non-essential purposes. Such complaints must be signed by the person making the complaint.

Although this system results in a return to the "paying" system in force before the "honor system" was tried without success, OPA agents explained that the gasoline situation is so acute that the end justifies the means.

Tremendous amounts of gasoline are being shipped from the east to aid the war in Europe, and this vital flow, which means the continuance of air raids and possibly an invasion, cannot be reduced or halted, it was explained. Additional burdens on the eastern supply of gasoline were imposed by the floods in the mid-west. The "Big Inch" pipeline was broken by flood waters and has not been repaired because of high waters. Similarly, rail transportation is crippled by floods, and most of the fuel reaching the east has to be re-routed to avoid flooded areas.

Conditions under which gasoline may be used legally have been given wide publicity, but an OPA spokesman gave a brief rule which can be used with considerable safety. The rule is: "When in doubt—don't."

Here is a brief resume of the new regulations:

"A" books may be used for occupational driving, irrespective of the availability of other modes of transportation. A concerted drive is being made against the misuse of "B" and "C" cards.

All other driving on "A" books is restricted to necessary driving for which there is no other adequate alternative transportation.

Here are some of the reasons why you may drive only if other transportation is inadequate:

1. To seek an apartment or home—but not a summer home.
2. To have a car repaired or serviced at the nearest service station.
3. To visit cemeteries—only if custom amounts to a religious rite. You can't drive to the cemetery to cut the grass, clean up the lot, put flowers on graves. You may drive to attend regularly scheduled Memorial services.
4. To attend church services—but not social functions in church.
5. For construction and repair work on home or property if such work is essential and the need immediate.
6. For jurors, lawyers, witnesses, bailiffs, etc., to attend court.
7. To put your car in storage—but you can't drive an unreasonable distance.
8. You can deliver your car if you have sold it.
9. You can drive in any emergency involving serious threat to life, health or valuable property.
10. To attend graduation ceremonies. You can't drive to school or college to bring your son or daughter home.
11. Funerals.
12. To transport invalids or disabled persons if doctor certifies such driving is absolutely essential to such person's health or recovery.
13. To take persons to and from doctor, or hospital—and animals to veterinarian.
14. Moving, where such property cannot be shipped by public carrier.
15. Meetings—if attendance is essential to or part of occupation or profession.
16. To donate blood to Red Cross, roll bandages, Red Cross committee meetings.

Gas Ban Closes Paradise Here

too old, nor too lazy to walk, feel that the Pennsylvania Fish Commission has dealt us a very great injustice in closing Fishermen's Paradise.

"We know the Centre county fisherman was out in the cold as far as the Paradise was concerned. Even though they did take the best part of our dream for the project, we never dreamed of being fully deprived of fishing in the project when it was finished. Closing of the project means taking away from us one of the things that is being fought for today—Freedom.

"We feel the Paradise should be reopened for the remainder of the season, so any who care to walk, or to get to it by other legal means of transportation, can fish as before."

It is claimed that more than 300 names have been signed to the petition to date.

In closing the nursery last week the Fish Commission said it would be reopened if the gasoline ban was lifted later in the season.

Figures for the brief season were as follows: The 2,760 anglers who visited the nursery this year caught a total of 4,800 fish, of which 1,250 were killed. The catch was the largest ever recorded in the opening week.

The largest trout taken was a 25-inch brownie weighing 6½ pounds. The largest brook trout measured 18½ inches and weighed 3 pounds, and the largest rainbow was a 23-inch, four-pounder.

Last year a total of 27,000 days were fished under Paradise rules, which allows an individual up to 5 days during the season.

And so ended the 1943 season at Fishermen's Paradise—a hapless victim of World War II.

Jerry Galaida Seeks Office

Bellefonte Police Officer Candidate For Nomination as Sheriff

John Jerry Galaida, since 1917 a resident of Bellefonte, and for the past several years a member of the Bellefonte borough police force, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Sheriff of Centre county.

Mr. Galaida has had a varied career, including coal mining, military and police service, and operating a successful business. He was born in Wilkes-Barre on April 6, 1894 and during his youth was employed there in the anthracite coal mines. He then served an enlistment in the 9th Infantry Regiment, Pennsylvania National Guard, and when he became of age enlisted in the Regular Coast Artillery, from which he received an honorable discharge at the expiration of his enlistment period.

Galaida then enlisted in the Pennsylvania State Police and served as a Corporal in that organization until World War I, when he was made a lieutenant in the Artillery. After the Armistice was signed he became a resident of Bellefonte and was appointed as a guard at Rockview penitentiary.

Two years later he resigned that post to accept an appointment as a guard for the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company and after some time in that position returned to Bellefonte to accept a post as night watchman in the First National Bank here. From there he entered into business for himself, opening a coal and poultry market in Bellefonte. Later he added a milk route which he conducted successfully for 19 years. Upon disposing of the business several years ago he became a member of the borough police staff.

Galaida's son, Sgt. John F. Galaida, who was a partner of his father in the milk business, enlisted in the U. S. Marines and now is serving in the Solomon Islands.

Since Mr. Galaida feels that the use of hard-pressed gasoline to travel about the county to call upon the electors might endanger the lives or safety of our armed forces overseas, he realizes that he will be unable to contact a great many of the county's voters.

He has set forth his qualifications simply and clearly and asks that his candidature be given consideration. He pledges if elected to the high position to which he aspires, to carry out the duties of the office to the best of his ability, humbly and gratefully.

register and where farmers needing help may apply for workers.

The office space in the Bush Arcade, West High Street, Bellefonte, was contributed by Mrs. George B. Thompson and is to be opened next Tuesday, with Ralph Dale, local high school teacher, in charge.

Mr. Blaney also pointed out that if the farm work is to be completed on schedule it will be necessary for youngsters to help. He declared that boys of 10 or 12 years of age can be taught to operate tractors and some other machines as well as older persons, thus releasing older persons for the more difficult tasks.

The speaker also explained plans being made to have industrial and other non-agricultural workers volunteer for a day's work occasionally during rush periods on the farm.

Begins Training In Women's Corps

Life in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps began for Auxiliary Ruth V. Footman of Bellefonte, when she arrived recently at the Second WAAC Training Center, Daytona Beach, Florida, to begin her basic military training. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl K. Footman.

Her first three days were spent in "Tent City," a settlement of 80 canvas tents bordering the Kalfixa river. During this period she was given a physical examination, issued her uniform and equipment and interviewed and classified for her assignment to the army job that will release a soldier for combat duty.

Auxiliary Footman was then transferred to the cantonment area, a 600-acre tract developed for the initial training of WAAC troops. Assigned to a training company which numbers 150 women, she is billeted in a pine barracks and is getting accustomed to sleeping on a canvas army cot.

A WAAC's day begins with reveille call at 5:45 a. m. From 8 to 4:30 each day she attends classes where she is acquainted with army methods and procedures which she will need to know before she replaces a man in a military job. Not all the emphasis is on books, however; close order drill and physical training have their place in the daily schedule.
