

Echoes From the Past

Twenty Years Ago

Last week the five-year lease to quarry stone for Collins' Furnace, from the hillside near the glass works exposed and the furnace work will be compelled to obtain stone from a new opening further west.

The interior of the county jail is getting in a dilapidated condition. The plastering on the ceiling of the prison, and the floors are in bad shape and the interior soon will need general repairs. The place is hardly fit to pen human beings in it.

The extension to the Beech Creek Railroad, from Kermoor to Mahanfrey was opened Monday. On Saturday a special train ran over the new line and Contractor Good, who built the line, entertained the party in good style.

Mr. Archibald Allison recently purchased from Mrs. Catherine Humes the old stone residence on Allegheny Street, and will have the same remodeled and improved in general after which he will occupy the same as a residence.

On Saturday evening we had the first genuine rain storm of the season. For several hours previous the air was warm and sultry and when the rain began to fall it came down in torrents. Large-sized hail followed but there was not enough to do any considerable damage; vivid flashes of lightning accompanied the rain storm.

The Bellefonte Bicycle Club will not build a club house on the island as they think the Hale estate is unreasonable in its demands. Since the Hale estate places such a high estimate on that piece of ground, hereafter it will be the duty of the assessor to put a valuation on the same and let it bear its proportionate share of tax.

The musicians about Bellefonte are holding meetings regularly for the purpose of effecting a strong musical organization at this place. Nearly all the old members of the former Bellefonte Band are interested in the move and the new band at Coleville has also decided to join with them, making in all some 40 members. Last week an election was held, resulting as follows: president, Scott Loe; treasurer, William Derstine; musical director and secretary, Prof. Charles Spangenberg. They have first class instruments throughout and most of them being experienced musicians there is no reason why their efforts should not prove successful.

The house of Abram Harshberger near Linden Hall was burned to the ground on Tuesday last week. It was about 6 o'clock when the roof of the house began to blaze, having caught from a spark which came from the chimney. The remarkable high wind at once caused the flames to spread all over the roof, and since a young man, a son of Mr. Harshberger, was very ill with typhoid fever, the first thing undertaken was to remove him. He was taken out of the house and carried to the home of a brother on the same farm. Meanwhile the entire house, with most of its contents, burned to the ground. The flames communicated with the dry grass which burned like a prairie fire and spread to the fences. The blaze was extinguished with difficulty.

Fifty Years Ago

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples: David Thomas Noll, Linden Hall, and Sarah Eliza, Centre Hall; Stewart R. Musser and Rhoda G. Fye, both of Centre Hall.

John M. Boob and Lloyd F. Boob, who conducted the Millheim Meat Market under the firm name of Boob Brothers, dissolved partnership, and John M. Boob became the sole owner of the business.

Joseph Sourbeck, who had been in failing health for six months, departed for Canyon City, Colorado, where he was to reside in a family. His wife and child were to join him there as soon as suitable living quarters had been found.

F. E. Nagney had rented the rooms on the second floor of Olewine's hardware store, for use as a business office. For several months the rooms were used by Hugh Clider, as his private office. Mr. Clider expected to locate permanently in Atlantic City.

Bill telephones had been replaced in virtually every office in the County Court House. The removal of the telephones several years earlier resulted in great inconvenience to many persons who had occasion to get in touch with county officials.

S. S. Oman, of Port Matilda, whose public garage recently had been destroyed by fire, opened a modern garage and repair shop in that community. Lot H. Neff, of Howard; Mrs. Roy Bitner, of Mill Hill, and Marlan Shaw, two years old Howard, were admitted to the Lock Haven Hospital, to undergo surgical treatment.

Ellen, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Grove, who resided on the Cal Grove farm one-half mile west of Roopburg, had a remarkable escape from death when she fell out of an attic window and dropped 20 feet to the ground. She suffered only several small bruises of the forehead. A careful examination by a physician revealed no other injuries.

