roadway will have to be replaced. The necessary steel has been on the site for some time but work has been held up due to the weather.

Classes in airplane recognition for aircraft spotters in the Snow Shoe area began Sunday afternoon in the school building, George P. Hall, recognition officer for the area reports. All observers should take the course so that they may continue their work. Classes will last for two hours and persons are asked to bring a note book and pencil.

Two of East Brush Valley's farms changed hands last week. The Clayton Auman farm, south of the Brungart church, was sold to Lumberman Ruhl, of Millifenburg, and the Wilbur Brungart farm became the property of William Minnie, of Wolfs Store. Both Mr. Auman and Mr. Brungart expect to make sale of their livestock and implements during this month.

Pvt. Lawrence R. Tate, son of Lola V. Fishburn, of Millheim, has graduated from an intensive course in airplane mechanics. Young Tate took his training at the Army Air Base, Lincoln, Nebraska, one of the many schools which train the technicians who maintain our fighter planes in perfect combat condition. He now is a full fledged airplane mechanic eligible for promotion. Before entering the school, he was trained at one of the basic training centers of the Air Forces Technical

1944 Campaign Underway

The presidential campaign of 1944 is already engaging the attention of practical politicians, and despite our preoccupation with war, evidence accumulates that the battle for the presidency has commenced.

In appraising the political situation in this country, nearly twenty months in advance of the election date, everything hinges on the war situation. What the voters will do in November, 1944, will depend, to a large extent, upon whether the United States is still engaged in a bitter battle with the Axis powers.

The majority of military experts and high-ranking officials take it for granted that the nation will be at war with Japan, even if we have successfully concluded our struggle against Germany and Italy in Europe. The majority of them, perhaps, believe that our war in Europe will, if we are lucky, be just over and the defeat of Japan will be in the future.

Under these circumstances, it is taken for granted that the Democrats will renominate President Roosevelt for a fourth term. Already party leaders have openly declared for his reelection, some of them have discussed the matter with the President and one labor organization has come out for his re-election.

The President, it may be safely assumed, will make no early statement as to a fourth term. In fact, he is not expected to be more than a receptive candidate for the nomination, although Democratic leaders take it for granted that he will respond to the call if the national emergency continues.

Following the election of last November, which resulted in considerable Republican gains, there developed in Congress a spirit of insurgency against the President's leadership. The attitude developed beyond reason however, and recently party leaders have openly declared for his reelection, some of them have discussed the matter with the President and one labor organization has come out for his re-election.

Some alert opponents of the Chief Executive have recognized this trend and are now insisting that criticism of the President should be limited to essentials and based upon fundamental principles rather than in the captious, critical and carping attitude of the recent past.

The Republican Party, strongly stimulated by the results of last year's election, now exhibits through its leadership a confidence that in 1944 the people will turn to the G. O. P. again. Naturally, one of the first necessities is to determine upon a candidate who will make a run against the President, if he comes up for a fourth term.

There is talk of Governor Bricker, Governor Stassen and Wendell Willkie and while no observer can do more than guess who has the inside track, it is our opinion that Mr. Willkie is making progress toward another nomination by the Republican party.

The defeated candidate of 1940 has been active since the election, making speeches plainly designed to strengthen himself with certain elements. Willkie's demand for a second front and his appearance as counsel for a communist in New York have done his part in the general and so-called radical fringe. His outspoken criticism of the British way of the population and his repeated emphasis upon Negro rights is calculated to do the same thing for him among the voters of this area.

The political leaders of both parties are keeping their eyes open for possible schemes in their ranks. The threat of division lies before both.

MOSHANNON

Miss Frances Fye spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Harold Barger.

SPRING MILLS

Considering the rapid changes the March weather has been making, ranging from sunshining to blizzard and vice versa within a few hours, the weatherman ought to be grateful that he is not permitted to give out weather forecasts.

Wild geese are on their way north, a large flock went over town on Friday. We also notice some robins and cardinals around.

Miss Johnson last week became our new agent at the railroad station. Mr. Johnson is an able and experienced man for the position.

C. L. Houser last week became grandpa, and is a very proud man.

C. E. Ziegler made a business trip to Loganport last Wednesday.

Franklin Beaton has been honorably discharged from the U. S. Army last week and has arrived at his home.

Just as the old kitchen crosscut got sharpened up after two knuckle-biting months, the ban on bakery-sliced bread has been lifted.

Richard Slack and family recently moved to Millifenburg.

Mrs. Lulu Brungart went to Williamsport last Wednesday to stay with her daughter for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. William Conder and daughter of Aberdeen, S. D. are visiting Mrs. Conder's father, A. C. Conder.

Merle Walker of Farmers Mills, was a guest at the Kenneth Albright home last Sunday.

We hear victory gardens very freely discussed these days. It is about time to get the home front weapons ready these balmy days, such as loes, spades and rakes. It is a challenge to all citizens to spend some of their imagination and ingenuity instead of so many coupons from their ration books. Victory gardens are going to help lick Hitler.

LITTLE NITTANY

Ed Yearick visited at the Willard Harter home one day last week.

A birthday dinner was held at the Margaret Dullen home on Sunday, in honor of Mrs. Margaret Dullen's birthday. Fred Dolan of Howard, visited his father, William Dolan and family, on Friday.

