GARDEN CLUB MEETS AT WETZEL RESIDENCE

Mrs. J. F. Wetzel, Mrs. J. William Bradford and Mrs. J. M. Kirkpatrick entertained the Garden Section of the Woman's Club at the Wetzel home last Tuesday evening.

A paper on tomatoes by Mrs. George Heckman and one on geraniums by Mrs. Charles H. Light, comprised the program.

Plans were made at this meeting for a picnic June 9 at the George Heckman home.

These other members attended: Mrs. Frank V. Goodhart, Mrs. J. Harold Dursi, Mrs. Edgar Miller, Mrs. George Stover, Mrs. George Sweeney, Mrs. Charles A. Miller, Mrs. Frank P. Geary, and Miss Jennie Thomas.

GRADUATING CLASS IN EDUCATIONAL PAGEANT

The Centre Hall-Potter graduates under the direction of Mrs. Samuel Grove, class adviser, presented as a commencement program Tuesday evening, a colorful pageant, "Quo Vadis," depicting the improved educational opportunities at the present time as compared with those of other days.

This pageant was dedicated to the mothers and fathers of the class members. Among the scenes using special costumes and music were an Indian scene with Miss Barbara Potter singing "Indian Love Call," "School Days" sung by Miss LaRue Brooks and Guy Faust; "Ben Bolt," by Mary Ann Smith and George Ralston; a group of old-fashioned boys and girls depicted by Misses Joyce Bradford and Ruth Hackett, Ernest F. Frank and C. William Booser, Jr.; and an episode showing Civil War colonels, Eldon Whitman and William Puff, and their ladies, Misses Martha Spyster and Jean Hanna.

The characters of Wisdom and Vision played by John L. Rimmer, Jr. and Miss Betty R. Slack respectively, interpreted the scenes throughout for the group representing modern graduates.

The pageant ended with an episode in the traditional class day manner with Dean Ross as class prophet; Miss June Wagner, class poet; Miss Geraldine Rocky, statistician; and Miss Isabel Emery, class president, presenting the mantle to William Reese, junior class president.

Miss Martha C. Spyster and Eldon Whitman, honor students, appeared on the program as salutatorian and valedictorian, respectively.

F. Glenn Rogers, county superintendent, presented the diplomas near the end of the program, to the graduates whose names follow. Those marked with an asterisk comprise the honor roll based on the records for four years:

CLUB HEARS TALK ON PIPE ORGAN OPERATION

An explanation and demonstration of pipe organ fundamentals by Mrs. Delas R. Keener comprised the program at the May meeting of the Music Section of the Reformed church last Thursday evening.

The members convened at the home of Mrs. Chester A. Spyster for the business meeting and returned there after the program for refreshments. Election of these officers for next year followed a report of the nominating committee: president, Mrs. Chester A. Spyster, vice president, Mrs. Reuben S. Rickett, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harry Cooper, program chairman, Mrs. David I. Graybill, director, Mrs. William Campbell; and pianist, Mrs. D. R. Keener.

These members were present: Mrs. J. F. Wetzel, Mrs. J. Shannon Booser, Mrs. P. V. Goodhart, Mrs. Geo. K. Rimmer, Mrs. Graybill, Mrs. Rickett, Mrs. J. William Bradford, Miss Elizabeth Bartholomew, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Keener, Mrs. John B. Wert, Jr., and Mrs. Roy S. Jamison.

SENIOR PROM HELD IN ATTRACTIVE SETTING

In a setting of simulated twinkling stars, shrubbery and flowers, the Centre Hall-Potter Seniors, with many alumni and other guests, held their first formal social function, the "Senior Prom" in the school gymnasium Friday night.

Elaborate decorations for the dance included hundreds of gilded stars, suspended from the ceiling, arches and clumps of greens and artificial flowers, and garden-like settings for the refreshment booth and the orchestra.

Sheckler's band furnished the music.

These committees were in charge

10 OF 16 GRADUATES SLATED FOR SERVICE

Probably ten of the 16 boys in the Centre Hall-Potter graduating class will be in the U. S. armed forces before fall. Jack Riegel, who received his diploma in absentia, is now in the Army Medical Corps and is located near Salt Lake City. C. William Booser, Jr. has passed the examinations for the Navy V-12 Officer Training Program and will begin work as a Navy cadet soon. J. William Puff has been drafted and will leave for camp soon.

Three graduates, Donald R. Brouse, John L. Rimmer, and Robert S. Ross, have enlisted in the Army Air Corps and Ernest F. Frank has enlisted in the U. S. Marines. Three others, Marlin Fye, Fred Horner and Eldon Whitman, plan to enlist soon.

Miss Martha C. Spyster and George S. Ralston expect to enter Lock Haven State Teachers' College this fall, and Dean S. Ross plans to matriculate at Penn State. A number of the other graduates will be employed by the Sylvania Products Company in Mill Hall: Misses LaRue Brooks, Reida Faust, Ruth Hackett, Edith Meeker, Martha Mowery, Mary Ann Smith, and June Wagner.

REV. KIRKPATRICK IS BACCALAUREATE SPEAKER

"Redeeming the Time" was the subject of an address by the Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick to the Centre Hall-Potter graduates at their baccalaureate service Sunday evening in the Reformed church.

The senior class and faculty appeared in academic caps and gowns, marshalled by two Juniors, Miss Alta Miller and Donald Ross. Many undergraduates also marched in the procession.

The choir of the church and the organist, Mrs. Delas R. Keener, furnished appropriate music for the occasion.