Rectal Soreness

Get Relief Now Easy Way - Sit in Comfort

Proflarmon Rectal is a quick, dependable relief of itching, painful rectal soreness - symptoms which may also accompany piles and hemorrhoids. Brings soothing sense of comfort upon contact, forms protective film over sore area, helps destroy infectious germs, all without any pain, broken tissues, no oil - no grease - no clothing, sold on money back guarantee, use this modern relief today. Ask for PROFLARMON RECTAL AT WILMANN & TEAL DRUG STORES

Twenty Years Ago

The Keystone Power Corporation received a 20-ton steam turbine from a manufacturing company at Lynn, Mass. The heavy piece of machinery came by express and the charge aggregated $1,033.22. The turbine was to be installed at the Millsburg plant.

Mrs. Daniel Griffin (Tome) Bush, well known resident of Bellefonte, died at her apartment in the Bush Arcade building after a long illness with a heart condition. She was aged 86 years. Surviving were one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth H. A. Callaway, at home, and two sons, Harry of Medford, Oregon, and George, at home. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

Gann, Professor Thomas Mosier and wife moved their household goods from a house on Howard street to the William Taylor tenant house on Willowbank Street. Mrs. Wilson P. Ard had accepted a temporary position as an instructor in the Bellefonte High School, filling a vacancy made by the illness of Miss Verma Ardery, who was confined to her home on Reynolds Avenue.

Orris Earger, 18, of Gregg township, died in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia after a month's illness with sleeping sickness. The young man had been attending school at Penn State when he became ill. After undergoing treatment by a local physician for a time he was sent to the University Hospital where his case baffled specialists. It was the first fatality in the county from that disease, although another case was known to exist at State College. Burial was made in the Georges Valley cemetery.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Horses Need Feed—As a rule, work horses in the spring should be liberally fed, say livestock specialists at the Pennsylvania State College. Unless the strength of the animals is maintained by proper feeding, they will tire quickly and be unable to stand the heavy work they are called on to do in the fields.

Produce Pulpwood—Pennsylvania wood-pulp manufacturers fear that they will be short about 75,000 cords of wood this year. Extension foresters of the Pennsylvania State College suggest that 7500 farmers each cut 10 cords of pulpwood on days unfavorable for general farm work during the next few months.

Grow Good Hybrids—Extension agronomists at the Pennsylvania State College report that good hybrids are generally required less labor in harvesting and will yield more corn per acre than most open-pollinated varieties. This, they consider, is an important item in solving the present farm labor problem.

Have Equipment Ready—Poultrymen who will receive their baby chicks within a few days should have all operating parts of brooders and equipment checked and the brooder operating for several days, remind poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College.

Plant Tested Varieties—Demonstrations have determined which of the available potato varieties are best in Pennsylvania. Penn State agronomists urge growers to get information on locally adapted varieties from county agricultural extension agents.

Use Protein Wisely—Because of the shortage of protein feeds and the great need for livestock feeding, Penn State specialists suggest that the protein be made to go as far as possible in the dairy cattle ration.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ANXIOUS FOR COLLEGE

High school students in Pennsylvania, despite the imminence of service in the armed forces, are anxious to complete as much college work as possible before being called up for Selective Service.

This is the opinion of William S. Hoffman, registrar at the Pennsylvania State College, who has been in contact with hundreds of such students during the last few months. "Many high school students," he said, "are being influenced by their teachers and parents who recall that after the first World War comparatively few ex-soldiers and sailors entered college for the first time, but that many who had entered prior to the war, re-entered to complete their higher education."

Hoffman revealed that Penn State had received 462 applications for admission to students now in high or preparatory schools, and that all but 85 of these wished to begin their studies on June 14 when the College's summer semester starts.

A letter to a soldier, serving his country, in a foreign land is a good deed done, even if the soldier is a relative.

LATE EXTRA! POINT RATING NEWS!

FREE - new, just-off-the-press folder of recipes that use little or no foods on the point ration list. Recipes for main dishes, quick breads, desserts. Offered by Rumford Baking Powder to help you serve well-balanced, attractive meals with a minimum of strain on your 48 portions. Send for your free copy today. Address: Rumford Baking Powder, Box R, Rumford, R. I.

