NEWTON LAWRENCE OVERDORF

Newton Lawrence Overdorf, 65, died at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning, April 29, at his home from spinal meningitis. He became ill Sunday. A native and life long resident of Sugar Valley, he was a retired farmer. Surviving are his wife, Cora; two sons, Raymond, Logan, R. D. 1; and Russell, Tyler, Pa.; a daughter, Mrs. Russell Getchen, Williamsport; and seven grandchildren. Private funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Friday at the home with the Rev. T. M. Husler, pastor of the Evangelical church, of which he was a member officiating. Interment was made in the Greenbush cemetery. Public services will be held at the Evangelical church in Greenbush after the quarantine is lifted.

MRS. RAYMOND T. MAXON

Mrs. Mary Delphine Maxon, 42, wife of Raymond T. Maxon of Blanchard, died Sunday afternoon at her home of complications. Born in Blanchard, February 17, 1891, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Frazier who with her husband survive. Also surviving are three children by a former marriage, Beatrice, Charles and Evelyn Packer, all at home; and three sisters, Mrs. Harry Peter, Beech Creek; Mrs. McNett Merryman and Mrs. Delmas McCloskey, Monument. Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the Liberty Baptist church, Blanchard, of which she was a member. The Rev. William Shope, assisted by the Rev. M. S. Rogers, officiated and interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

GEORGE W. FRAZIER

Stricken with a heart attack, George W. Frazier, 60, of Phillipsburg, suddenly expired Friday night about 10 o'clock at his home on Water street. He had gone to the cellar to attend to the furnace. With the help of his sister, Mrs. Irvin Frazier, of Mill Hall, who had been visiting at the Frazier home, he succeeded in getting up stairs. Death was instantaneous. For some few years he had been ailing with a heart condition. His death occurred at the side of his wife, who had been removed to her home ten days ago from the hospital to recuperate from a broken hip suffered a couple of months ago when she slipped and fell on an icy pavement. The deceased was born at Wolfe's Store, Centre county, on September 11, 1883.

Surviving are his wife, who is the former Effie Viola Johnston; two sisters and one brother, Mrs. James Brideau, Mrs. Irvin Harry and Sidney E. Frazier, all of Mill Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Frazier have been residents of Phillipsburg many years. Mr. Frazier employed as freight agent for the New York Central Railroad Company. He was a member of Church of Christ and had the esteem of his community. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at his late home in charge of his pastor, Rev. Thomas B. Shearer, with burial in the Phillipsburg cemetery.

KENNETH LEROY WILKINS

Kenneth Leroy Wilkins, aged 3 months, son of Budd E. and Justine Yarnell Wilkins of near Spring Mills, died at his parental home Thursday morning, April 29, 1943, after a several days' illness with pneumonia. The infant was born January 21, 1943, and is survived by his parents and two brothers, Nevin Eugene and Edward Lewis, both at home. Mr. Wilkins was called for Army service last summer and now is with the armed forces overseas. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Goodhart Funeral Home, Centre Hall, with Rev. C. M. Hammond officiating. Interment was made in the Spring Mills cemetery.

MRS. JANE HARRIS

Mrs. Jane Harris, 72, died at 1 o'clock Sunday morning at her home in Osceola Mills. She had lived in Osceola Mills for the last 10 years. Her death was attributed to severe bronchitis which had been aggravated by an oil lamp explosion. She had been ill most of the time since the accident. She was born August 25, 1870, at Graysville, Centre county. She was a daughter of David and Julia Stonebraker Cowfer. Her husband, Perry, and the following brothers and sisters survive: Mrs. Martha Wilkinson, Houtzdale; Mrs. Rachael Woods, Irvin, Wall; and William, all of Osceola Mills; Mrs. Sarah Merritt, Clearfield; Mrs. Sue Banks, Oakmont; David, Russell; and Amos, Philadelphia. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Osceola Mills Presbyterian church, in charge of Rev. C. H. Goshorn. Burial was made in the Umbria cemetery.

Coal Strike Off For 15 Days

Standing by his insistence that the union submit its demands—for $2 a day increase and other concessions—to arbitration by the War Labor Board, the President said the union's officers had declined to "have anything to do with the fact-finding of the War Labor Board. The only excuse that they offer is that the War Labor Board has been and is ready to give the case a fair and impartial hearing."

Don Gingery Gets Local Charge

Meanwhile Fuel Administrator Ickes, designated by President Roosevelt to direct seizure and operation of the mining properties, became active in the work of the Government.
One of his first official acts was to appoint Don Gingery, manager of the Altoona regional office of the Bituminous Coal Division, as regional manager of all mines taken over by the Government. This is a move to keep the mines administration running smoothly. Mr. Gingery returned from a Washington conference Sunday night.

