Many Plead Guilty At Special Court

of Police John R. Juba, of State College, told the court that for some time thefts have been reported at the Glennland pool, and that suspicion finally centered on Foreman.

After his arrest, Juba said, it was learned that when he was home on a recent vacation he had keys made which would fit the Glennland lockers. Juba said Foreman was suspected of other thefts there, but that the charge was brought in only one case.

Foreman said he committed the theft "to get a little extra money."

Edward Rupert, of Blanchard, AWOL from the U. S. Navy and who became 16 years of age on April 14, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of issuing and passing a forged check. State Police officer S. R. Richardson, of Rockview barracks, the prosecutor, said Rupert also had cashed two other worthless checks in Bellefonte. The total of the checks was $55, Richardson said.

Rupert enlisted in the Navy December 10, 1942 on the strength of a false age affidavit, it was reported. He obtained a leave of absence on March 8 and at the expiration of the leave failed to return to duty.

He came to Bellefonte where a leather jacket he was wearing over his Navy uniform caused local police to suspect him, and Rockview police were notified. At the time of his arrest he had considerable money in his wallet and later admitted obtaining it through fraudulent checks.

Rupert was given a suspended sentence and was placed on probation for a year on the condition that he make restitution of the money obtained. He has been turned over to Naval authorities.

Orville Hockenberry, 30, of Bellefonte, appeared in court on a charge of failing to comply with a voluntary arrangement he made to pay for the support of an illegitimate child. The Court imposed an order directing him to pay $2 weekly until the child is seven years old.

Domer Rachau, of Madisonburg, pleading guilty to charges of failing to stop and reveal his identity, and failing to render assistance after a motor accident in which he was involved, was sentenced to pay the costs and a fine of $25 on each of the two counts.

State Motor Police officer W. C. Moran, of Pleasant Gap, prosecutor, said Rachau's car and a machine driven by Paul Fetterolf were involved in a collision in Gregg township on March 26, and that Rachau failed to stop. The Fetterolf car was badly damaged and Fetterolf was injured.

Rachau said the accident unpurged him and his wife and that in their excitement they went home. He said his was only slightly damaged in the crash.

Charles Kuhn of Bellefonte, R. D., some weeks ago pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a truck owned by Max Herr of Centre Hall, without Mr. Herr's permission, and at his request sentence was deferred so that he could enter the Army. The understanding was that he was to receive sentence upon his return from the service.

However, it developed that the Army wouldn't accept him until the criminal case here was disposed of, so Kuhn appeared in court and was sentenced to pay the costs and serve 10 days in jail.

LeRoy Hockenberry, of Bellefonte, R. D., another defendant who several weeks ago chose army service rather than immediate sentencing on statutory charges, was returned by the Army to have the charges here finally disposed of, and on one count was directed to pay the costs, a fine of $1, and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 90 days. On the other count Hockenberry was ordered to provide for the support of an illegitimate child.

Local Rat Population Said to be Increasing

ed the quarry dump and estimated that it would cost about $200 to rid the quarry of rats. That expenditure might have been well worth while last summer when dumping was prohibited, but those in a position to know say that now most of the rats have left the quarry and have moved into town.

The best solution to the question therefore seems to be a town-wide war against the rodents, combined with a continuing program to clear the remaining rats out of the old quarry.

A rat "expert" suggests that a baited rat trap be kept in operating condition in the cellar of every home, or that rat poison be placed judiciously where no children can get to it. One of the most desirable poisons is the type containing red squill, which is fatal to rats but which is not necessarily fatal to dogs, cats, or humans. If eaten by domestic animals or humans severe sickness is the worst that can be anticipated.

Good bait for rat traps include old standbys such as cheese or bacon, but some persons report better results with a piece of chocolate candy (if you can get it).

Probably the best and easiest rat trap bait, and a type easiest to use is prepared dried dog food—the kind available at any store. Set the trap, pour a little dog food on the bait holder and don't worry if some spills onto the main body of the trap. It really works.

At any rate, rats show great prom-use of becoming a real menace unless concerted action is taken before they establish nests and runways in homes. Get after them now, and save yourself a lot of worries later on!

beris and overseas during the first World War. He was a member of the American Medical Association and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Since his retirement in 1936, he had been accustomed to spending part of his summers in State College, and shortly before his death, was planning another trip to Centre county this year.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Eloise Featherstone Dale, daughter of General Winfield Scott Featherstone of the Confederate Army, to whom he was married on March 7, 1935. A daughter, Mrs. E. C. Robinson, two sisters, Mrs. Hall M. Crossman of Norristown, and Mrs. Silas M. Wetmore of Florence, S. C., and two grandchildren also survive.

Burial was made in Arlington National Cemetery, near Washington, on Tuesday.

the succeeding nine years he was employed at the Loyville Orphans' Home in Loyville, and five years ago returned to the homestead farm.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday afternoon with Rev. C. C. Otto of Centre Hall, Rev. Herbert Kline of Shrewsbury, and Rev. Dr. G. H. Heim of Hollidaysburg, officiating. Interment was made in the Centre Hall cemetery.

Ink Stain Remedies

Printing ink stains may be removed by rubbing thoroughly with lard, and then washing with soap and warm water. For writing inks, try washing with soap and water first. Then try cornmeal or salt or French chalk or talcum powder, brushing off as the ink is absorbed and repeating. If this is not successful, soak the stains in milk for one or two days, changing the milk as it becomes discolored. Or rub the stains with a cut lemon, squeezing on some of the juice and rinsing frequently.

Child Badly Burned

Martha Simpson, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Simpson, of Lawrenceville, is a patient at the Blossburg State Hospital suffering serious burns of her body and face. The child set her clothing on fire while playing with matches.

War marriages may not turn out so well but then our record for peace-time marriages is not perfect.

BLANCHARD

Several persons in town are falling to cooperate with the "Blackouts" conducted recently. For the benefit of all the Air Raid Wardens and helpers are again listed. They are as follows: Harris Beatty, T. M. Kunes, Fred Clark, Alva Miller, Harold Brungard and Harold Bennett. They will patrol the various sections of town during a black out. Additional signals will soon be arranged so all may hear.

Mrs. Maurice Shilling returned home from the Lock Haven Hospital this week. She is greatly improved after undergoing surgical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Clark and twin sons of Coudersport, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harris Clark.

Mrs. W. H. Spangler has completed the business transactions necessary to purchasing the property formerly owned by Miss Cord Snyder and the one occupied by the Spanglers for several years.

The W. W. G. of the Baptist church met at the R. J. Spangler home on Wednesday evening. Those present were: Mrs. Philip Schrott, Mrs. Robert Carter, Miss Geraldine Bathgate, and Mrs. Eugene Latak of Lock Haven. Mrs. William Neff of Mill Hall and Mrs. Harold Brungard, Misses Blanche Williams and Louise Bolopue, Mrs. Harris Conifer of Blanchard and Mrs. W. A. Shope.

Weekend visitors at the M. C. Bowman home were Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bowman and son Jerry of Southampton, and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bordan of Landsdale, Mrs.

Bowman and son remained in this vicinity for a week.

Billy Williams celebrated his birthday last week so a party was given for him at the home of his sister Mrs. Harold Brungard on Friday evening. The guests were school mates and friends of Billy.

Mrs. George Hortel of Farrockaway, N. Y., is spending some time visiting with her mother, Mrs. Tillie Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rauch, the new tenants at the late John Miller residence accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Maurer of Mill Hall to Kertams on Sunday, being called there by the death of a relative.