Over the County News

Mr. and Mrs. Kiehl Boyer, of Millsburg, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, Ronald Dean, born to them Saturday, March 27, at the Geisinger Hospital, Danville. Mrs. Boyer is the former Maxine Fiedler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Fiedler, of Aaronsburg, R. D.

A former resident of Pleasant Gap, Ralph Sheridan, 23, was reported missing at sea, it was learned by residents of that community. The young man was in the Merchant Marine and was a member of a tanker crew. Sheridan, who lived in Pleasant Gap for about three years, was employed by W. J. Tucker at his poultry farm there. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sheridan of Hatfield township, near Lansdale. Sheridan was a member of the Pleasant Gap Fire Company.

Cpl. Kenneth M. Orndorf, who was recently transferred from Amarillo Field, Texas, to Seattle, Washington, writes to a friend: "While here we take an advanced course in Aircraft Mechanics, so as to be able to maintain B-17 or Flying Fortress in combat areas. There's very little I dare tell about our work here, as it is in an area where sabotage is greatest. I wish to thank you all for the interest you folks take in the boys who are in the service. I'm sure we all appreciate it." Cpl. Orndorf is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart H. Orndorf, of Woodward.

Since a number of residents of the southern part of Centre county are active members of Millifin Lodge No. 1396, Loyal Order of Moose, the fact that the Union county order recently contributed $100 to the American Red Cross War Fund campaign may be an interesting item of news. The lodge was constituted in 1925 with fifty-five charter members, which membership has now reached two hundred and eighty-five. Of the twelve members now in the armed forces, there is one from Woodward, Centre county—Malcolm L. Boob. Up to the present time, according to press releases, the lodge

CHURCHES

Hulersburg-Zion Reformed Church Charles G. Link, minister, Hulersburg: Church School 9:30 a. m.; Preparatory Service 7:30 p. m. Zion Union Church School 9:30 a. m. Holy Communion 10:30 a. m.

St. John's Evangelical & Reformed Rev. C. Nevin Stamm, Church school 9:30 a. m.; worship service and sermon 10:45 a. m.; Vesper service 7:30 p. m. A service will be held in the church each night of Holy week from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Nittany Valley Lutheran Pastorate The Rev. David E. Strasser, pastor. St. Paul's—church school 9:30 a. m.; morning worship 10:30 o'clock. Zion—church school at 9:30 a. m.; evening worship at 7:30. St. Mark's—church school at 9:30 a. m.

Warriors Mark Methodist Church R. Roland Ritter, minister. 9:30 church school, morning worship at 10:35; music by choir and soloists. Youth Fellowship at 7:00, report of Youth Convention by Violet Sunday and Doris Irvin. Holy Week services Monday through Friday evening.

Nittany Evangelical-Reformed Services in the Nittany Valley Evangelical and Reformed church for Sunday, April 18 are as follows: Salona Church School 9:30; Howard Church School 9:30; Mt. Bethel Church School 9:30; Church School 9:30; Holy Communion; Jakesville; Worship 7:30; Church School 9:30; John R. Gulch, Pastor.

United Brethren, Bellefonte G. E. Householder, pastor. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., Wilson R. Shope in charge. Preaching service at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the pastor; Christian Endeavor at 6:30. Prayer and Bible study Wednesday evening at 7:30. The choir will rehearse Friday evening. There will be reception of members, baptism and communion services on Easter Sunday. Special services April 21 to 23. There will be special music at each service.

Presbyterian, Millsburg Services, Sunday, April 18. Bible School 9:30 a. m. Morning Worship, with Communion and reception of new members 10:45 a. m. Christian Endeavor 6:30 p. m. Preparatory services for Communion on Friday evening, April 16 at 7:30 with Session meeting following. Snow Shoe: Bible School 10:00 a. m. Evening Worship and Communion 7:30 p. m. Unionville: Bible Study class Monday, April 19 at the home announced. Howard E. Oakwood, Minister.