We are glad to note William Dolan is better at this writing.

Congress can complain about the drafting of men for military service, but there is no way for the legislative body to get us an army without calling upon the young men of the nation.

Sunday School Lesson

OUR LORD'S INTERCESSORY PRAYER

International Sunday School Lesson for March 21, 1943.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Holy Father, keep them in thy name which thou hast given me, that they may be one, even as we are."—John 17:11.

(Lesson Text: John 17: 1-8; 18-26.)

After impressing the fact of his imminent departure on the minds of his disciples and seeking to comfort them in their sorrow, Jesus turns in prayer to his Father and utters his forever prayer, which is his only recorded prayer. What we know of as "The Lord's Prayer," was a model prayer given by the Master to his disciples and might more correctly be called, "The Disciples' Prayer." The prayer of Jesus as recorded by John in chapter 17, is in fact "The Lord's Prayer."

Jesus opens his prayer with words concerning himself, verses 1-5. He has finished the task which his Father had assigned him, asking God to "glorify" him in order that God himself might be glorified. Everything which Christ did on earth had the ultimate purpose in view of "glorifying" his Father. How well might we adopt the same aim! Such an aim would certainly inspire us to greater service in his name and would also cause us to consider more thoughtfully our actions each day.

Jesus lovingly brings to the Father his beloved band of faithful followers who are the "world and whom he has so carefully kept and guarded and from whom he was soon to be parted. He does not ask that God take them out of the world but that, in the world and a part of the world about them, they may be kept from the temptations of the "evil" one. "The Lord gives no countenance to the flesh and the world. Our sanctification is not to be gained by withdrawal and retreat. Our Lord purposes a holiness which shall wear white robes in the streets, and keep itself chivalrous and stately in the common fellowship of men."—J. H. Jowett.

Knowing that his disciples are to be the instruments through which the world is to learn of him, Jesus asks that they be sanctified in the truth; for God's word is truth. He wanted them separated, or set apart, for the high and holy purpose of giving the gospel of salvation to the world, of witnessing to the truth which he had revealed to them. He desired that they be consecrated, ready to do the will of God.

"And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they themselves also may be sanctified in truth," so speaks the Son of God. "For their sakes" may be taken as the motto of the Lord's whole life. "Others" was the great consideration which inspired all his service and sacrifice.—J. Stuart Holden. Francis G. Peabody says: "Remember the great words of Jesus, 'For their sakes I sanctify myself,' and sanctify yourself not for your own sake but for others. You cannot save your own soul alone; you must save it by giving it to use. The only safe goodness is a serviceable goodness. Think each day, not of what the world can do for you, but what you can do for the world, and be sure that the best that can ever be said of any man is that which was said of Jesus Christ. 'He saved others, himself he cannot save.'"

Jesus then turned his thoughts away from his little band of followers to the greater multitude of believers who were to accept him through the witnessing of his disciples and asked the Father's blessing on them, "that they may be one, even as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be in us." Are we believers in Christ one? The answer might well be "No" and "Yes." They are not one in uniformity but they have the same Saviour. The Christian unity most needed today is not unity in opinion or in worship, but unity in action. Lyman Abbott states it thus: "The message of the Christian Church is one: that God is not only a righteous God who demands righteousness of his children and demands nothing less, but also a merciful God who pardons and absolves all who truly repent and unfeignedly accept his holy Gospel, but a seeking God who comes after men in their sins and whose goodness calls them to repentance. It is the transcendent message of the Christian Church in all its branches."

Jesus closed his prayer with the request of his Father that his disciples would some day be "with me where I am that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me; for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world... that the love wherewith thou lovedst me may be in them, and I in them." The keynote of Christ's ministry in the world was love. Could it be possible that the ineffectiveness of our service today may be traced to our evident lack of Christian love?

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION

BY W.W. REID

To draw together young men of the armed forces who desire to take an open stand as Christians and to share together in Christian activities, is the objective of the newly-formed "Service Men's Christian League." The organization is sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches, the International Council of Religious Education, the General Commission on Army and Navy Chaplains, and the World's Christian Endeavor Union. The League, which also urges churches to organize their facilities to serve these children and their families.

There is something new in the feminine movement in Africa. The Rev. Ira E. Glick, secretary of the Methodist Church in Mozambique, Portuguese East Africa, reports that two African women have been elected to the committee's membership—the first in the history of the mission and the first church recognition ever given women in that territory. They are Sra. Jeana Guambo and Sra. Amelia Matsimbi. Christian women trained in Methodist schools in Mozambique.

one thousand families live more than fifteen miles from hospitals; that "door-key" children and those locked in trailers are found in every state. "Mothers of young children can do great harm by leaving them away from the security of family love all day, the government officials and children's church leaders are urging mothers to stay home and care for the children," says the Council, which also urges churches to organize their facilities to serve these children and their families.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS PLAN TO PRODUCE MORE PORK

Plans announced by 4-H Club members in many Pennsylvania counties indicate that last year's all-time record of pork production will be broken by the boys and girls this year, according to the 4-H Club office at the Pennsylvania State College.

Two of the largest goals reported to date are 500 head in Lebanon county and 400 head in Lancaster county. In most counties the club members are planning to double their last year's production which was more than 200 tons of pork for the state.