Keep all calls BRIEF! ESPECIALLY ON PARTY LINES

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Use of Partylines Increased by War

War has increased the number of Pennsylvania families using party-line Bell telephone service by approximately 100,000 since Pearl Harbor, Jesse H. Caum, Bellefonte manager of the Bell Telephone Company said yesterday.

Greatly increased use of partylines has made it possible to meet the increased demands for war-time services with a minimum of critical materials, he said.

Nearly 75 per cent of all residential telephone service in the State is now provided by party-lines, Mr. Caum said. On the basis of the average size family, this means that approximately 2,700,000 Pennsylvanians are now sharing their home telephone facilities with others.

"The telephone is often forgotten when people think of the things they must share in war-time," he said. "But the telephone has gone to war just as have new automobiles, tires and nylon stockings.

"Thousands of new subscribers as well as old subscribers who have moved and have accepted party-line service to help spread the existing supply of telephone service. Many of these subscribers have never had party-line service before and are not familiar with the 'etiquette' of sharing a line."

The Bell official pointed out three important rules of telephone etiquette which should be particularly stressed during war time: Be brief; be a good "telephone neighbor," and do not make needless calls.

Long conversations are bound to be unfair and inconsiderate to the other users of the line who may be waiting to make an important call. They may also be delaying important war or emergency calls because they are tying up central office equipment which can only handle so many calls at one time.

Party line users are urged to treat other subscribers as they would like to be treated themselves. When a click is heard, indicating another subscriber wants to use the line, the cooperative thing to do is to bring the conversation to a close as quickly as possible, just as you would want the other subscriber to do if you had to make a call.

The telephone system is now handling the largest volume of calls in history, many of them vital war calls. The Bell manager said, adding that these calls can only be handled efficiently if all subscribers cooperate.

"We cannot expand our facilities now because of material shortages," he declared, "but we can stretch the line to handle the necessary wartime increase in calling by cooperating, particularly in keeping calls short. The equipment needed for one fifteen-minute call can handle five three-minute calls in the same time."

Business will continue as usual at the prevailing wage and under existing operating rules. The only actual difference in the entire situation at each mine is that the owner passes out of the picture for the time being and the government assumes ownership and will manage the workings.

In turn the government manager at the mine is directly responsible to Mr. Gingery for production management and anything that goes with the operation.

Mr. Gingery, well known throughout Centre county, stated emphatically that the government is strictly neutral. Its sole desire is to restore production immediately, to get the mine back and to see that everybody—owner, miner and government—gets a square deal. Until the wage dispute is finally ended the government will operate the mines. Each of the 2000 mine operators in the district one have been notified. Mr. Gingery has jurisdiction over 38 Pennsylvania counties, three in West Virginia and some in Maryland.

At each mine entrance and about the premises a large colored poster with the American flag at the top bears beneath it the caption in large letters: UNITED STATES PROPERTY.

Then follows the order for taking over the mine property and a warning against any interference with the operation of such mine. Also every mine must fly the Stars and Stripes above the premises. The order is signed by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

A Victory Garden is getting to be almost a necessity and before the end of 1943 the population will be divided into those with and those without.

SIX COUNTIANS BEGIN NAVY "BOOT" TRAINING
Six Centre County men, recently inducted into the Navy, were reported to the U. S. Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill., for 12 weeks of "boot" training.

They will receive basic instruction in seamanship and Naval customs, participate in a vigorous physical hardening program, and be classified as to the type of work each is best qualified to perform in the Navy. Upon graduation they will be given a nine-day leave.

Before being classified each man will take a series of aptitude tests and have an interview with a trained personnel advisor. On the basis of his scores in these tests he will be selected to attend one of the Navy's 51 schools for training specialists, or as signalmen and machinists' mates, or be assigned directly to active duty at sea or ashore.

The six Centre County recruits are Henry G. Capperella, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Caparella, Bellefonte; R. D. J. Robert E. Rager, 18, son of James Rager, Howard street, Bellefonte; Edward M. Barton, 18, son of Marjorie Barton, Fleming; Maynard Schmoke, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Schmoke, Pine Glen; and Mrs. W. T. Merrell, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Merrell, Fowling, and Hugh C. Moore, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moore, Sandy Ridge.

Washing the Flag
The method of washing the flag depends upon the material of which it is made. The color-fast cotton flags can be laundered in the tub or by using cooler soapy water. Of course, most of the little flags such as are often carried by children in parades are very seldom fast-dyed, and it is not advisable to try to wash them.

The Waffle Iron
Remove grease and discoloration from the grids of the waffle iron by spreading over them a paste of baking soda and water applied with a soft brush. Be sure to clean this mixture thoroughly before using the iron again.