St. John's Episcopal, Bellefonte Rev. Francis P. Davis, minister. Palm Sunday, 9:45 a. m. in church school; 11 a. m. morning prayer, sermon and the Ante-Communion Office. There also will be the Long Processional, the Blessing of the Palms and distribution. Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock confirmation class. Thursday evening at 7:30, Parish Women's study group. Wednesday evening at 7:30, adult Confirmation class; Thursday afternoon at 4:15, children's service of intercession. Thursday evening at 7:30, the evening prayer, Litaney and address.

St. John's Lutheran, Bellefonte The Rev. Clarence E. Arnold, Pastor. Palm Sunday, April 18, 9:30 a. m. Sunday School; 10:45 a. m. The Service and Sermon; "This is the King of the Jews." 7:30 p. m. Vespers and Sermon: "The Cross the Power of God." Services will be held during Holy Week as follows: Holy Wednesday—the Confessional Service preparatory to the Holy Communion at 7:30 p. m. Address: "The Love of the Cross; Maundy Thursday—The Suffrages and an Address: "The Gift of the Cross" at 7:30 p. m. Good Friday at 7:30 p. m. The Holy Communion; address: "The Purpose of the Cross."

Surprise in Blind Date. It's pretty certain to say that Lieut. Donald Frank, of Wellsboro, serving in England on one the Flying Fortresses that has been systematically bombing Germany during recent weeks, will never be more surprised than he was to find his "blind date," at a party given by a friend, was Elsie Whipple, of Wellsboro, R. D. 4, who left for overseas duty with the Red Cross Army Nurses Corps last January. In writing relatives about the meeting, Lieutenant Frank says Miss Whipple is the first person from home that he has met since he left the States.

To Liquidate Bank. At a meeting of the directors of the Grange National Bank, held in Tioga, it was decided to voluntarily liquidate the affairs of the bank. At the beginning of business Thursday morning all of the deposits of the bank were assumed by the First National Bank of Wellsboro, and notices have been mailed to all depositors of the Grange Nat'l Bank that checks drawn on that bank will be paid by the First National Bank of Wellsboro.

What has become of the American undertaking to take the profit out of war? Mi 31 ANTISEPTIC SOLUTION. Ecological, pleasant tasting, pleasant wash. 59¢.

White Bros. Drug Store, Bellefonte, Pa.

Never get hot and bothered about what the author of one book says if you don't like the way he writes, read another book.

CHURCHES

International Sunday School Lesson for April 18, 1943. GOLDEN TEXT: "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation."—Matthew 26: 41. (Lesson Text: Matthew 26: 36-46; John 18: 10-12)

Following the celebration with his disciples of the Passover in the Upper Room probably of the home of the mother of John Mark, Jesus led his eleven followers to the Garden of Gethsemane, where he was accustomed to retire for prayer.

En route to the Garden, Jesus endeavored to prepare his beloved disciples for the approaching events of the night, saying that they would all be offended because of him. Not understanding what he meant, Peter quickly, with his customary impetuosity, immediately questioned such a prophecy concerning himself.

It would probably have been better had Peter not been so confident and boastful. However, Jesus told Peter that he would not only deny having known him, but would do so three times. Even the repetition failed to alarm this courageous fisherman, who, in his blind confidence, confidently assured Jesus that death itself would not make him so guilty.

Arriving at Gethsemane, Jesus took Peter and John and James and went further into the Garden with the expressed purpose of praying, and with the request of his three disciples that they tarry there and wait. By way of parenthesis, we should point out that Jesus, the Son of God, felt the desperate need of prayer in facing this supreme test of his life. Surely, you and I should cultivate the spiritual power to stand the tests of our lives which will come to us through prayer.

Hardly had Jesus left them than the three disciples fell into deep slumber. Looking back over the centuries, at the happenings recorded here, we are quick to condemn these friends of Jesus for their lack of sympathy or their disregard of the request of their leader. However, when we look at the eyes of the disciples, perhaps we should not be too critical. What would you or I have done under similar circumstances?

When Jesus with his disciples entered the Garden he was facing the most troubled hour of his earthly experience. He fought his way through to spiritual victory, but as he entered, the fight was on. At such a time as that, the men whom he might have expected to stand by him failed miserably. He had to fight

After the examination before Annas, which was made in the early hours of the morning, Jesus was carried before Caiaphas, who seems to have occupied another wing of the same palace, connected by a court yard. In this open place Peter, who had followed John to the palace, waited, and during his wait, denied on three separate occasions charges that he was a follower of Jesus. As the third denial was made, Jesus was being led through the court yard for his next examination and it was then that he rebuked his fickle follower by one sad look, which was enough to cause Peter to rush into the night, weeping bitterly for having so soon belied the brave words spoken earlier in the night.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION

BY W.W. REID

Somewhat more than a year ago, a German raider released 647 British men, women and children prisoners of war from the island of Ceylon, a cannibal island in the South Pacific. They faced death from hunger and thirst. But two members of the party, hoping that there might be Christian natives somewhere around, forced their way inland, and drawing near a large hut, heard singing in English: "Jesus loves me, this I know, For the Bible tells me so."

Leading the whole village in song was an English-speaking Solomon Islander, "black as the Ace of Spades." Son of a Wesleyan school in the Fiji Islands, now a minister to cannibals in Emirau. The story ends in a white trader borrowing a launch given to the missionaries by friends in Australia and affecting the rescue of the entire party.

Increasingly large numbers of British people are attending religious services in their factories and other places of business, and an increasing number of clergymen of all faiths are making this one of their major tasks, according to the Rev. Harold A. Cockburn, of Dumfries, Scotland, now visiting in the United States. This type of ministry is made necessary in part because some 3,000,000 British churches have been bombed, and because millions of men, women, and children are engaged in war services and in defense posts on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

"It is possible to demonstrate beyond peradventure the practical futility of isolationism," says Dr. C. E. Winslow of Yale University. "It is clear as crystal that the sacrifice of blood and treasure we are making in 1943 will be completely wasted if we do not cooperate, both politically and economically, in the cooperative rebuilding of global peace. . . . Perhaps the ultimate challenge in the campaign which must be fought on the floors of Congress and in the polling booths of every city and village of our land will be that ancient and inexorable challenge, 'Am I my brother's keeper?'"

Commenting on the social progress made in America during recent years, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Methodist Federation for Social Service, said recently: "While we have not yet conquered unemployment, we have with considerable effectiveness gone into the public mind the social necessity of the right of all who want to work to have a chance to work. We are seriously tackling the problem of the depressions which come in cycles. The drastic and rigorous legislative and executive measures aimed at the good of all are so commonplace now as to hardly call for comment. It is true that much of this has come about through the necessities of a life and death struggle in the global war. One of the few advantages of a war, however, apart from sheer self-preservation of a nation, is that the

Sunday School Lesson

JOHN AND PETER IN GETHESEMANE International Sunday School Lesson for April 18, 1943. GOLDEN TEXT: "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation."—Matthew 26: 41. (Lesson Text: Matthew 26: 36-46; John 18: 10-12)

Following the celebration with his disciples of the Passover in the Upper Room probably of the home of the mother of John Mark, Jesus led his eleven followers to the Garden of Gethsemane, where he was accustomed to retire for prayer.

En route to the Garden, Jesus endeavored to prepare his beloved disciples for the approaching events of the night, saying that they would all be offended because of him. Not understanding what he meant, Peter quickly, with his customary impetuosity, immediately questioned such a prophecy concerning himself.

It would probably have been better had Peter not been so confident and boastful. However, Jesus told Peter that he would not only deny having known him, but would do so three times. Even the repetition failed to alarm this courageous fisherman, who, in his blind confidence, confidently assured Jesus that death itself would not make him so guilty.

Arriving at Gethsemane, Jesus took Peter and John and James and went further into the Garden with the expressed purpose of praying, and with the request of his three disciples that they tarry there and wait. By way of parenthesis, we should point out that Jesus, the Son of God, felt the desperate need of prayer in facing this supreme test of his life. Surely, you and I should cultivate the spiritual power to stand the tests of our lives which will come to us through prayer.