Modern Etiquette

1. What is the correct width of a left-hand margin on the letter-paper, how far down from the top should the letter begin, and should one indent the paragraphs?
2. Who takes the curb side when a married woman and an unmarried one are walking along the street together?
3. If an officer of the army or navy is being presented to someone, does one give his full title?
4. Which fork should be used to eat a sea-food cocktail that is served as the first course at dinner?
5. How long a time should one allow to elapse before returning a first call?
6. Will you give me some suggestions on what to serve in the way of refreshments when giving a wedding shower?
7. If an engagement has been announced in the newspapers, and is then broken, is it all right to send an announcement of its termination to the papers?
8. Should a dinner guest push his chair back under the table when leaving it?
9. When writing a note to decline an invitation, should one make it formal?
10. What should two people do if introduced to each other for the second time?
11. Is it necessary to send a gift when one is invited to a church wedding, but not to the reception?
12. How many vegetables is it necessary to serve at a dinner?

Answers to Modern Etiquette

1. Leave a left-hand margin of about one inch, begin the letter about two inches down, and indent paragraphs about one inch.
2. The married woman, unless the unmarried woman is much younger.
3. Yes.
4. The small oyster fork, which will be found either on the outer edge of the spoons or at the left of the forks.
5. The call should be returned within two weeks unless there is some good reason why it cannot be done.
6. It is not necessary to serve anything elaborate; sandwiches and tea or ice cream and cake are sufficient.
7. Yes, if desired; this is sometimes done.
8. Not unless it is necessary for others to walk by.
9. Yes, if the invitation is formal. Otherwise not. The form of the invitation should be followed.
10. If the occasion is a formal one, they should both acknowledge the introduction and not attempt any explanations that would be embarrassing to the person making the introduction. However, if the occasion is an informal one, it is all right to recall the previous meeting.
11. No; only invitations to the reception require gifts.
12. Two vegetables are sufficient.

Lessons In English

Do not say, "Let me alone for a few minutes," when meaning to depart from the presence of another. Say, "Leave me alone, etc."

Do not say, "The child's mother said that he may go with you." Say, "says that he may go," or "said that he might go."

Do not say, "I wish to be free of any obligation." Say, "free from any obligation."

Do not say, "We have seen most all the pictures." Say, "almost all the pictures."

Do not say, "I wish you would come and see me." "Come to see me" is preferable.

Do not say, "You must conform with our rules." Say, "You must conform to our rules."

'Ghost of Barrens' Subject of Tale Told

history they left was that the ghost on moonlight nights came out and danced on this rock, all around the Barrens. For miles people will tell you the history of the Ghost Rock. It is a long, but curious story.

Not long ago I met a man who was raised and grew up on this farm. His home is not more than two-thirds of a mile away and he said to all his life he has never passed the Ghost Rock at night. There is another man who was raised on the farm that adjoins. He is now an engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad. He also said in all his life he never passed the Ghost Rock at night. He always went through the fields or some way around it. Now for myself, I passed it once but in all my life never the second time. We have all declared many times that we did not believe there was a ghost dancing on that rock but why were we afraid to take a chance.

In Spooky Hollow there are many trees, some are known as Ghost Trees. Many of these trees have been pointed to me. No one has been found yet that could sit under these trees for two hours. The hypnotic rhythm of the wind through the trees combined with the soft darkness lulls you into a deep hypnotic sleep. If this does not take place, then you will be found running through the woods in a wild and delirious state. A condition which you do not rally from soon, for this reason they say that there are hermits living in the Barrens unknown to anyone. If you sit down under a ghost tree, you will hear a million different kinds of sounds all blended together, the like of which no one can describe, stranger than the music of Ephraim. There are many haunted houses in the Barrens and will remain so as long as time lasts. Here is how it works out: Mr. Green, who was head of the electric light and power company in Altoona, owing to his poor health, wanted to buy a farm so he came to me for advice as to where he could find one. I told him of a very fine farm not far from my old home in the Barrens that could be purchased for about one-half of what it was worth. He wanted to go to see it at once. I told him that it had only one drawback, the house was haunted. He said that he did not care for that so the next day we visited the farm. The large barn, fine house, with fine water and more than 200 acres of fine land made him almost wild to buy it. We then located the man who had it for sale. He said that he had sold it the week before. They had made $500 payment, so we went fifteen miles to see the purchaser and offered him $1,000 for his bargain which he refused. The following week he moved into the haunted house with all his equipment, horses, cows, household goods, etc. He lived there one week and then to the surprise of everyone he moved away one night, forgetting his $500, his first payment on the house. To this day he never said why he moved away. It was exactly the history of the place for half a century. No one could ever stand the pressure of those unseen denizens.

"In giving you the history of the ghost trees, the ponds, Spooky Hollow, the Ghost Rock, the haunted houses, I am afraid that it may not add up to sense to you. It can't be a history, it is a dizzy drama, one in which I played in all my young life and now I look back, away back, and wonder if I am not sorry that it was all a mystery." The interesting Dr. Beck concluded.

When the compiler of this column first visited the barrens, called on the ancient maps "The Pine Barrens," in 1898 he was told the story

All kinds of high protein feeds for mixing with your own feed.