Hardly had Jesus left them than the three disciples fell into deep slumber. Looking back over the centuries, at the happenings recorded here, we are quick to condemn these friends of Jesus for their lack of sympathy or their disregard of the request of their leader. However, when we look at the eyes of the disciples, perhaps we should not be too critical. What would you or I have done under similar circumstances?

When Jesus with his disciples entered the Garden he was facing the most troubled hour of his earthly experience. He fought his way through to spiritual victory, but as he entered, the fight was on. At such a time as that, the men whom he might have expected to stand by him failed miserably. He had to fight

After the examination before Annas, which was made in the early hours of the morning, Jesus was carried before Caiaphas, who seems to have occupied another wing of the same palace, connected by a court yard. In this open place Peter, who had followed John to the palace, waited, and during his wait, denied on three separate occasions charges that he was a follower of Jesus. As the third denial was made, Jesus was being led through the court yard for his next examination and it was then that he rebuked his fickle follower by one sad look, which was enough to cause Peter to rush into the night, weeping bitterly for having so soon belied the brave words spoken earlier in the night.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION

BY W.W. REID

Somewhat more than a year ago, a German raider released 647 British men, women and children prisoners of war from the island of Ceylon, a cannibal island in the South Pacific. They faced death from hunger and thirst. But two members of the party, hoping that there might be Christian natives somewhere around, forced their way inland, and drawing near a large hut, heard singing in English: "Jesus loves me, this I know, For the Bible tells me so."

Leading the whole village in song was an English-speaking Solomon Islander, "black as the Ace of Spades." Son of a Wesleyan school in the Fiji Islands, now a minister to cannibals in Emirau. The story ends in a white trader borrowing a launch given to the missionaries by friends in Australia and affecting the rescue of the entire party.

Increasingly large numbers of British people are attending religious services in their factories and other places of business, and an increasing number of clergymen of all faiths are making this one of their major tasks, according to the Rev. Harold A. Cockburn, of Dumfries, Scotland, now visiting in the United States. This type of ministry is made necessary in part because some 3,000,000 British churches have been bombed, and because millions of men, women, and children are engaged in war services and in defense posts on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

"It is possible to demonstrate beyond peradventure the practical futility of isolationism," says Dr. C. E. Winslow of Yale University. "It is clear as crystal that the sacrifice of blood and treasure we are making in 1943 will be completely wasted if we do not cooperate, both politically and economically, in the cooperative rebuilding of global peace. . . . Perhaps the ultimate challenge in the campaign which must be fought on the floors of Congress and in the polling booths of every city and village of our land will be that ancient and inexorable challenge, 'Am I my brother's keeper?'"

Commenting on the social progress made in America during recent years, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Methodist Federation for Social Service, said recently: "While we have not yet conquered unemployment, we have with considerable effectiveness gone into the public mind the social necessity of the right of all who want to work to have a chance to work. We are seriously tackling the problem of the depressions which come in cycles. The drastic and rigorous legislative and executive measures aimed at the good of all are so commonplace now as to hardly call for comment. It is true that much of this has come about through the necessities of a life and death struggle in the global war. One of the few advantages of a war, however, apart from sheer self-preservation of a nation, is that the

CHURCHES

International Sunday School Lesson for April 18, 1943. GOLDEN TEXT: "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation."—Matthew 26: 41. (Lesson Text: Matthew 26: 36-46; John 18: 10-12)

Following the celebration with his disciples of the Passover in the Upper Room probably of the home of the mother of John Mark, Jesus led his eleven followers to the Garden of Gethsemane, where he was accustomed to retire for prayer.

En route to the Garden, Jesus endeavored to prepare his beloved disciples for the approaching events of the night, saying that they would all be offended because of him. Not understanding what he meant, Peter quickly, with his customary impetuosity, immediately questioned such a prophecy concerning himself.

It would probably have been better had Peter not been so confident and boastful. However, Jesus told Peter that he would not only deny having known him, but would do so three times. Even the repetition failed to alarm this courageous fisherman, who, in his blind confidence, confidently assured Jesus that death itself would not make him so guilty.

Arriving at Gethsemane, Jesus took Peter and John and James and went further into the Garden with the expressed purpose of praying, and with the request of his three disciples that they tarry there and wait. By way of parenthesis, we should point out that Jesus, the Son of God, felt the desperate need of prayer in facing this supreme test of his life. Surely, you and I should cultivate the spiritual power to stand the tests of our lives which will come to us through prayer.

Hardly had Jesus left them than the three disciples fell into deep slumber. Looking back over the centuries, at the happenings recorded here, we are quick to condemn these friends of Jesus for their lack of sympathy or their disregard of the request of their leader. However, when we look at the eyes of the disciples, perhaps we should not be too critical. What would you or I have done under similar circumstances?

When Jesus with his disciples entered the Garden he was facing the most troubled hour of his earthly experience. He fought his way through to spiritual victory, but as he entered, the fight was on. At such a time as that, the men whom he might have expected to stand by him failed miserably. He had to fight

After the examination before Annas, which was made in the early hours of the morning, Jesus was carried before Caiaphas, who seems to have occupied another wing of the same palace, connected by a court yard. In this open place Peter, who had followed John to the palace, waited, and during his wait, denied on three separate occasions charges that he was a follower of Jesus. As the third denial was made, Jesus was being led through the court yard for his next examination and it was then that he rebuked his fickle follower by one sad look, which was enough to cause Peter to rush into the night, weeping bitterly for having so soon belied the brave words spoken earlier in the night.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION

BY W.W. REID

Somewhat more than a year ago, a German raider released 647 British men, women and children prisoners of war from the island of Ceylon, a cannibal island in the South Pacific. They faced death from hunger and thirst. But two members of the party, hoping that there might be Christian natives somewhere around, forced their way inland, and drawing near a large hut, heard singing in English: "Jesus loves me, this I know, For the Bible tells me so."

Leading the whole village in song was an English-speaking Solomon Islander, "black as the Ace of Spades." Son of a Wesleyan school in the Fiji Islands, now a minister to cannibals in Emirau. The story ends in a white trader borrowing a launch given to the missionaries by friends in Australia and affecting the rescue of the entire party.

Increasingly large numbers of British people are attending religious services in their factories and other places of business, and an increasing number of clergymen of all faiths are making this one of their major tasks, according to the Rev. Harold A. Cockburn, of Dumfries, Scotland, now visiting in the United States. This type of ministry is made necessary in part because some 3,000,000 British churches have been bombed, and because millions of men, women, and children are engaged in war services and in defense posts on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

"It is possible to demonstrate beyond peradventure the practical futility of isolationism," says Dr. C. E. Winslow of Yale University. "It is clear as crystal that the sacrifice of blood and treasure we are making in 1943 will be completely wasted if we do not cooperate, both politically and economically, in the cooperative rebuilding of global peace. . . . Perhaps the ultimate challenge in the campaign which must be fought on the floors of Congress and in the polling booths of every city and village of our land will be that ancient and inexorable challenge, 'Am I my brother's keeper?'"

Commenting on the social progress made in America during recent years, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Methodist Federation for Social Service, said recently: "While we have not yet conquered unemployment, we have with considerable effectiveness gone into the public mind the social necessity of the right of all who want to work to have a chance to work. We are seriously tackling the problem of the depressions which come in cycles. The drastic and rigorous legislative and executive measures aimed at the good of all are so commonplace now as to hardly call for comment. It is true that much of this has come about through the necessities of a life and death struggle in the global war. One of the few advantages of a war, however, apart from sheer self-preservation of a nation, is that the

At First Sign of A Cold

USE 666

Pimples Disappeared Over Night

Yes, it is true. There is a safe harmless medicated liquid called Kleerex that dries up pimples overnight. Those who followed simple directions and applied Kleerex upon retiring were amazingly surprised when they found their pimples had disappeared. These users enthusiastically praise Kleerex and claim they are no longer embarrassed and are now happy with their clear complexion. Don't take our word for it, use Kleerex tonight. If one application does not satisfy, you get your money back. There is no risk so do not hesitate. For sale by FARRISH DRUG STORE, Bellefonte, Pa.